BY O. A. MATHER.

The Chicago banks will give their support to President Hoover's plan for a $500,000,000 nation-financing pool to relieve "distress" in credit re-sources. This was announced yesterday after conferences of bankers in the down-town institutions at a meeting of the clearing house committee of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank and preliminary steps were taken to set up a regional organization in the Chicago federal reserve district.

O. M. REYNOLDS.

As a result of the meeting all the Chicago banks that are members of the system will hold a meeting next Monday morning to vote for-mally on the plan, complete the dis-tribution of organization, and pledge the final subscriptions that the banks have agreed to the general pool.

Make One Condition.

However, Chicago bankers wish to be informed on one detail not yet made clear. They want assurance that funds subscribed in the Chicago federal reserve district, which em-braces Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Wiscon-sin, and Michigan, shall be used only in making loans in this district. In-asmuch as the loans will be guaran-teed by the subscribing district banks, they do not want to be called on for funds until loans they have recom-mended are approved and then they want the money to be used for such loans.

Back Pool Unanimously.

The clearing house committee acted unanimously to recommend to the Chicago Clearing House associa-tion that it should support the bank pool plan," explained George M. Reyn-olds, chairman of the committee and also chairman of the executive com-mittee of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. "In accordance with our action we are sending out today a call for a general meeting of the banks next Tuesday to vote on the proposal and to elect a committee to act in this federal reserve district. The clearing house committee is giving its hearty approval of the plan and believes it should meet with full support by the banks in the Chicago district. We believe the plan is very constructive and will do much to re-store the banking situation and to re-establish public confidence in the banks. Personally, I am convinced that it is a sound and constructive plan and that it should be ex-tended."

Federal Committee Meetings.

The committee meeting also was at-tended by Arthur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois; Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First Na-tional group, and Harold V. Amberg; Frank E. Otis, co-chairman of the Central Republic Bank and Trust com-pany, and C. C. Haffner, vice presi-dent; Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company; Albert H. Wetten, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, and Frank O. Wetten, vice president; Earle H. Reynolds, president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, and Robert J. Dickson, vice president; and Gov Lawrence B. McDougal and Chairman

BOSTON WELCOMES AIMEE BY INVITING HER TO HELP CHARITY

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton walked into the city hall today and was given a warm reception, an Irish shillelah, and a surprise, a suggestion that she turn over half the proceeds of her Boston Garden revival start-ing tomorrow, to the city's poor.

"Texas Guinan has promised to, I hope you will do likewise," said Mayor James M. Curley.

"I will if you will take up the col-lection," replied "Sister Aimee," as she prefers to be called.

Later, when she had gone, Mayor Curley formally announced that the evangelist had agreed to turn over half the net proceeds to the city's pub-lic welfare department.

Aimee's reaction to this announce-ment, when she heard of it at the hotel, indicated she thought his honor had "shot over a fast one."

"Oh, for goodness sake," she ex-claimed, "I think he was misquoted."

The vote in the senate was 9 to 5. The house passed it 42 to 7. Combina-tion votes of Democrats and Repub-licans in both houses made the passage of the resolution possible.

Find Heiress Stricken; Hold Husband of 17

Mrs. Florence O'Shea Foley, 34 years old, who inherited a fortune es-timated at nearly $500,000 less than a year ago, was taken to the Hen-rotin hospital late last night after she was found in a critical condition in a room in the North Park hotel at 1937 North Park avenue.

For several hours physicians were unable to diagnose her ailment, but early this morning Dr. Otto Schwartz of 5027 Sheridan road said that she was suffering from an overdose of sleeping medicine and a "mixture of alcohol." He said she would recover.

Earlier, Lieut. Charles Egan of the Hudson avenue station, after investiga-tion of Mrs. Foley's past life, took into custody her 17 year old husband, Charles Foley, and two friends, Ar-mond Parquin, 19 years old, and Wal-ter Krohs, 27, of 2245 North Halsted street.

Relative Tells Story.

It was learned that the Foleys had been married Sept. 11 at Crown Point, Ind. A relative of the heiress told Lieut. Egan he feared she was dis-sipating her fortune. According to his story, she and her sister, Edna, had been left an estate which included a sixteen story apartment building at Glenwood and North Shore avenues, valued at $155,000, and other large real estate holdings in Niles Center. Mrs. Foley came into possession of the en-tire fortune on the death of her sister.

Recently, it was said, she bought a new automobile. Parquin was engaged as chauffeur. He introduced her to Krohs and the latter introduced her to young Foley.

Quarrels with Husband.

Following the marriage the hus-band and wife are said to have quar-reled frequently, particularly about attentions which Krohs continued to pay to the heiress. Mrs. Foley left the apartment where she and her husband lived, at 1033 Loyola avenue, only a few days ago, and took up her resi-dence in the North Park hotel.

Foley asserted that his wife had de-ceived him about her age when they were married. He added they had quarreled frequently.

"She slapped me the day we were married and I slapped her back," he said. "She seemed to be moody near-ly all the time and frequently took large doses of sleeping medicine."

Krohs discovered Mrs. Foley ill last night. She was unconscious when he entered her apartment, and he first called his mother. When she arrived other residents of the hotel suggested that Mrs. Foley be taken to the Hen-rotin hospital.

Mrs. Foley was taken later to St. Joseph's hospital. Dr. Bert Woods, 2000 Lincoln Park West, who was called in to attend the heiress on Thursday, was questioned at the po-lice station. He said he had pre-scribed only a harmless drug for head-ache.

From Susie Withers, a colored maid who had been employed by Mrs. Foley, the police learned that she had been taking large quantities of strong medi-cines. Krohs told Assistant State's At-torney Charles Bellows that he had often prepared food for Mrs. Foley.

NOTRE DAME AND N. U. CLASH FOR CHARITY TODAY

75,000 to See Annual Classic.

Leading football games today besides the Notre Dame-Northwestern contest follow:

Illinois vs. Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.

Chicago vs. Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Wisconsin vs. Alabama Poly at Madison.

Ohio State vs. Vanderbilt at Colum-bus.

Yale vs. Georgia at New Haven.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Seventy-five thousand people, the largest crowd that will witness a foot-ball game anywhere today, will as-semble this afternoon at Soldiers' field for the struggle between North-western and Notre Dame.

Aside from the natural rivalry which has drawn thousands to pre-vious Northwestern-Notre Dame games, today's gridiron battle is sig-nificant because of what it means to charity.

Confident that the transfer of the site of the game from either Evans-ton or South Bend to Soldiers' field would greatly increase the receipts, trustees of Northwestern last year advanced $100,000 to the joint com-mission on unemployment. This mon-ey expended last year did a great deal toward alleviating suffering of the poor. The $100,000 will be repaid to Northwestern from today's receipts. Should the crowd be larger than 80,000 an additional amount will be turned into charity coffers for present use by the governor's commission.

Game Begins at 2 O'Clock.

The kickoff in the game, rated as by far the most important on today's national gridiron schedule, will take place at 2 o'clock.

From then until two hours later ad-vance indications are for one of those desperate, determined contests which have made the annual meeting of Wildcats and Irish an outstanding middle western event.

Northwestern's cause is vindication of the defeat o. a year ago, when most of the team and all its rooters thought victory should have been at-tained; of Reb Russell, injured full back, who will view the affair from the sidelines; of taunts that the boys from South Bend always are smarter and more resourceful.

"Rock Wants This Game."

Notre Dame's cause goes even deeper on the emotional side. It is memory of the late Knute Rockne, beloved coach who placed Notre Dame on the highest national gridiron pe-destal. "Rock Wants This Game," placarded on the South Bend dressing room, will be augmented by a player spirit of "Let's do it for Rock." The name of George Gipp has endowed past elevens with this same spirit.

So spectators at Soldiers' field this afternoon will see two great elevens, both depleted by an absence of 1930 stars, but those holes filled by de-pendable replacements, battling with all the skill which Coaches Hanley and Anderson, the latter in the diffi-cult rôle of carrying on for Rockne, can impart so early in the season.

Purple Plans Tribute.

They will see, in addition, young men, naturally alert and keen and powerful or they would not hold those places, battling with a zeal which may be likened to that of crusaders.

Tribute to Rockne also will be shown by Northwestern undergrad-uates and partisans. As the bands play "The Star Spangled Banner" just before the opening kickoff, an American flag will be hoisted on the flagpole. Then this flag will be low-ered to half-staff, a Northwestern bu-gler will sound taps, and the North-western band will wheel into forma-tion to spell out the letters R-O-C-K-N-E as it faces the Notre Dame rooters in the east stands.

75,000 to See Game.

Advance sales indicate that 75,000 persons will be present. Twenty thousand seats still are available and will be placed on sale at Soldiers' field ticket booths this morning where sales will continue until game time. Included in this throng will be prac-tically the entire Notre Dame student body of 3,100 and 7,000 holders of Northwestern student books. The residue of the crowd will comprise alumni, followers and the great pub-lic which enjoys keen football.

Northwestern students this morn-ing will hold an auto parade, expected to rival in number of cars that which celebrated the conference title tie. Most

$500,000 in Her Pocket Since 1907

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A $500,000 package of fifty $10,000 bills was found today in a secret pocket in the clothing of Mrs. Ida E. Wood while she slept late. The bills were old, the brown paper in which they were wrapped was faded to yellow and the dress into which the pocket was sewn was of a forgotten mode. There is no evidence against the belief that Mrs. Wood had kept this fortune on her person since the 1907 panic.

This find was revealed by Otis F. Wood, nephew and guardian of the 93 year old women, who is living in rooms of the old Herald Square hotel. The first discovery of a hoard several days ago consisted of $247,000 in cash found hidden in paper parcels, dresses, and linen. These and other funds set the total figure of her fortune as now known at $908,388, but other valuables not yet appraised may lift this total beyond $1,000,000.

Jewels and Fine Laces.

For this belle of a former New York generation, who for the last five years has not stirred from her two rooms in the old Herald Square hotel, has five great trunks filled to bulging in her bedroom. Somewhere in these the contents of twelve jewel boxes are believed to be hidden. She has four-teen other trunks in a warehouse, some of which, it is believed, are filled with fine old lace.

Great bolts of laces found in her room, that must have been gathered when, as the rich wife of Benjamin Wood, a former congressman and newspaper owner, she traveled in Italy, Ireland, and Spain, have al-ready been examined by experts and pronounced "museum pieces."

It is believed she had at least $100,-000 worth of jewelry. One curious fact is that the precious stones have nearly all been removed from her rings and bracelets. Her nephews be-lieve she hid these diamonds, rubies, and pearls precisely as she hid her cash, and that eventually they will come to light. The old files of news-papers recording the social events when Prince Edward was here tell of the jewels she once owned and which she has had no reason since to sell.

How Discovery Came.

The $500,000 was found in her pocket after one of her two day nurses had observed her make a swift movement as though to protect something in her dress. The nurse told Mr. Wood, the nephew, of this, and he suggested that after his aunt had fallen into her usual afternoon nap a cautious search be made of her clothing.

The nurse followed the suggestion, and late in the afternoon drew a can-vas bag from a secret pocket in Mrs. Wood's clothing. She took it to Mr. Wood in an adjoining room. He opened the bag and found the fifty $10,000 bills wrapped in five brown paper packages.

Fearful of exciting his aunt, he put slips of paper in the bag and told the nurse to replace them in the hidden pocket. Twenty minutes later the money was deposited to the credit of Mrs. Ida E. Wood in the Harriman National bank.

Withdrawn in 1907 Panic.

I. J. Burke, now of the Guaranty Trust company, recalled today where at least some of Mrs. Wood's cash came from. During the 1907 panic, he said, many banks tried to embarrass depositors withdrawing money by clos-ing accounts totaling thousands of dollars by payment in small bills.

The Morton Trust company, by which Mr. Burke was employed, closed out accounts with bills of large denom-ination. He said he remembers that Mrs. Wood made a withdrawal and was paid in bills of large denomina-tion. He did not say, however, how much money was paid to her.

Otis F. Wood is one of four nephews of Mrs. Wood, the others being Wash-ington Wood, Henry A. Wise Wood, and Benjamin Wood. Her husband was a brother of Fernando Wood, once mayor of New York.

Still in Good Health.

"Although we are keeping four nurses for her, two in constant at-tendance, she is really in quite good health and good spirits," Otis Wood said.

Questioned as to whether Mrs. Wood really could hear a radio, or see a talking picture, he said that his ex-perience was that she can hear if she really wants to and see all she wants to see.

"She is small, you know, and can move very quickly when she wants to. She has an amazing strength."

$25,000 Estate of Cat to Be Sold at Auction

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The $25,000 estate of the late Mitzi, the world's wealthiest cat, will be auc-tioned off next Monday in suburban San Gabriel. When Mitzi died intestate last April, she left not only a home, and household furnishings valued at $10,000, but a fund of $15,000 as well. The property and money were willed to Mitzi by her mistress, Dr. Maude Cain, who died in October, 1930. Mitzi was 13 years old.

HIGH SPENDING OF GANG CHIEF SHOWN IN COURT

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Al Capone received $80,000 in West-ern Union money orders while he was living in his exotic home on Palm island, Miami, Fla., in 1928 and early in 1929, according to evidence presented by the government yester-day in Capone's trial for evasion of the income tax laws before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Most of this money was sent from the gang chief's Chicago headquarters at the Lexington hotel. The money went to him under the alias of Al-bert Costa, and many of the orders were cashed for him by Parker Hen-derson, son of a former mayor of Miami, who was questioned in New York in 1928 concerning purchase of guns for Capone, in connection with the grand jury inquiry into the death of Frank Yale [Uale], Brooklyn gangster.

Identifies Remittances.

John Fotre, manager of the West-ern Union office in the Lexington ho-tel, the last witness yesterday, testi-fied concerning some of these re-mittances to Capone, identifying one order as having been sent by Sam Guzik, brother of Jack Guzik, Ca-pone's business associate in "the or-ganization" from which Capone drew an income of at least $260,000, accord-ing to his own lawyer's statement to the internal revenue department in 1930.

Further evidence along this line will be given this morning, for Judge Wilkerson ordered a Saturday session of court until noon. The case will take at least another week to com-plete.

An authentic and intimate picture of the gangster's life in Florida, where some of the citizens wanted to get rid of him and others wanted to sell him real estate, and at the Metropole hotel in Chicago, where he lived a well guarded life under the name of "Mr. Ross," might be written from the vari-ous stories of the government wit-nesses yesterday.

Documents Support U. S. Case.

The case against Capone, which has been in preparation since Oct. 18, 1928, was carefully presented by the assistants of United States Dis-trict Attorney George E. Q. Johnson. It was backed up by documents in the way of Western Union orders, hotel records, and photographs of notorious gangsters with whom Ca-pone surrounded himself.

Capone's expenditures, the evidence showed, averaged about $1,500 a week. Whether the fact that he had this money is legal proof of a taxable in-come remains for argument by the attorneys and the decision of the jury. The jurors, many of them country town men and ex-farmers, unused to large sums of money, listened with absorbed interest to the tales of Al's munificence.

He was pictured once as peeling a $500 bill from a roll and tossing it to a hotel clerk to settle his bill. An-other time he took $3,000 from an-other roll and paid a bill at the Metro-pole, which included part of the ex-penses of a banquet which Capone gave after the Dempsey-Tunney fight. This was a banquet that lasted two days.

Has the Best in Hotel.

Capone had about eight rooms at his disposal at the Metropole, the wit-nesses from there said. He lived in the best suite, with office, lounge, and bedrooms at his disposal. He kept extra rooms at the disposal of any guests that he happened to invite, and the people seen in his rooms included a roster of many high in Chicago gangland.

At his Palm island place, which he bought in Henderson's name and later transferred to his wife, May Capone, he built a $4,000 swimming pool and spent $2,000 on walls and iron gates. The lighting fixtures cost $500.

This place is not far from the house where Herbert Hoover, as President elect, spent several weeks in the lat-ter part of January, 1929, at about the same time Capone was there. It lies between Biscayne bay and the ocean, a flat, tropical island, shaded with palms and pines, adjacent to the larger island, Miami Beach, which is inhabited only by the wealthy and fashionable of the winter colony.

Tells of Miami Parley.

Vernon Hawthorne, state's attorney of the Eleventh circuit in Dade coun-ty, Florida, in 1928, was the first wit-ness to go into this phase of Capone's life. Late in July, 1928, he said, after the rumors that Capone had bought a home in Miami had been verified by the filing of the deed of transfer to Mrs. Capone, a conference of officials was called in the office of the Dade county solicitor, Robert R. Taylor. The public was incensed at the gangster's presence in Miami and they were seeking some way to get rid of him.

They did not find a way, however, and no action resulted from the conference which was attended by the chief of police and other officials. Capone was called in.

Hawthorne said he drew from Capone the admission that he had an interest in a dog race track in Cicero and that his chief business was gambling.

Capone told the Miami officials he had given Mr. Henderson $50,000 in cash to buy his Florida home. He had been urged to buy a home on an island in the Bahamas, it developed, for $500,000, but refused to take it.

Henderson Is a Witness.

Henderson took the witness stand yesterday, after Hawthorne had been heard, and readily identified various money orders which had been sent to Capone under the Costa alias and which Capone had sent him to cash.

Henderson, who was owner and manager of the Ponce de Leon hotel at the time Capone and his gang occupied several rooms there in the winter of 1927-'28, said that a number of Miami Beach real estate men wanted to sell property to Capone, but that he and the mayor of Miami Beach thought they might as well get in and do this job themselves. So they did.

Henderson later came to Chicago to see Capone at the Metropole. He wanted more money to pay the workmen at the Miami house. He got the money and was entertained by Capone for several days. He described the rooms and said he saw Ralph Capone there, Jack Guzik, Fischetti, and Jack McGurn.

Scenes at the Metropole.

Hotel Metropole scenes were further described by McLean Smith, day clerk and cashier there, and Fred Avery, then the manager.

Smith said that Capone lived at the hotel from 1925 to the summer of 1928, and had a suite of five rooms which were used all the time and four rooms which were reserved for his guests and frequently occupied.

Capone always had three or four people with him, the clerk said. He was known as "Mr. Ross." Smith identified Capone in court. Capone, who had tossed him many "gratuities" in the old days, smiled at the clerk now from his seat behind his attorneys.

Mr. Avery recalled that Capone occupied about eight rooms and said the doors were guarded. He said he was admitted to the Capone rooms on one occasion, after the famous Dempsey-Tunney fight banquet, when he wanted to collect a bill.

The bill was for $6,000. Capone paid without protest.

A detailed account of the day's proceedings at the trial is given below.

THE MORNING SESSION

Judge Wilkerson announced from the bench when court convened in the morning that he had given further consideration to defense objections to the "Mattingly letter," a confession on behalf of Capone that he had received income of at least $260,000. This letter was written to the government by Attorney Lawrence P. Mattingly of Washington, D. C., who was employed by Capone in income tax matters.

"The government has granted authority to taxpayers to compromise their tax liability," said the court. "However, this letter was not presented to the revenue authorities in an effort to compromise the defendant's liability. It was an action taken by the defendant to obtain a definite assessment on his liability, with a view of paying it.

"There is evidence tending to show that the relation between the defendant and Mattingly was more than that between attorney and client—evidence tending to show that Mattingly was an agent who could speak for the defendant. The act of an agent, in such cases, is an act of the principal, whose mere instrument he is.

"Can't Limit Use of Statements."

"The letter began by stating that it was submitted without prejudice to the taxpayer in connection with any action that might have been instituted, but the defendant could not limit the use of statements made by Mattingly, any more than he could limit the use of his own statements.

"The court will adhere to the ruling already made, and the letter may be read to the jury, with the exception of the paragraph relating to the bodyguard."

The jury was called in and Assistant United States Attorney Samuel G. Clawson read the Mattingly letter into the record. Both Capone and his counsel sat still, in an attitude of silent resignation. The latter was published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday.

"Gentlemen of the jury, before I forget it, you must be very careful not to permit any one to speak to you about this lawsuit. If any person should attempt to communicate to you, come to the court at once and that person shall be properly dealt with."

The jurors listened attentively and nodded to the court.

Irey Takes the Stand.

Elmer L. Irey, chief of the special intelligence unit, bureau of internal revenue, Washington, D. C., was called to the stand by Prosecutor Clawson.

Q.—When were you authorized to begin an investigation into the income tax affairs of the defendant, Alphonse Capone? A.—Oct. 18, 1928.

Q.—When did you meet Lawrence F. Mattingly? A.—On May 23, 1930. He had called me up and said he wanted to consult with the office about the Capone case.

Q.—What conversation took place? A.—He said he was desirous of cooperating with the government, but didn't want anything used for criminal action. I told him we didn't want anything with the understanding that it couldn't be used for whatever purpose we saw fit.

Florida Lawyer Questioned.

The next witness was former State's Attorney Hawthorne from Florida. He was examined by Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

Q.—Do you know the defendant? If so, point him out. A. [pointing at Capone]—The third man at that table.

Q.—Did you ever have a conversation with the defendant? A.—Yes, in the office of the Dade county solicitor, Robert R. Taylor, at Miami, between July 15 and Aug. 15, 1928. Mr. Taylor arranged the appointment and called me in.

Q.—Tell us about that conversation. A.—Capone and a partner of his came in. Mr. Taylor said he wanted to talk to Capone about what he proposed to do in Miami. Capone said he was there to rest. I asked him what his business was, but his attorney objected.

"I said," the witness continued, "that if we couldn't ask the man what we pleased the conference was off, so far as I was concerned.

Capone Admits Gambling.

"Capone said: 'I'll answer the question. I am in the cleaning business, in Chicago.'

"'What else?' I asked.

"'I am also in the real estate business,' he said.

"'As a matter of fact,' I asked, 'aren't you in the gambling business?'

"'I have an interest in a dog track in Cicero,' he said.

"'As a matter of fact, isn't gambling your chief occupation?' I asked.

"Capone hesitated, and said, 'Yes, it is.'"

After a brief cross-examination by Defense Attorney Michael Ahern, Hawthorne was excused.

STENOGRAPHER ON STAND

The next witness was Miss Ruth Gaskin, a Miami stenographer, who testified against Capone in his trial for contempt of Federal court last spring. In this case Capone was found guilty of evading a federal grand jury subpoena on the plea that he was ill in Florida and was sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Wilkerson. The gang chief has appealed this sentence.

Capone smiled when Miss Gaskin took the stand. The jurors leaned forward, with their hands to their ears, for she spoke in a low voice. Prosecutor Green questioned her.

Q.—When did you first see the defendant? A.—In the office of the Dade county solicitor at Miami on Feb. 14, 1929.

Whispers went around the courtroom, for this was the date of the famous Moran gang massacre on North Clark street.

The purpose of this second interview with Capone, in the office of the Dade county solicitor, was not read into evidence, but it was ascertained that the conference was in connection with the Yale (Uale) murder in New York. While staying at the Ponce de Leon hotel Capone had given Parker Henderson money with which to purchase twelve guns, it is charged. One of these guns had killed Yale.

The Examination Continues.

The questioning of Miss Gaskin went on:

Q.—Do you have your notes of the conversation that took place? A.—I do.

Mr. Green then read questions and answers from a transcript, and Miss Gaskin verified them. County Solicitor Taylor was questioning Capone. The excerpts from Miss Gaskin's transcript ran as follows:

"SOLICITOR TAYLOR—Do you remember what time it was you first met Parker Henderson?

"CAPONE—About two years ago.

"Q.—That was when he was running the Ponce de Leon hotel? A.—Yes.

"Q.—Can you remember who was staying there with you that winter? A.—I don't like to disclose their names unless you tell me what this is all about."

Here Attorney Albert Fink of Capone's counsel interrupted Prosecutor Green's reading. "I object, your honor," he said, "on the ground that this was not a volunteer hearing."

"It is taking on the character of the Spanish inquisition," said Mr. Ahern.

"She has not detailed any paraphernalia of the Spanish inquisition," said the court. This brought laughter but not from the country town jurors.

The Reading Goes On.

"SOLICITOR TAYLOR—Give us the names of the men who stayed there with you?

"CAPONE—I don't remember them.

"Q.—Did you ever know Nick Sorelli, Rocco De Grazio and Jimmy Moran? A.—No.

"Q.—Has Nick Sorello been staying out at your home? A.—He has been with me, yes. I know Sorello, but I don't De Grazio.

"Q.—You had room 804 at the hotel. Didn't Sorello have room 803? A.—I don't know.

"Q.—Under what name did you register? A.—My own name.

"Q.—You didn't use the name of A. Costa? A.—No.

"Q.—You were getting money sent to you under the name of A. Costa; didn't you ever send Parker Henderson to the Western Union office to get it for you? A.—No.

Henderson and the Money.

"Q.—Then Henderson never got any money for you? A.—Well, he did when I bought my home.

"Q.—You left money with Henderson, $1,000 to $5,000 at a time, didn't you? A.—I don't remember.

"Q.—You didn't receive any money by Western Union from Chicago? A.—I don't remember, I'll try and find out.

"Q.—Then you keep a record of your money transactions? A.—Absolutely.

"Q.—You met Henderson at the Metropole hotel in Chicago, didn't you? A.—Yes.

"Q.—How long has Dan Serritella, (Illinois state senator and former city sealer of Chicago) been living with you? A.—He's not living with me. He's just a friend of mine.

"Q.—Did you give Henderson any money in Chicago? A.—No.

"Q.—How much did you give him to buy your home? A.—Fifty thousand dollars.

"Q.—Was that in cash? A.—Yes.

Says H 's a Gambler.

"Q.—What is your business? A.—I'm a gambler. I play the race horses.

"Q.—Besides gambling you're a bootlegger, aren't you? A.—No, I never was a bootlegger.

"Q.—Do you know Jack Guzik? A.—Yes.

"Q.—What is his business? A.—He fights.

Capone grinned at this phrase, which brought laughter from the spectators in the courtroom. The reading by Prosecutor Green went on:

"SOLICITOR TAYLOR—And you don't know of anybody who sent you money under the name of A. Costa?

"CAPONE—No.

"Q.—But you did receive it from Chicago? A.—That is correct, all of it comes from Chicago from my gambling business. (Capone shook his head dolefully at this point in the reading of Miss Gaskin's transcript.)

"Q.—Are you going to buy Cat Key? A.—I don't know, don't think I will get it.

A Key Is Identified.

"Q.—How much do they want for it? A.—Half a million. ('A key's an island, isn't it?' asked Mr. Fink. 'A key's an island,' said Mr. Green.)

"Q.—Who is Mitchell of Oak Park, Illinois? He called your home three times on the 20th? A.—He commissions money on race tracks for me.

"Q.—Did you get any money from Charlie Fischetti while you were staying at the Ponce deLeon? Henderson said you received various sums, from $1,000 to $5,000. A.—What has money got to do with it?"

This concluded the reading of the transcript by Prosecutor Green. Attorney Fink ascertained from Mr. Green, however, that all the transcript had not been read, and obtained permission to study the document before taking up the cross-examination of Miss Gaskin.

HOTEL CLERK EXAMINED

McLean Smith, the Metropole hotel clerk, was called to the stand and examined by Prosecutor Grossman.

Q.—When did Capone start living at your hotel? A.—In the early part of 1925.

Q.—How long was he there? A.—Until 1928.

Q.—Tell us about his rooms. A.—Well, we had a suite of five rooms, 406, 407, 408, 409, and 410. And on the sixth and seventh floors, he had guest rooms, 609 and 610, and 709 and 710.

Q.—Anybody with him? A.—Three or four people stayed with him and then he had visitors in the guest rooms.

Q.—I ask you if you ever saw these sheets? A.—I made them out. When they paid me money, I put it down.

Q.—Here's a record here for $1,500, dated March 25, 1927, for the rooms occupied by Capone, is that right? (Mr. Fink exclaimed: "Fifteen hundred dollars for one day!" The jurors appeared amused.)

Q.—How long was that for? A.—That was on account.

Registered as "Mr. Ross."

Q.—Under what name did Capone register? A.—Under the name of Mr. Ross.

Q.—Who was Kelly? A.—Well, he was Mr. Kelly. [More laughter. Kelly is a Capone bodyguard.]

Q.—Here's an entry for Mr. Ross, on Sept. 4, 1927, $150 for rooms and $650 for incidentals. Was that in cash? A.—Yes.

MR. FINK—I don't see that that's material if it's just an effort to show that the defendant spent money.

THE COURT—I suspect that's just exactly what it is. If there's money going out, there is a presumption that it is coming in.

$1,633 for Party of Friends.

Q.—Here's an entry for Mr. Ross on Sept. 28, 1927, an entry of $1,633. What was that for? A.—For a party of his friends.

Q.—Ever see Jack Guzik there? A.—Yes.

Q.—How would Capone pay his bills? A.—In cash, bills.

Q.—What denominations? A.—The ordinary denominations used by Uncle Sam. [Laughter.]

Q.—Well, how large? A.—O, $100 bills, sometimes $500 bills.

Q.—Ever see Al distribute any tips? A.—O, yes, he distributed small gratuities; sometimes he gave me small gratuities.

Q.—How much? A.—O, $5 or so. [The jurors turned to one another.]

The next witness was Fred Avery, former manager of the Metropole hotel.

Q.—Ever meet Capone at the Metropole? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many rooms did he have? A.—About eight.

Q.—Ever go in? A.—Yes.

Q.—How'd you get in? [Mr. Ahern objected. "It doesn't make any difference whether he fell in or slipped in," he said, and there was a titter.] A.—I rang the bell.

Q.—What did you want? A.—Money.

Q.—You got it, I suppose. How much? A.—Around $3,000.

Q.—Did he have much of a roll left? A.—Yes.

Q.—Ever see him again? A.—About once a week, when he paid his bill.

Q.—What did the bills average a week? A.—O, twelve to fifteen hundred.

Q.—Did he ever give any banquets? A.—Well, there was one after the Dempsey-Tunney fight that lasted two nights.

Q.—Did you get paid for it? A.—Yes, that was included in that $3,000.

At this point the court recessed for noon, with the witness still on the stand. The attorneys assembled at the bar and settled the question of the session today.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION

When court convened for the afternoon session at 2 o'clock Avery resumed the stand on cross-examination. Mr. Ahern had stepped from the courtroom and Mr. Fink had no questions to ask the government witness. Avery was excused.

Prosecutor Green then called Parker Henderson to the stand. Henderson testified that he had met Capone in January, 1928, in the hotel.

Q.—Who was present there at the time? A.—I was called to the defendant's room by a Miami man named George Downs, and I was introduced to a fellow named Nick Sorello, a fellow named De Grazio, and Mr. Capone. I was introduced to him as Al Brown, if I remember right. Mr. Downs said that they were some friends of his from Chicago, and that they were going to be there throughout the winter, and wanted me to take care of them.

Q.—Under what name was the defendant registered at the hotel? A.—Under the name of A. Costa.

Capone Listens Attentively.

The moment Henderson took the stand Capone dropped his semi-lethargic attitude and leaned forward, resting his elbows on the backs of his lawyers' chairs as he listened with strict attention.

Q.—Was there anything else said at this time that you first met the defendant? A.—Just a general conversation. Some time during the conversation Mr. Capone told me that his name was Al Capone.

The next day, Henderson said, he again saw Capone in his room and was invited to dinner in the defendant's home on Indian Creek drive that night. He went, he said.

Q.—How did you get over there? A.—I drove over in Mr. Capone's car.

Q.—What kind of a car was it?

Henderson hesitated, as though in thought, glanced fleetingly at Capone, then answered: "A black Lincoln sedan."

Q.—Who was present at the home for dinner that evening?

Names the Dinner Party.

There was another pause, then the answer: "Sorello's wife, Mr. Capone's wife, Sorello, Mr. Capone, myself, and I am not sure, but I think Denny Cooney and his wife were there." [Dennis Cooney is a Capone brothelkeeper in Chicago.]

Henderson saw Capone "practically every day throughout the entire winter," he testified.

Q.—Were you during this time ever in the defendant's room in the hotel when he transacted any business? A.—Yes.

Q.—What happened on those occasions? A.—I heard him call Chicago over long distance. After he had been there quite some time he used to call up a fellow by the name of Charlie.

Q.—Who was Charlie? A.—Charlie Fischetti. [Fischetti, a Cicero gambler, has figured often in the trial testimony as an intimate of Capone.]

Q.—What did Capone talk about? A.—I have heard him inquire in regard to the condition of Jack Guzik, who had a serious operation about that time. I remember he asked quite often how Jack was getting along.

His Business with Capone.

Q.—Did you have any business transactions with the defendant at any time? A.—Yes. It was along about the middle of January, 1928, that I handled some Western Union money transfers for him.

Q.—How did that come about? A.—Why, Mr. Capone called me to his room one afternoon and told me that he had some money at the Western Union under the name of Costa, and asked me to take Sorello to the Western Union and get this money for him.

Henderson agreed, he said. Prosecutor Green then produced a Western Union money transfer dated at Miami, Jan. 14, 1928, payable to Albert Costa and in the sum of $1,500.

Q.—State if you know who signed the name Alberta Costa on the back of that check. A.—I signed the name Albert Costa on the back of that check, but I tried to disguise my handwriting.

MR. FINK [rising]—A little louder, Mr. Henderson.

Mr. Ahern also stood up and asked that the last answer of the witness be read again. The shorthand reporter read it. Both lawyers sat down.

Identifies Money Transfer.

Henderson said he had received the money from the telegraph company employés and had given it to Sorello. Prosecutor Green then approached the witness stand with a sheaf of money transfers in his hand and began to repeat a formula which went on for about a quarter of an hour. He read notations from each transfer—the date, amount, name of the person to whom it was sent. In each case, Henderson answered that it had been sent to "Costa" and had been received either by him or Sorello. The money, he said, was turned over to Capone. Henderson indorsed most of the transfers, he said, writing the name, "Albert Costa."

As this recital progressed all in the courtroom except Capone seemed to lose interest. Capone engaged in whispered conference with his attorneys. The jurors relaxed in their chairs.

The Transfers Are Listed.

The money transfers identified and addressed to "Costa" totaled $31,000 and were sent in the following amounts in 1928:

Date.	Amount.	Date.	Amount.
Jan. 14	$1,500	Mar. 14	5,000
Jan. 22	1,000	Mar. 16	2,000
Feb. 7	1,000	Mar. 23	1,000
Feb. 10	1,000	Mar. 27	300
Feb. 14	1,000	Mar. 27	3,700
Feb. 21	1,000	Mar. 28	1,500
Feb. 25	1,500	Mar. 28	3,500
Mar. 2	1,500	Mar. 29	2,000
Mar. 9	1,500	April 2	2,000

Although it was not revealed in the testimony, Capone apparently went back to Chicago—or at least left Miami—early in April, for money orders began to flow into Henderson himself on April 12, 1928.

Q. [by Mr. Green]—Was there ever any money sent to you by the defendant in your name by way of Western Union telegraph? A.—Yes, sir, on a number of occasions.

Prosecutor Green then began his ritual of presenting money transfers all over again, but this time they were addressed to Henderson himself, save one which named "Albert Costa." They totaled $12,500 and the purpose of the payments, Henderson testified, was for "improvements" on Capone's Palm Island estate.

Defense Lawyers Object.

As Henderson finished identifying these transfers, Mr. Green offered all of them—both those addressed to "Costa" and to Henderson—in evidence. Attorneys Fink and Ahern jumped to their feet shouting objections.

MR. FINK—The payment of the money is no proof of its receipt.

MR. AHERN—I move to strike out the witness' testimony as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial.

THE COURT—Overruled.

Mr. Green began to draw from Henderson the story of the purchase by Capone of the home at 93 Palm Island, where the gangster and his family spend a good part of each year. His wife and mother came to Chicago from that Florida home for the trial, although they have not yet appeared in court.

Capone Buys a Home.

THE WITNESS—Some real estate agents called me at the Ponce de Leon hotel and wanted me to get in touch with Mr. Capone in regard to selling him some property. This was in March or April, 1928. I was closely connected with Mr. Newton Lummis, then mayor of Miami Beach, and I told him that these real estate men were figuring on selling Mr. Capone some property and asked him what he thought about it.

"Lummis said that if anybody sold Capone any property he and I should try," Henderson continued. "So I asked Al if he was interested in buying any property and he said he was, in buying a winter home. So we made an appointment with him and carried him out and showed him several places. This place on Palm Island he seemed to like very much. Later he told me he had decided to take it. He gave us money to put up the binder.

Q.—How much money did he give you? A.—Two thousand dollars, in cash.

The Deal Is Closed.

An abstract on the property was then drawn, said Henderson, and the deal was closed. Capone gave Henderson $8,000 to close it.

Q.—Were any papers signed by you in connection with this purchase? A.—Yes, sir. Mr. Lummis suggested that this property be bought in my name, and I signed $30,000 worth of notes and a mortgage.

Q.—How long did the property remain in your name? A.—For about five or six months.

Mr. Green established the date of the purchase as March 27, 1928.

Q.—Did you later execute any warranty deed in connection with the transfer of this property out of your name? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—To whom did the deed run that you signed? A.—To Mrs. May Capone.

Mr. Green asked the date of the signing of the deed.

Lawyers Wrangle Over Deed.

MR. AHERN—Has counsel got the deed?

MR. GREEN—Yes.

MR. AHERN—If counsel has the deed, that is the best evidence of it (the date). If he has the deed, why go through all this monkey business?

Mr. Green then produced the warranty deed. He offered it in evidence and once more the defense lawyers leaped to their feet.

MR. AHERN—The same objection, your honor. This is immaterial, incompetent, and irrelevant.

The objection was overruled and the deed went into evidence, being read to the jury.

HENDERSON VISITS CAPONE

Mr. Green then brought the admission from Henderson that he had visited Capone at the Metropole hotel in Chicago in May, 1928.

THE WITNESS—I went up to the desk [in the hotel] and asked to see Mr. Capone. I was told there was no one there by that name. I started to walk out and a fellow came up and asked me who I was, and I told him, and he said, "Just a minute, I will carry you up."

Q.—Who was that, please? A.—A fellow by the name of Kelly.

Henderson was taken to Capone's rooms on the fourth floor. On one side of a hallway Capone had a living room and a bedroom. Across the hall were an office, a dining room and another bedroom.

Q.—Who did you first meet upon entering this suite of rooms? A.—A fellow named Mops. [Probably "Mops" Volpe, a Capone gangster now fighting extradition from this country.]

Asks for Money for Estate.

Henderson told Capone the improvements on the estate were almost completed, he testified, but that he needed more money. He didn't remember if he had received more money at that time "or shortly after that."

Henderson stayed at the Metropole for several days, he said. He was asked whom he saw in Capone's room while there. Ahern objected to this, but was overruled.

THE WITNESS—I saw Rocco de Grazio, Ralph Capone, Jack Guzik, Charlie Fischetti, Jack [Machine Gun Jack] McGurn, and Rocky Fischetti. Rocky Fischetti was living in the same suite of rooms with the defendant.

Ahern Objects to Names.

MR. AHERN—I want to object, if your honor please, to the mention of these names unless counsel in some way promises that the persons so named have in some manner or other a connection with this defendant with reference to income tax.

THE COURT (to Mr. Green)—Do you expect to bring out a connection?

MR. GREEN—With the exception of possibly McGurn——

Mr AHERN—Then why did you have McGurn's name mentioned?

MR. GREEN—I am not doing the mentioning. The witness is doing that.

MR. AHERN [to the court]—I submit that counsel knew what names were going to come out.

THE COURT—What of it?

MR. AHERN—He has not any right to do that, to prejudice the jury, if that is what he did it for.

THE COURT—How is there anything in the giving of a list of names that would conceivably prejudice this jury against that man?

MR. AHERN—I don't know how extensively the jury may read the newspapers.

MR. GREEN—These are all persons, your honor, that this witness said he saw in the defendant's office.

THE COURT—They mean nothing to the court. I suppose they mean something to the jury. The United States attorney has said he proposes to show some connection between each of the parties named in some manner relating to the charge in the indictment. I must assume there will be evidence of that kind. If not, if you desire to have the testimony stricken out I will strike it.

$5,500 to Pay Workmen.

Turning again to Henderson, Mr. Green elicited the information that Capone had given him [Henderson] a total of $5,500 which he sent to his mother, Mrs. P. A. Henderson, in Miami, who in turn gave it to James Moran, caretaker at the Capone estate, for the payment of workmen and other expenses.

Then Green turned to the subject of Capone's entertainment for Henderson while the latter stayed at the Metropole. Capone took him to the dog track in "Cicero or Hawthorne," Henderson said.

Q.—Did you occupy a certain box at that dog track? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Tell us about that box. A.—It had the name Al Brown on the back of it.

The Cross-Examination.

Soon afterward the direct examination of Henderson was concluded. Mr. Ahern conducted the cross-examination. He asked if Capone had ever gone to race tracks in Miami with Henderson. The witness said Capone had not.

Q.—Well, did the defendant make bets over the telephone, to your knowledge? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Did he tell you in connection with these money orders that he was losing a lot of money on the races? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did he tell you that he was borrowing a lot of money? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You, of course, didn't know where this money came from? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You don't know whether it was borrowed or not? A.—No, sir.

Henderson was then excused.

Notes of the Day at Capone Trial

None of the Capone trial witnesses from Florida and elsewhere out of town has asked the marshal's office for protection, according to United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer. Each of them, however, has called for the $5 a day which the government allows them for expenses.

A gray haired man stepped up to the defense table as court adjourned yesterday and shook hands with Capone. As he left the room he was asked his name. "I'm Benjamin Bachrach, public defender," he said. "But I want it understood I came into court only to see Attorney Ahern. I'm no friend of the defendant."

Mrs. George E. Q. Johnson, wife of United States District Attorney Johnson, took a seat in the rear of the courtroom during the afternoon session. It was her first appearance in any courtroom.

In contrast with the items of $1,500 for room rent, $3,000 for a party, and $261 for incidentals, which the government showed Capone spent in the Metropole hotel over short periods, were two items of $2.15 and $2.75 for laundry.

No one can go past Joe Thony, who was made a special deputy to guard the courtroom door, unless he has a little white ticket signed by the marshal and printed, "admit to the Capone trial in the federal building," or unless other potent influence is brought to bear. Joe is an old timer, having served in the Carter Harrison administration as inspector of morals conditions, an office now extinct.

More than 100 persons a day apply to the marshal's office in the hope of getting in to see the trial. Charles Eade of the London Daily Mail yesterday persuaded Marshal Laubenheimer that London should be represented among the 50 reporters at the trial. One applicant was a journalist from Mexico.

The prosecutors' table is a long one. Twelve men, income tax experts, attorneys, and others, are seated there.

Miss Catherine Gaines, pretty brunette employé of the Western Union in Miami, who testified yesterday, didn't think the Capone trial much to come to Chicago for—even at government expense. "What do y'all do for excitement up here?" she asked reporters.

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley was a visitor in the court room in the morning. Dr. Werner Schuller, acting German consul, was another spectator.

Paul Reimery of Kell, Germany, gave a large memory book or something similar to a deputy and asked him to take it in to Capone and get his signature and tell him that Reimery was walking around the world. "I've signed too many things already," Capone told the deputy. "Tell him, 'no.'"

WOMAN TAKES STAND

Mrs. Ann McNeil of Miami, an employé of the Western Union company, took the stand. She was questioned by Assistant Attorney General William J. Froelich of Washington, a special assistant prosecutor in this case. Mrs. McNeil began to identify the money transfers already shown Henderson by Mr. Green. Mr. Ahern objected to the introduction of the testimony and said the defense did not doubt the validity of the checks.

THE COURT [to Ahern]—You claim it is immaterial in the case for the reason that proof of the exchange of these amounts of money is not evidence tending to prove that the defendant had any income? The court does not agree with you on that.

MR. FINK—That is not it exactly. We claim that the tax is on what you get and not what you pay.

The Court Does Not Agree.

THE COURT—And that what you pay is not even a circumstance tending to prove that you got something, even though you kept no books? [Capone kept no books, according to the evidence.]

MR. FINK—Not these times it is not.

THE COURT—The court does not agree with you as to the admissibility of the testimony. That is a circumstance in the view of the court which tends to prove that the defendant received some money or had some money.

MR. FINK [smiling]—Well, we will admit he had money. We will admit he had money and we will admit he spent money, and if the government will indicate how much he spent, why, so far as I am concerned, I might multiply that by eight and stipulate it as a fact in the case.

Another Woman Quizzed.

Mrs. McNeil was excused from the stand and Miss Catherine Gaines, branch manager for the Western Union in Miami, was called. She testified that many money transfer orders had been received at her office for the defendant and said that Capone had instructed her that the drafts were to be cashed and presented to any member of his household who called for them.

Q. [by Mr. Green]—Did he name the persons who were members of his household for whom you should cash money transfers? A.—Not particularly, but we knew who they were.

These, she said, were Frank Newton and John Moran, caretakers, and Capone's brothers, Albert, John, and Matthew.

Miss Gaines identified a number of transfers sent from Chicago and totaling $31,800, which were variously addressed to Capone, Albert Capone, Mrs. May Capone, and other members of the household.

This concluded the testimony of Miss Gaines and she gave way to Mrs. Lucille Cashell, another Miami Western Union employé, who identified additional transfers totaling $5,500, which were turned over to Capone and his family or servants. The money transfers identified by the Western Union employés were differentiated in the evidence from those identified in previous testimony as having been addressed to "Costa" and to Henderson.

FOTRE IS LAST WITNESS

The last witness of the day was John Fotre, the manager of the Western Union branch office in the Lexington hotel, Capone's present headquarters. Fotre, a small man, appeared ill at ease as he took the stand to answer Mr. Green's questions.

MR. GREEN—I show you government's exhibit 14-A which purports to be a money order dated July 2, 1928, addressed to Mr. Al Capone, Palm Island, Miami Beach, Florida, in the sum of $1,500, signed Sam Guzik, 301 East 24th street, telephone Calumet 4100, and ask you if you have seen that before?

THE WITNESS—Yes sir, I have.

Q.—Do you know who wrote "Mr. Al Capone, Palm Island?" A.—I take it the sender wrote it.

MR. FINK—Who?

MR. GREEN—Who was the sender?

A.—Sam Guzik.

Defense Raises Objection.

MR. AHERN—Wait a minute. Have the reporter read the last two questions and answers. (They were read.)

MR. AHERN—I move to strike out "I take it," unless he knows.

MR. GREEN—Do you know who sent that money order? A.—No, I do not.

MR. FINK—He said he thought it might be Sam Guzik or something of the kind, but he didn't know. That ought to go out, too.

THE COURT (to the witness)—Somebody sent the money? A.—Yes sir.

THE COURT—And who sent it? A.—I don't know.

THE COURT—Well, did the person whose name appears on there as sender send the money? A.—Not necessarily, your honor.

Fotre was clearly nervous. His eyes darted over the courtroom and his answers were jerky.

Closely Questioned by Judge.

THE COURT—Is there anything on that (the transfer) to indicate where the money came from that you transmitted by wire? You did not send money that somebody did not give you, did you? A.—No, sir, your honor, I did not.

THE COURT—What you mean when you say you do not know who the sender was is that you would not now be able to identify the sender, is that it? A.—Well, I could not say whether Sam Guzik himself brought that in or not. That is what I mean to say.

THE COURT—Is there a Sam Guzik? Do you know who he is? A.—I do not know; no, sir. I don't know him personally.

THE COURT—Somebody brought it in and sent it in his name, is that it?

There was no answer and Judge Wilkerson rose quickly from his chair, looked sternly at the witness and said:

"The jury may retire. We will take a recess until tomorrow morning. You think this over." This last was apparently directed at Fotre.

MAYOR SAYS HE WILL HAVE NOTHING MORE TO SAY OF CAPONE

Mayor Cermak let it be known yesterday that he will not discuss Al Capone or any of his lieutenants. "I have responded to telephone calls and cablegrams from Europe and have been interviewed here by foreign correspondents, but my answers are always misinterpreted."

The mayor talked with Commissioner of Police Allman for an hour in the morning. While neither would make a definite statement afterward, it was understood that they discussed the contemplated reorganization of the department. An office is now being prepared in the police building for Bruce Smith, New York police expert, who will act as an adviser while the changes are being made.

In an order issued last night Commissioner Allman transferred nine policemen from various stations to the stolen automobile division, and one sergeant, Robert C. Blum, from the miscellaneous division to the Robey street station.

Three Men, Woman Held to Jury for Beating Raider

Three men and a woman, involved in the beating up of Prohibition Agent Charles O. Kral in an alcohol cutting plant at 9353 Cottage Grove avenue early yesterday, were held to the grand jury on charges of violating the prohibition law and assaulting a federal officer. The four are Fred Morris, Harold Nixon, Fred Morrone, and Angelina De Mar, all of Blue Island. United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker fixed bonds of $10,000 for Morris and Nixon, $5,000 for Morrone, and $3,000 for the woman. Kral was rescued by fellow agents.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 10.—[Saturday.]—Anticipating trouble as a result of the bombardment by Japanese airplanes Thursday of the city of Chinchow, provisional captial of the Manchurian government, Japan is sending more warships and heavy reinforcements of marines and bluejackets to Chinese ports.

Japan now has 20 warships, including four cruisers, five destroyers and 11 river gunboats, in Chinese waters between Shanghai and Chungking. Besides their regular crews, these ships carry landing parties totaling 700 men.

The Chinese openly charged that the bombardment of Chinchow, in which 9 persons are reported to have been killed, was deliberately planned by Japan as a preliminary to driving the southeastern armies inside of the Great Wall of China.

Nanking Plans appeal to World.

Meanwhile, Nanking is preparing a declaration to the world, stating that Japan's action in stationing warships along the Chinese coast and in the Yangtze river is unwarranted, and that Japan must, therefore, accept responsibility for resulting hostile measures which might be taken by the Chinese.

An impression was current in Nanking today that Japan is goading China into an action or an utterance which Japan is eager to construe as a declaration of war, whereupon Japan will definitely seize the three Manchurian provinces and also Jehol province and a portion of inner Mongolia.

A similar impression prevails in Peiping, where Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, feels he is being deliberately robbed of the inheritance left him when his father, Marshal Chang Tso-lin, was slain.

China Gets Japanese Note.

Apprehension is felt that addresses incident to the observation of China's independence day today may provide Japan with her opportunity. Hence, steps were taken last night to warn speakers to use extreme caution.

Mamura Shigemitsu, Japanese minister, arrived at Nanking today aboard a Japanese cruiser and delivered Japan's note of warning, which, it is said here, was sent to provoke the situation by creating an atmosphere of apprehension. The note protests the anti-Japanese agitation in China and warns that China will be "held responsible for the consequences."

Report Chang to Press War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 10.—[Saturday.]—According to a reliable report from Mukden, Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, who is now in Peiping, within the next few days will issue a statement taking responsibility for the present troubles in Manchuria, will resign as vice commander in chief of the Chinese national army, navy and air forces, and start a final effort to mobilize Manchurian troops to encounter the Japanese on the battlefield.

Twenty thousand Chinese troops are reported to be stationed in and near Chinchow. They have 16 heavy guns and 72 light artillery guns, all modern. They were imported from France and are much superior to those of the Japanese.

It is reported that Marshal Chang has offered to turn over administrative matters in Manchuria to Gen. Tan Hsi-shan, former governor of Shansi province, so Chang can center his efforts on military movements.

Japanese Premier in Action.

The Japanese premier, Reijiro Wakatsuki, who hitherto has not devoted much attention to the Manchurian situation, apparently has cast off his lethargy and is taking the matter up earnestly. He conferred today with Gen. Jiro Minami, minister of war, to hear the latter's recommendations.

Premier Wakatsuki's change of attitude is attributed to the fact that the privy council, advisory body to the throne, urged him to make a deliberate study of the situation with a view to settling the question definitely. Accordingly, the premier is understood to have requested Baron Kijuro Shidehara, foreign minister, and Gen. Minami to submit concrete recommendations.

Minami's recommendations, according to the newspaper Nichi Nichi, represent the strongest attitude. They include, first, that Marshal Chang's regime be disavowed, and that, even though he surrenders his troops, his return to Manchuria be not countenanced; second, that the question of the withdrawal of Japanese troops should not be taken up for the time being; third, that at the outset of negotiations Japan should demand complete suppression of anti-Japanese feeling in China through the enacting of laws and regulations; fourth, that disputes over the Kirin, Changchun, and Taonan railways should be settled ahead of others.

U. S. May Intervene.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—The United States government is closely watching the Manchurian situation and is seeking an opening whereby it can properly intervene in the interest of a pacific settlement of the dispute between Japan and China.

President Hoover and members of the cabinet discussed the subject at today's cabinet meeting, and Secretary of State Stimson devoted the greater part of the day to a study of the situation.

The administration is impressed with the gravity of the crisis, is anxious to come forward on the side of peace, if possible, but is in a quandary at the present time to know how this can best be accomplished. In the end, it is expected, the most that this country can do will be to drum up world opinion and hope that this will have the correct effect on the disputants.

Expect More Stimson Notes.

It is probable that Secretary of State Stimson's notes of Sept. 23, calling on China and Japan to cease hostilities, will soon be followed by others of a similar tenor.

These notes, in turn, may be followed by requests to the other signatories of the Briand-Kellogg anti-war pact, urging them to join their influence with that of this country.

Such a course was urged today by Senator William H. King [Dem., Utah], who thought it time that the other powers signatory to the pact be reminded that their duty was to work for the renunciation of war and the peaceable settlement of disputes.

At the same time, members of congress hostile to American membership in the league of nations and to American representation on the world court were zealous to point to the Sino-Japanese crisis as an example of the league's futility as an instrument of world order.

It was indicated that the tale of events in Manchuria would be retold many times during the consideration of the world court issue at the approaching session of congress.

League Calls Urgent Meeting.

GENEVA, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Manchurian situation arising out of the bombing of Chinchow by Japanese airplanes will be discussed by the league of nations council in an urgent session called for next Tuesday.

The Chinese government appealed to the league today for the meeting. As many foreign ministers as possible are being sought to attend it.

The situation apparently was regarded as serious. Alejandro Lerroux, president of the council, addressed an urgent apepal to the governments of China and Japan to avoid aggravation of the situation.

Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, is expected to arrive in Geneva Tuesday morning for the urgent session.

China Makes Appeal.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese delegate, called on Secretary Drummond this morning, after receiving telegrams from the Nanking government, and requested the meeting. Sir Eric immediately telephoned to Señor Lerroux at Madrid and to other members of the council. The announcement then was made that the meeting, which had been fixed for Oct. 14, would be held a day earlier.

Soon after Dr. Sze's visit to the secretary, Prentiss B. Gilbert, American consul at Geneva, called at the invitation of Sir Eric and was given full information concerning the situation.

"Information we have received tends to show that incidents are taking place in Manchuria and elsewhere which cannot but embitter feeling and thus render a settlement more difficult," said President Lerroux's telegram to the Chinese and Japanese governments.

"It is my duty to remind the two parties of the engagements they have undertaken before the council to refrain from any action which would aggravate the situation, and to express the confident hope that steps are being taken by both sides to execute the assurances given to the council."

STATE WILL APPEAL MAL DAUGHERTY CASE INSTEAD OF RETRYING

Washington Courthouse, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Prosecutor Norman L. McLean of Fayette county announced tonight he would appeal to the Ohio Supreme court instead of ordering a retrial of Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct Ohio State bank, whose conviction of charges of mishandling bank funds was reversed today.

The prosecutor, whose decision was made during a conference with his special assistant, Louis J. Schneider, said he would file a motion asking leave to submit a petition in error in the Supreme court.

The Ninth District Appellate court at Akron granted a new trial to Daugherty, who was under sentence of ten years in prison and a fine of $5,000, on the grounds that there had been gross error in the admission of evidence in the trial, error in the charges to the jury, and that the judgment of the jury was against the manifest weight of the evidence.

The count charging Daugherty had misapplied credit of the bank should have been dismissed by the trial court, the Appellate court held.

Daugherty was discharged at Columbus today as a bankrupt on a petition filed in the United States District court.

COMMUNISTS IN BRITAIN TO SEEK COMMONS SEATS

Party Is Formed; Will Run 17 Candidates.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Another little political party came on the British scene today and now there are seven. Some say eight, but the best political judges declare the Liberal party is only split two ways, and not three. The so-called Independent Liberals, who follow neither Sir John Simon's National Liberals, who advocate a tariff, nor Sir Herbert Samuel's "old fashioned" Liberals, who are supporting the MacDonald ministry, are comprised of the three members of the Lloyd George family and one or two others, but are not big enough to be called a party, experts say.

The party announced today is the communist party. It is a real party, for it announced its intention to run 17 candidates, and gave their names. Three of them are women, and among the others is Shapursi Saklatvala, Parsee merchant, who once held a commons seat from Battersea, but was defeated in the last election.

Ishbel Stumps for Father.

Prime Minister MacDonald's headquarters was opened today at Seaham Harbor and his daughter, Ishbel, opened his campaign tonight with a speech in Leading hall. MacDonald himself went to Chequers today for a week-end rest. If the weather is good Monday, which is his 65th birthday, he will fly to Seaham and speak Monday evening. He announced that, as far as public business allows, he will spend all possible time during the election campaign in his constituency.

Ishbel made a fighting speech. She declared, "We are fighting as Labor people under the old colors of green and white." She met some interruption when she asserted that Seaham is going to show the country it has every confidence in its prime minister, a miner's voice interjecting, "I doubt it."

Lloyd George Attacks Election.

Lloyd George, who through illness is unable to take an active part in the election, in a statement tonight attacked the Conservative party leaders for deliberately provoking dissension to obtain a party advantage in fighting the election now. He characterized it as the "most wanton and unpatriotic election into which the country has ever been plunged." He urged a wider coöperation with Labor and support for all free trade candidates and unqualified opposition to tariffs.

A manifesto was issued in behalf of Sir Herbert and Liberal members of the national government tonight. It makes no definite promise regarding tariffs, but declares "it is imperative to secure a favorable balance of trade, by whatever methods, whether related to currency, expansion of exports, or restriction of imports, which might be found necessary and effective. We feel bound to declare our view that whatever emergency measures might be found necessary, the freedom of trade is the only permanent basis for economic prosperity and the welfare of the empire."

Oil Up Labor Machine.

Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labor party, returned to London today from Scarborough and began work oiling up and adjusting the Labor machine, of which he will be in charge during the election. He announced today that Labor intends to fight every seat in the country, whether it has a chance of winning or not, but he said nothing about where the funds are coming from.

The Labor party also issued a manifesto. It asserted that the late Labor government was sacrificed to the clamor of bankers and financiers, and reaffirmed the party's conviction that socialism is the only solution for the present crisis. It attacked the banking and credit systems, which, it said, "can no longer be left in private hands."

The official Liberal party is "broke." This was admitted today in a secret circular issued to Liberal candidates by Ramsay Muir, party manager.

JOAN LA COSTA, RACING STAR, IS WED TO SALESMAN

Joan La Costa, former auto racing star, was married a week ago to Joseph Maurer, wholesale meat salesman, it was learned yesterday. The couple are living in an apartment at 712 Diversey parkway. Her husband was formerly a dental laboratory student at Loyola university, and lived at the Phi Mi Chi house on Sheridan road, she said yesterday.

For the last two years Joan has been employed in the filing department of a large stationery firm in the loop, she revealed on being asked about her marriage. She is through with auto racing and aviation, she said. And since her release on probation after she was charged with assault on a woman guest in the Chicago Beach hotel, after a long period of unemployment and lack of funds, she has been living obscurely, working hard, and winning back her health, she said.

"I could have spent many more years in racing, but at the end I might have a lot of money, or only a little. I'd rather have this," she laughed, holding out a hand on which sparkled a narrow wedding ring.

Rob Store of $15,000 Gems as Hundreds Pass Nearby

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—(AP)—While hundreds of shoppers and office workers passed unsuspectingly by the flight of steps leading to the scene two robbers today leisurely sacked the Hart-Bauman Jewelry company, escaping with jewelry worth $15,000.

'HIJACK' TRUCK LOAD OF GRAPES; KIDNAP OWNER

Chicago and Whiting, Ind., police early this morning were searching for Anthony Ialongo, 40 years old, of 9605 Avenue M, a grape dealer, who is believed to be in the hands of kidnapers or to have been slain.

Ialongo operates a wholesale grape stand with Michael Camino, 9904 Ewing avenue, at 93d street and Harper avenue. Last night two men purchased a load of grapes and ordered them to be delivered in Whiting. Henry, 23 years old, a son of Camino, took the grapes to Whiting.

There, he told the police, he was met by the two patrons. They menaced him with revolvers and stole the load. At the same time some one telephoned Ialongo and the elder Camino that Henry had been injured in an accident in Whiting. They drove hurriedly to the Indiana town. They, too, were met by two armed men and taken to an outlying house. There Camino was released, but Ialongo was held. Nothing had been heard of the missing man five hours after he had been seized.

APPROVES BILL FOR OAK PARK CAR EXTENSION

Willis McFeely, president of the Oak Park board, last night signed an ordinance authorizing the extension of the North avenue surface lines from Austin avenue to a point 300 feet west of Narragansett avenue, a distance of half a mile.

This is said to be the first step in the greater Chicago traction plan which is expected to link the various suburban units within a radius of 20 miles.

Before the extension is built, further proceedings must be held before the Illinois commerce commission. It is understood that the extension authorized last night will be only a part of additional improvements. Oak Parkers will be able to ride to Chicago for a seven cent fare if the program is completed, President McFeely said.

MOVE TO HELP RAILROADS NEXT ON U. S. PROGRAM

Federal Loan Fund Is Under Consideration.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The treasury department is studying ways and means by which emergency aid may be extended to the railroads to carry them over the period of adverse conditions. This was disclosed today by treasury officials, but it was stated that no decision had been reached on any line of action. From the federal government's veiwpoint, it was explained, the railroad problem is one in which state governments as well as private financial interests must coöperate.

Joined to the concern of the administration over the railroads, and arising in part from the carriers' critical condition, is the plight of small savings banks which hold railroad securities.

Banks which have invested in railroad securities have seen their holdings depreciate so sharply that in some cases there is danger of their being wiped off the list of securities eligible for savings bank investment under various state laws.

Federal Fund Suggested.

As a temporary measure there has been some talk of having the government make loans on easy credit terms to certain of the railroads, as it did during the post-war depression.

If the government is to lend money to the railroads it will be necessary for congress to make an appropriation. It is understood there would be time to obtain such action in the next session before any of the large carriers are faced with a necessity of seeking a loan. Estimates of the sum which might be required have run anywhere from 200 million dollars to considerably more. If such a fund were set up it would be operated by an organization within the treasury department.

There has also, of course, been the much talked of suggestion that the federal reserve act be so amended as to make certain types of railroad securities eligible for rediscount.

Opposed in Congress.

Administration approval has been given such a course, but there is just as pronounced an opposition to it in congress. A considerable number of senators and representatives believe such an amendment would impair the solidity of the federal reserve bank base.

Action by some of the states which would make less stringent the provisions as to the eligibility of railroad bonds for investments by savings banks, insurance companies, and trustees is another step which may be considered in any cooperative effort by the federal and state governments.

The contention is that these bonds would quickly become "gilt edged" as soon as there is any considerable pickup in rail earnings.

The carriers in their appeal to the interstate commerce commission for a fifteen per cent increase in freight rates have contended that granting of their petition would go far to save the situation. A decision by the commission is expected within a week or ten days.

Facts Behind Bank Plan.

Meanwhile certain factors which led President Hoover to formulate his program for banking and credit relief and certain facts as to how the program was worked out came to light today.

From high administration authorities it was learned that the widespread hoarding of gold, coupled with a partial paralysis of the nation's credit facilities, were two of the primary factors which led President Hoover to prepare his plan.

From authorities equally reliable it was learned that only with the greatest difficulty, and not until conditions had forced them into it, would many of the bankers consent to adopt a policy of self-help. Even then, it was disclosed, New York bankers came forward with a plan which would have drained the money from the interior into their vaults, and only the astute insistence of the bankers in the interior prevented this from going through.

Plan Fell Flat at First.

It became known that the President has for many weeks been urging upon the banks the necessity of helping themselves instead of waiting for a problematical and tardy rescue by congress. Leading bankers were called to Washington and advised by the President that they ought to form a pool to take over the frozen assets of the weaker banks.

Only two federal reserve banks, one of which was Galveston, agreed to the wisdom of the plan, it is reported.

For days following the proposition was allowed to sleep until circumstances scared the bankers into action. Foreclosures on vast volumes of real estate impended and gold was being withdrawn from New York at a rate that alarmed the east. It was then that the New York bankers sought out the President and agreed to come into line.

"Joker" Found in Scheme.

It was not, however, until their original plan had been amended that certain interior banks, some of them in Chicago, would listen to the proposal. Bankers in the interior foresaw a danger that the money they raised for the pool would be used to prop up the east. They were able to checkmate the New York plan and assure an even division by insisting that money raised for the pool should be used in the district in which it was raised.

From official Washington's point of view the President's plan has been successful. The administration professed itself pleased at what it saw as a strong resurgence of confidence in the soundness of the nation's banking and credit structure.

LORD ROTHSCHILD LAYS ECONOMIC CRISIS ON AMERICA AND FRANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—An attack on America and France was made today by Lord Rothschild, titular head of the English branch of the great banking family, in a speech today at a Conservative party meeting at Tring, center of the Rothschild estate.

"We must press forward with our utmost energy every argument which tends to prove that the world economic crisis has nothing to do with the rights or wrongs of capitalism or socialism," he said, "but that it is owing to the greed of France and the United States, who thought that by amassing as much gold in their treasuries as they possibly could they would be able to escape the aftermath of the war.

"What they have succeeded in doing is to withdraw means of barter from the rest of the world. Beating down around their own ears is the very fate which they thought they would escape."

Lord Rothschild, although the head of the famous family, has taken little interest in the family banking business. He is a naturalist and has what is described as the largest collection of bugs in the world.

CHICAGO BANKS START TO CARRY OUT HOOVER PLAN

Predict Early Aid to Finance.

Eugene M. Stevens of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

The total amount that the Chicago banks will pledge to the general pool will not be decided until the meeting next Tuesday. If the Chicago association follows the lead of the New York clearing house banks in pledging amounts equal to 2 per cent of total deposits, the total amount will be close to $50,000,000. However, this fund would be greatly increased if banks outside of Chicago but still in the Chicago reserve district also pledge subscriptions along similar lines. The general plan provides, however, that funds need not be contributed immediately, but only as they are needed and called for by the committees.

The belief was expressed by Chicago bankers yesterday that the plan can be put into effect speedily and that it should do much to prevent further bank failures by enabling banks that are embarrassed by nonliquid but good assets to borrow on such assets, which would include bonds, mortgages and other collateral that now are not eligible for borrowing from the federal reserve banks. However, the general plan provides that the fund shall be made available only to solvent banks and those subscribing to the pool, and, therefore, it cannot be used in returning to depositors the money that now is tied up in closed banks.

While it is the general plan that banks subscribing to the pool will receive debentures running for a year and renewable up to three years, still it is the expectation of Chicago bankers that amendments to the federal reserve act or the setting up of a government credit agency similar to the War Finance corporation by congress this winter will relieve the banks from tying up any considerable funds in long-term credits.

BANKS FLOCK INTO POOL.

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Virtually unanimous support from banks throughout the country with total deposits of more than $42,000,000,000 was regarded as assured tonight by the committee of New York bankers which has completed the plan for creation of the national credit corporation to bolster the banking structure.

The committee, which is headed by Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House association, held almost continuous sessions throughout the day and received numerous favorable telegraphic responses to the plan, which was wired to nearly 400 clearing house groups last night.

The names of the 12 directors, to be chosen on the basis of one from each federal reserve district, will probably be made public tomorrow. An organization meeting of the directorate is expected to be held next Tuesday, at which time officers will be chosen. Wall street was busy speculating as to who would head the corporation and Mr. Buckner's name was widely mentioned as a probability.

Youth of 16 Confesses Killing of Salesman

Tony Karahalios, 16 years old, 1450 North Harding avenue, who on Thursday shot and killed John Bowers, 31 year old automobile salesman, at 1455 North Crawford avenue, was arrested yesterday and confessed to Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Austin police. Witnesses said that the youth, in a burst of anger, drew a pistol and fired on Bowers when the latter demanded $25 for an old car. Karahalios once served a term in the St. Charles School for Boys and has been arrested several times on charges of automobile theft.

JUDGE FREES MOTORIST.

Louis Lanwell, 49 years old, 6310 Maryland avenue, was freed by Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden yesterday on a charge of reckless driving. It was alleged that he drove his automobile into a surface car, but no one appeared to prosecute.

GRAIN BOARD TO CUT INTEREST BY 50 MILLION LOAN

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The federal farm board's grain stabilization corporation, which is gradually marketing its reputed holdings of approximately 200 million bushels of wheat, has negotiated a loan of 50 millions of dollars from ten of the leading banks of the country in order to refund at a lower rate of interest bank loans to the corporation aggregating that amount.

The interest is at the going rate for prime bankers' acceptances.

The ten banks are the Chase National, National City, Irving Trust company, Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, Chemical Bank and Trust company, all of New York City, the First National, Continental Illinois, and Harris Trust and Savings, all of Chicago; the First National of St. Louis, and the Marine Trust company of Buffalo.

HOOVER READY TO CUT ALLIED DEBTS TO U. S.

Revision Deemed Certain by Next July 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—President Hoover is moving toward a downward revision of the eleven billions of war debt owed this country by its late allies.

Unless present economic conditions change materially for the better within the next few months, he considers it almost certain that the twin questions of allied war debts to the United States and of German reparations must be reopened and payments scaled down to fit a lowered capacity to pay. Action would have to be taken before the present moratorium expires next July 1.

This was learned today with the disclosure that the President has begun sounding out members of congress to learn their attitude on a possible downward revision of the funding arrangements between this country and the European debtor nations.

Still Opposes Cancellation.

Administration authorities stated that the President has not altered his opposition to cancellation and expects the debtors of this country to pay their just dues. But, it was said, the President feels that the fair and economic course to follow is to proceed on the theory of capacity to pay, on which the debts were originally funded and on which—since that capacity had become reduced almost to nothing on the part of certain nations—the present one year moratorium is based.

It is along these lines, it was indicated, that the President intends to discuss the international financial situation with Premier Laval of France. And it is quite possible, it is held, that the premier's visit may be followed by a call for a general conference on the whole debt and reparations situation.

Wants "Temporary" Reduction.

While the administration has reached no definite conclusions—at least has not announced any—it is being said that the present plan is to try for an agreement which would limit the downward revision strictly to the depression, in order that it might not become in effect a partial cancellation. There is also the thought of using this time to seek reciprocal concessions on the part of European nations.

Just what the allies will be expected to give in return for a change in war debt policy which will saddle new economic burdens on the American people has not been made known. Many senators and some of the highest administration advisers of the President contend that the United States should neither extend the moratorium nor revise the debt payments except on condition that European powers scaled down their armaments. This position is held by Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee.

In this connection, two administration officials in close touch with President Hoover said today that the administration was prepared to insist upon armament reduction as the price of a scaling down of the war debt structure or postponement of war debt payments.

It was felt that Europe should concede a letup in naval building, a reduction in the size of armies, and a cut—possibly as much as 25 per cent—in German reparations. Armaments, the President was represented as feeling, should be taken into consideration in estimating capacity to pay.

Congressional opposition sprang up immediately today's developments became known. This opposition was based largely on the contention that the United States should not be forced to increase its public debt or increase taxes to make up the difference between what the allies owe us and what they actually pay.

The wishes of the administration with regard to any international agreement affecting the allied war debts are dependent upon the final judgment of congress. The present one year moratorium, so far as this country is concerned, is in effect only in fact and not in law. Since it came into being after the June 15 interest payments from the allies, the United States has not had to excuse any delay in money due.

Based on "Understanding."

President Hoover felt free to declare that the United States would agree to a moratorium only after he had sounded out members of congress and found them favorably minded. It is necessary that congress pass officially on the moratorium before the next semi-annual interest payments are due, on Dec. 15, if complications are to be avoided.

In the same way, the consent of congress would be necessary to any extension of the one year moratorium period, or to any revision of the debt agreement with the allied nations.

CONTINUE BAIL LICENSE CASE.

Kenneth D. Adams, colored, 5439 St. Lawrence avenue, charged with acting as a bondsman and charging a fee without having a license to do so, was arraigned yesterday before Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court. The case was continued to Oct. 29.

GOV. RITCHIE FAVORS HOOVER'S FINANCIAL SCHEME IF IT WORKS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie tonight bespoke coöperation—conditioned on an "if" in President Hoover's plan to free financial assets and stimulate business.

The Marylander who has been mentioned for the Democratic presidential nomination turned to the new plan after attacking administration doings before the Woman's National Democratic club.

"As good citizens, sick at heart over the depression and anxious to bend all our energies to relieve it," he said, "it behooves us to study the far reaching effects of this plan and to coöperate loyally if it will help the country. If it will do that it will be among the very few actions of the government which has."

ENDS HEARING ON OBJECTIONS OF CANAL LAWYERS

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor yesterday closed the hearing on the oral objections to his report as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court, in which he recommended punishment for fifty-five lawyers charged with accepting high fees from the sanitary district under the Crowe régime without making commensurate returns in work. The judge announced that he would correspond with each of the respondents before making his final decision and submitting his report to the clerk of the Supreme court.

During the hearing yesterday Judge Taylor agreed to take under advisement the cases of Attorneys Robert H. Eberle and John F. Higgins, both recommended suspended for one year. Both men denied any moral turpitude in accepting their pay from the sanitary trustees.

STATE RAPS NEW DELAY IN CANAL GRAFT PLOT TRIAL

Change of Venue Granted by Judge David.

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup in a statement issued last night characterized as "astounding" the conditions in the criminal courts which have stalled the trial of Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the sanitary district board during the "whoopee era," and eight other former officials and trustees of the district. The charge is graft conspiracy. The prosecutor alleges that it is apparently futile to try to bring men with political power to trial in the state courts.

Crowe and his co-defendants were granted a change of venue yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David, who was specially assigned to try the case by the executive committees of the Circuit and Superior courts. The change of venue was given on a petition charging prejudice, which was filed in the name of John K. Lawler, one of the former trustees. The case has been before Judge David since last January.

Has Begun Three Years Ago.

The battle to bring Crowe and the other alleged grafters of public funds to trial started more than three years ago, when Attorney Frank J. Loesch was appointed a special prosecutor to break the alliance between crime and politics. Since then three sets of indictments have been returned by grand juries, the first indictments having been returned on May 3, 1929.

The change of venue granted yesterday may cause another long delay, it was said at the prosecutor's office. The case now goes back to Chief Justice Harry Fisher for assignment to another judge. The chief justice yesterday refused to comment on when or how the case would be assigned.

Prosecutor Assails Delay.

"A year ago this month I began my efforts to have the case brought to trial," said the statement issued by Prosecutor Northup. "During all that time the state has been ready for trial. The machinery of the criminal courts has made this delay possible. With the change of venue from Judge David this morning we seem no nearer trial than we were a year ago.

"At the rate of one change of venue a year and with eight possible changes still in reserve, it seems there must be much to the rumors which have come to me that this case will never be tried. I want it known that this astounding condition is due to no fault of mine, and that it seems nothing less than futile to attempt the prosecution of men charged with misconduct in office, especially if there are a number of them with political power.

Wants to Resign Job.

"For two years I have been intending to resign and return to private practice upon the conclusion of the sanitary district prosecutions.

"While the case has left Judge David on a change of venue, the real reason therefor was his insistence upon trying the case before a jury. Under the common law, when it came to the attention of the trial judge that his relation to the parties or to the subject matter was such that he could not sit with propriety, he acknowledged himself as not qualified to sit in the case.

"In later years statutes specifically defining what relations or interest in the subject matter might disqualify a judge have been enacted, but these statutes do not reach the state of mind entertained by Judge David himself, of which he was fully aware when the case was assigned to him.

Quotes Judge on Case.

"When Judge David accepted the case the state objected to him because of the very things which he now admits in his own language as follows:

"'If that great responsibility is imposed upon a single judge [referring to trial without a jury on a waiver], then they must get some judge who either does not know the defendants, or has not in any way been associated with them, and as I have stated to you, a number of these defendants have been friends of this court for many years, some of them, as long as a quarter of a century, if not longer, and I am not going to sit here in judgment where I have got to pass on their guilt or innocence, and if they are guilty, their sentence.'

"A little later Judge David said, 'I think that to require a judge to pass on the guilt or innocence of men whom he has known year in and year out, socially and politically, amounts to maladministration of justice.'"

Mr. Northup, the prosecutor, then calls attention to the possibility of the defendants in the case being split on whether to take a jury trial or to waive a jury under the new system. In such a case two trials would be necessary, bringing still further delays, the prosecutor points out.

The defendants in the case, in addition to Crowe, are James M. Whalen, John J. Touhy, Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler, and August Miller, former trustees, and John Miller, Timothy Connolly, and Martin Edelstein, former officials. All but Connolly, who has been a fugitive for some time, were in court yesterday.

EDISON LIES IN STUPOR WHICH PRESAGES END

Physician Expects Final Coma Next.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison sank into a stupor today from which he could be roused only with difficulty. Dr. Hubert S. Howe of New York, who has been attending the 84 year old inventor through his long illness at his home in Llewellyn Park here, said that Mr. Edison was gradually losing ground, although he foresaw no immediate emergency.

"There is no immediate danger of Mr. Edison lapsing into coma," said Dr. Howe. "He may remain in a stupor for weeks and then he may be in a coma for weeks more before death. I do not believe Mr. Edison will die suddenly, but at the same time I would not be surprised if I received an emergency call at any time."

"Serious Development."

Dr. Howe explained that the difference between stupor and coma was that the sick person might be roused from the former, but not from the latter. He characterized the change in the inventor's condition from a light sleep to stupor as "a new and more serious development."

Arrangements have been completed for a police motorcycle escort to speed Dr. Howe from his home in New York to the bedside of the aged inventor if a sudden change should develop. The New York City police, New Jersey state troopers and West Orange police will coöperate to rush the doctor here in an emergency.

Roused with Difficulty.

Mr. Edison had a restful night, but was roused only with great difficulty this morning, Dr. Howe said. He ate a few spoonfuls of cereal for breakfast, although he had been able to take no nourishment last night and very little all day yesterday.

A bulletin issued at 10 o'clock tonight by Charles Edison, son of the sick man, read:

"Mr. Edison went to sleep at 8:30 o'clock tonight and is now sleeping peacefully. There is no apparent change in his condition and no immediate crisis is expected."

BURNS HIS HOME AT 'COMMAND OF SPIRITS'; BATTLES RESCUERS

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—A victim of a belief in "hex," or witchcraft, an old rural Pennsylvania superstition, Charles Campbell, 37, of Colemanville, Lancaster county, today set fire to his home at "command of spirit voices" and with a loaded shotgun defied firemen as he stood in the doorway of his blazing home. Constable Ralph Sweigart risked his life in a sudden dash, which enabled him to reach and disarm Campbell. The house was destroyed.

Campbell told police the voices threatened to kill him unless he burned the house.

"Hex" beliefs have caused many deaths and peculiar practices in the rural sections of this state.

THREATEN TO BAN JEWS' MEAT IN ROW OVER EISEN

Leaders Tell Butchers to Oust Racketeer.

A ban on the eating of all meat by orthodox Jews in Chicago was seen as imminent yesterday when the Kehillah, the ruling body of rabbis and prominent laymen, issued a statement pointing to the fact that kosher meat prices had increased 50 per cent or more since the Hebrew Butchers' association had retained Maxie Eisen, public enemy and labor racketeer, as business agent.

Asserting that the Kehillah was determined to oust Eisen from his post as dictator in the handling of kosher meats, the statement called for a special meeting tomorrow at the Kehillah office, at 3400 Roosevelt road. The butchers' association has been requested to send representatives to the meeting. If the delegates do not at that time promise to oust Eisen, the ban will follow, say the spokesmen for the Kehillah.

Cite Higher Meat Prices.

A week ago, according to this group, the prices ranged from 16 to 20 cents a pound for the best cuts. The present prices are from 25 to 30 cents, despite the fact that there has been no increase in wholesale prices, it is pointed out. Last week the prices of poultry ranged from 19 to 21 cents a pound. At present the average price is 30 cents.

At the time of his unanimous election as business agent of the butchers' association Eisen promised to increase the profits to each butcher, despite the extra load entailed by his salary of $200 a week. At a meeting of the Kehillah immediately following the butchers' meeting a general ban against meat was threatened if the prices were raised. A special committee of 25 rabbis and laymen was appointed to investigate the matter.

Demand Eisen's Removal.

Following a meeting of the committee yesterday it was reported that nothing but the removal of Eisen would satisfy the committee.

"The Kehillah sympathizes with the butchers," the statement said in part, "and realizes that their position is not very good. But it is no worse than that of other business men. They have no right to engage a public enemy and racketeer to handle their business. Such a procedure is a disgrace to the community, contrary to Jewish law, and a violation of traditions."

The action of the Kehillah in ordering the ouster of Eisen recalls that taken last year to remove Joe Etkins from his post as business agent of the kosher chicken killers' union. A week's ban on the eating of poultry was followed by a series of union meetings at which police furnished protection. The election of a new business agent followed.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald Thompson of the racket bureau yesterday informed the Kehillah that full police protection would be furnished if needed at their meetings.

GETS 1 TO 14 YRS. FOR SLAYING OF 2 BARTENDERS

Edward Kotowsky, 21 years old, 1514 Dickson street, was sentenced to one to fourteen years in the Joliet penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter. He was convicted in connection with the double slaying of William Sierezga and Frank Smurlo.

A plea of not guilty to an indictment for murder was entered by the slayer. He waived a jury, and after hearing the evidence Judge Prystalski decided that Kotowsky was guilty of manslaughter and imposed the sentence.

Kotowsky was drinking beer in a speakeasy at 1052 North Marshfield avenue on Nov. 2. He complained that Sierezga and Smurlo, the bartenders, had overcharged him. Then, the youth testified, the men jumped on him and he fired in self-defense.

TEACHERS ASK GOVERNOR TO ACT IN PAY CRISIS

Seek Early Call for a Special Session.

The Chicago Principals' club yesterday launched a petition among the 18,000 unpaid teachers and school board employés asking that the governor call a special session of the legislature not later than Nov. 1 to provide funds for school relief. Resolutions accompanying the petition set forth the acute need among the teachers, condemned scrip as virtually useless, expressed impatience at the failure of the school board and the governor's revenue commission to act, and indicated that closing of the schools was imminent unless relief is speedily forthcoming.

Signatures of virtually all of the school board employés are expected by the first of the week, according to Irving A. Wilson, president of the Principals' club. By Wednesday, he said, it is hoped to have the document ready to be forwarded to Gov. Emmerson.

Point to Empty Treasury.

"The teachers and other employés of the board of education," says the petition, "have not been paid in cash since April and the scrip which is now offered in lieu of cash is generally refused by bankers and other business men.

"The board of education has not yet sold tax anticipation warrants nor raised money by any other method with which to pay the teachers and other employé. The teachers and other employés have no funds with which to meet current needs.

"There is grave danger that the Chicago schools will be closed because of the inability of teachers, principals and other employés to carry on without payment in cash.

"The commission appointed by you to draft a plan for relief for Chicago has not yet submitted a report and the constitution of the state of Illinois places the responsibility for maintaining an efficient public school system on the general assembly."

Delays Injunction Ruling.

Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday postponed for a week his ruling in the taxpayers' suit seeking an injunction against issuance of scrip by the school board. Pending his decision, the school board has agreed not to issue any more scrip.

The only bright spot in the teachers' financial situation yesterday was the payment of about $125,000 by the teachers' pension board to 1,600 retired teachers.

End Campaign

Candidates for office in the Boys' Brotherhood republic gathered last evening in the organization headquarters at 1530 South Hamlin avenue to make their final speeches. The election is to be held today and it is expected that 600 votes will be cast. There are fifty-six candidates for the sixteen offices. Those running for mayor are Oscar Cogan, 1643 Ridgeway avenue; Milton Price, 1831 South Springfield avenue, and Nathan Slu, 1453 South Avers avenue.

DENY REHEARING TO 2 DOOMED FOR ROBBERY KILLING

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused to interfere with the scheduled electrocution of John Popescue and Charles Rocco. The court refused to grant a rehearing in the case and unless executive clemency is extended the men will be electrocuted along with Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan on Oct. 16, Popescue and Rocco pleaded guilty to the murder of Courtney R. Merrelli, South Chicago banker, who was stabbed to death in October, 1930, when he resisted robbery. Bell and Sullivan were sentenced for the murder of a North Clark restaurant keeper.

The public defender's office announced that an appeal in behalf of the four doomed men would be made to the parole board next Tuesday.

Teachers of City Elect Two to Pension Board

Miss Mary M. Abbe, head assistant at the Marshall Elementary school, and Miss Aileen Mayhew of the Howland school were elected to the teachers' pension board in an election held in the schools yesterday.

ANIMAL EXTRACT MAY BE RESTORER OF YOUTH TO AGE

Physician Describes New Product.

The isolation of a substance which may prove to be the fountain of youth sought by numerous experimenters in gland grafting and similar research was described yesterday to the faculty and students of the University of Illinois Medical collage by Dr. Herbert M. Evans, professor of anatomy at the University of California.

Dr. Evans chose as the subject of the Charles Sumner Bacon memorial lectures which he delivered this year at the medical school, "Relations of the Hypophysis to the Reproductive System." The hppophysis is the pituitary body, a ductless gland, which nestles against the brain of humans and animals in a position back of the eyes.

Extracted from Animals.

It is already known to medical science as the producer of a secretion, or hormone, which governs growth. An insufficiency of this growth hormone results in a child becoming a dwarf. An overproduction makes him a giant. The growth hormone is now extracted from the pituitary bodies of animals, the Chicago stockyards being one important source of supply, and is used in the treatment of patients whose own pituitary secretions are insufficient.

What Dr. Evans and his co-workers at the University of California have done is to isolate from the pituitary extract a second hormone, which stimulates sex activity.

Tells Results on Animals.

Dr. Evans described the results of administration of the substance to experimental animals. In those cases, he said, the hormone stimulated the reproductive capacity. Experiments to date, he said, have shown that it does not induce fertility in completely sterile animals. It does not create germ cells, but does stimulate their activity in specimens with subnormal sex tendencies.

He declined to predict what future experiments will bring.

CITY PROPOSES PUBLIC SALE OF TAX WARRANTS

Szymczak Moves to Get Money for Pay Rolls.

City Controller Szymczak proposed yesterday to sell tax anticipation warrants direct to the public as a means of emergency relief for the city government's fiscal difficulties.

He proposed the plan after it was learned that Chicago banks are not inclined, for the present at least, to purchase the $36,747,000 worth of 1930 tax warrants which the city now holds in its special fund accounts. The sale of those warrants to banks was an essential part of the relief plan which Mr. Szymczak proposed to the governor's commission a week ago.

Conference Planned Tuesday.

The banks have not told the city officially that they are not in the market for the tax warrants, but they are expected to do so on Tuesday, when Mr. Szymczak has a conference scheduled with representatives of the First National, Continental Illinois and Harris Trust banks. The bankers have alrady informed a subcommittee of the revenue commission, according to reports, that they will not buy the warrants.

The reasons given for their refusal were not made public, but from another source it was learned that the bankers do not believe the city is in such financial straits as pictured by Mr. Szymczak before the revenue commission. There is still $40,000,000 in cash in the city's funds, of which an estimated $10,000,000 might be available for the purchase of 1931 tax warrants to meet pay rolls.

Sold to Banks in Past.

In the past the city has always marketed its tax warrants through banks, in large quantities, on the theory that sales to the general public would depress the price of the paper. In his plan for public sales, the controller suggested the 1930 warrants because they are considered a more desirable security.

They will be redeemed soon after the first of the year, when 1930 tax collections start, while tax funds for redemption of 1931 warrants will not be available for another year. Of the 1930 warrants held in the city fund accounts, $27,870,000 are those of the city corporate fund. The remainder are warrants of the school board, library and other municipal institutions.

Seeks $4,000,000 a Month.

Mr. Szymczak hopes to market the warrants at a rate of at least $4,000,000 a month. That is the city's monthly pay roll figure. He pointed to the success of the firemen's pension fund, which recently sold merchants $108,000 worth of 1931 warrants to meet pensions due in September, as augurring well for the sale of larger quantities of the securities.

Policemen and firemen were given their pay checks yesterday for the last half of September.

Experts Get $44,492 in Month.

The city's payments of fees to experts totaled $44,492 for September, it was learned when voucher records became available yesterday. Seven lawyers received payments during the month of $1,000 or more, as follows:

George A. Mason	$3,075
Allan T. Gilbert	1,900
Walter L. Fisher	4,671
John G. Drennan	2,000
Lewis F. Mason	1,650
Edward C. Higgins	2,150
Urban A. Lavery	2,500

Other large paymants were $1,000 to Dr. Harry G. Leon for medical services; $1,387 to William G. Kreig, building valuator; and $14,839 to J. L. Jacobs & Co., efficiency engineers for the city.

WARM WEATHER HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR PARALYSIS GAIN

Infantile paralysis conditions in Chicago and throughout the state were being studied yesterday by health authorities. Besides showing an increase in the number of cases reported as compared with last year, the disease does not appear to be slackening as rapidly as it usually does in October.

Some physicians in the health department attributed the condition to warm weather.

In Chicago twenty-four cases were reported during the first eight days of this month. Thirty-nine cases were reported during September. For the week ending Oct. 8 the health department reported thirteen cases, whereas the normal number of cases for that period is three.

The state total of cases for the week ending Oct. 5 was fifty-one, while only twenty-three cases had been reported for the corresponding period of last year.

Up to Oct. 5 the number of cases reported throughout the state was 450, or an increase of 55 per cent over the 244 cases that had been reported by Oct. 6 of last year.

Austria Re-elects Miklas Head at Economy Election

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 9.—The Austrian parliament today reelected Dr. William Miklas as president of the republic by a vote of 109 to 93. It was originally scheduled to elect a president by popular vote on Sunday, Oct. 19, but the decision was altered yesterday when it was agreed the president should be elected by parliament as an economy measure. The republic saved $500,000. Dr. Charles Renner, a Socialist, was Miklas' opponent.

ASSESSORS ASK CASH TO FINISH 1931 VALUATION

Place Needs at $115,000 Before Dec. 1.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The county assessors yesterday reinforced their plea for more money to complete the quadrennial assessment which is causing concern to several of the local governments and to others. It was stated that the quadrennial cannot be completed during the county's fiscal year which ends on Dec. 1.

The assessors stated that they needed $40,000 at once to improve and enlarge the personal property assessment, $40,000 to replace funds in the quadrennial account which have previously been diverted to complete the 1930 assessment, and $35,000 to investigate 1929 tax objections in court where property owners have questioned the assessments.

Promise Large Collections.

Of the $35,000 is obtained Charles W. Fox, chief appraiser for the assessors, promised that he would force the collection of between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 of delinquent taxes.

The assessors' requirements, listed above, total $115,000. This is to be provided before Dec. 1. In addition to this the assessors said they would need $135,000 more after Dec. 1 to complete the quadrennial valuations.

If they obtain these sums, Assessors John F. Conroy, John E. Traeger, and Victor W. L. Meyer promised yesterday "a fair, equitable, and valid assessment for 1931."

They also pledged that they would publish the 1931 assessments in understandable form as soon as practicable after the board of review finishes its action. Also they would put out an adequate supply of their manual as a basis for reckoning each property valuation—so that every one interested may have a copy.

Hesitate to Buy Warrants.

Investment houses, insurance companies, and banks so far have declined to purchase 1931 tax anticipation warrants based upon the quadrennial assessment. They estimate that the new valuations of real estate may be reduced 30 or more per cent. Also they express fears that there may be legal flaws in the assessment.

The 1931 assessment is also causing concern to the heads of certain local governments. They fear that these units, because of the lower real estate valuations, will not pay off the extra millages being made this year.

The status of the 1931 assessment by the board of assessors as it concerns realty may be roughly indicated as follows:

Values have been determined on land in six of the country townships—Barrington, Hanover, Schaumburg, Palatine, Wheeling, and Elk Grove. In seven others the land assessment field work is practically complete. In the 17 remaining country townships the field appraisal work is estimated to be 75 per cent complete.

Progress in the City.

The city has been divided into 44 land area districts. In 23 of these the field work is about 85 per cent complete, in six districts 50 per cent, and in the other five 30 per cent.

In the assessment of buildings the six country townships have been finished, three others are about 85 per cent complete, the loop and the north central business district within Chicago is about 50 per cent complete, and the remainder of the territory both within and without the city is estimated at 20 per cent complete. These estimates were made by Chief Appraiser Fox.

The assessors asserted yesterday that they are required by the new statute to finish the 1931 assessment by Jan. 2. They have a long legal opinion of their attorney, Neal Harrison, supporting that view.

Jacobs Discusses Needs.

J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert for the county, said that the date on which the assessment must be completed determines—in a large measure—whether there is pressing necessity for the requested $115,000 added appropriations to be spent before Dec. 1.

Mr. Jacobs admitted yesterday that this money must be appropriated after Dec. 1, to complete the 1931 assessment. He asserted that the 1930 appropriation was designed to do only the field work on the 1931 assessment. Consequently the 1932 appropriation must provide for the inside work on the assessment, such as the tabulating and inking the figures into the books.

The total current budget of the board of assessors is $877,578. Mr. Jacobs and M. J. O'Connor, assistant deputy controler, asserted yesterday that Assessor Conroy agreed to this appropriation when made. Mr. Conroy, however, said that he agreed to it under certain conditions, some of which have changed. The principal one of these is the required date for completion of the assessors' work, on which there appears to be no undisputed ruling.

What the Books Show.

Of the $877,578 appropriated for the assessors, the controller's figures, as interpreted by the assessors, show an unincumbered balance of $216,657.03. The item for quadrennial work shows an unincumbered balance of $76,792 on Aug. 31.

The quadrennial pay roll for September was about $26,000 and it was estimated by the assessors that this pay roll for October and November will be $35,000 each. That on the face of the record shows $76,000 with which to pay expected quadrennial pay rolls of $96,000, a deficiency of $20,000.

But Mr. Fox and Mr. Conroy explained that of the expenditures before Aug. 31 $40,000 was used to complete the 1930 assessment, and that sum is needed to replace the $40,000 for quadrennial work.

Blocked by the Law.

The assessors submitted a request on Aug. 4 for a supplemental appropriation of this $40,000, another $40,000 for personal property assessment, and $35,000 to investigate delinquent taxes pending in court. Hayden Bell, county attorney," was asked for an opinion on the powers of the board to appropriate at this late date. He said the board had the power to appropriate in case of fire, flood, or other casualty, or in case the board decided that the appropriation was necessary for a continuance of government.

Ten members of the board voted for the appropriation. President Whealan vetoed it on the ground that there had been no absolute showing that the appropriation was necessary to continue the government and, besides, the county did not have the money to appropriate.

Request for Information.

The assessors next appealed to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission. Its chairman, Joseph K. Brittain, on Aug. 8 wrote a letter to the assessors asking seven questions about the board's operation and its financial status. The commission has received no reply to that letter. It is understood that the assessors are willing to answer all the questions except one, which reads:

"The names, titles, salaries, together with periods of service of your employés from Jan. 1 to July 1, 1931, on real estate, personal property and other specific duties of the board, together with the names of the sponsors who recommended the employment of such persons."

The objectionable feature of this question, from the board's viewpoint, is said to be the request for the names of the political sponsors of employés. The governor's commission has expressed no opinion, but Mr. Jacobs, the efficiency expert, said he did not believe that the board has a pressing need for more cash before Dec. 1.

Fail to Pay Salaries.

The assessors asserted that their quadrennial assessment is being hampered by the county's failure to pay salaries since Aug. 31. A large part of the quadrennial staff, according to the assessors, is composed of temporary employés who must have money upon which to live.

The assessors argued yesterday that if they are given the requested $35,000 to investigate tax objections in court, they would gather in millions.

Mr. Jacobs said those tax objections should be investigated, but the plan adopted when the appropriation was passed was to collect the facts on tax objections as the 1931 quadrennial assessment was made, which plan has not been followed.

The assessors said yesterday that the plan is impracticable. Real estate taxes totaling $54,000,000 are being held up in the courts.

BRUENING PICKS AN IRON FISTED GERMAN CABINET

Power Is Concentrated in Two Men.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—Chancellor Bruening, virtually dictator of Germany, today picked an iron fisted cabinet with himself as chancellor as well as foreign minister. He took over the latter post which Dr. Julius Curtius yielded in the face of great criticism. The new cabinet members, excepting two, are holdovers from the old government.

Political observers see in Chancellor Bruening's new cabinet a concentration of power in the hands of two men—himself and Gen. Wilhelm Groener, minister of defense, who retains that post and also becomes minister of the interior and head of the German police.

Industrial Leader Chosen.

The two new faces in the cabinet are Curt Joel, minister of justice, and Herman Warmbold, minister of economics. The latter is a leading industrialist. The new cabinet was approved by President Paul von Hindenburg. Its membership follows:

DR. BRUENING, chancellor and foreign minister.

GEN. GROENER, defense and interior.

HERMANN DIETRICH, finance.

GEORG SCHAETZEL, posts and telegraphs.

MARTIN SCHIELE, food and agriculture.

CURT JOEL, justice.

HERMAN WARMBOLD, economics.

ADAM STEGERWALD, labor.

GOTTFRIED TREVIRANUS, transportation.

Chancellor Bruening will submit his cabinet to the reichstag on Tuesday. Parties supporting the chancellor are massing their strength to force a speedy adjournment over the winter in order to permit him to act as dictator of Germany in the face of brewing discontent.

Opposition Meets Tomorrow.

The Nationalist opposition, including Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's "Steel Helmets" and Adolf Hitler's Fascists, will meet at Harzburg on Sunday to decide their future course.

President von Hindenburg will meet Hitler tomorrow. It is generally believed that the aged president will bluntly tell the young Fascist chieftain to stop meddling with the government's struggle to put Germany back on its feet.

Hitler's lieutenant, Paul Goebbels, speaking at a massmeeting here tonight, declared that "Germany is closer to civil war than ever before."

FOUR U. S. DRY AGENTS ON WARRANTLESS RAID BEATEN WITH BOTTLES

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Two prohibition agents were badly injured and two others less seriously hurt in a near riot during a raid on a saloon early today.

The disturbance was quelled by a detachment of police called by one of the agents who escaped during the general melee. Three men with police records were arrested as a result of the fight, and another, known to the agents, was sought.

The fight started when the four agents entered the saloon without a warrant, and advanced to the bar to seize evidence. They were attacked by 50 patrons wielding beer bottles.

The assault on the agents was the latest of a series which has led federal prohibition officials to appeal to state authorities for protection during raids.

LEARN KISSANE IS SERVING YEAR FOR GUN TOTING

Anthony [Red] Kissane, public enemy and west side gangster, has been a prisoner in the county jail since last August, it was revealed yesterday by the Chicago Crime commission. The gangster was convicted last May in Judge Daniel Trude's Criminal court on a charge of gun toting growing out of an arrest during the preceding November.

Kissane is under a sentence of one year in jail and a fine of $300. He appealed to the Appellate court and in a decision the court held that the arrest of Kissane as a suspect in the Lake View Trust and Savings bank robbery gave the police the right to search the gangster for concealed weapons without a search warrant.

The attorneys representing Kissane said at the time that the case would be taken to the Illinois Supreme court. However, the records of the appeal were never perfected and the sheriff took Kissane in custody and placed him in the jail, without making any announcement of the incarceration.

COBE'S BROTHER FILES AN APPEAL IN WILL FIGHT

Belfast, Me., Oct. 9.—(AP)—An appeal from the decision of the Probate court which permitted the probating of the will of Ira Cobe, Boston financier, was filed by Raymond Fellows, attorney for George E. Cobe of Brookline, Mass., a brother and one of several relatives who sought to break the will.

Relatives who sought to break the will, which left a residue of about $500,000 of the $1,500,000 estate to Mrs. Ruth Cobe Hoffman of Chicago and Mrs. Anse M. Lothrop, included George Cobe, Henry Cobe of Chelsea, Mass.; Mrs. Madelon Cobe Koch of Manchester, N. H., and Mrs. Dorothy F. Levenson of Forest Hills, N. Y.

UNCLE SAM IS SUED BY POLI'S HISTORIC THEATER FOR $268,666

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Demolition of historic Poli's theater, at 15th and Pennsylvania avenue, to make way for the government's building and park program, has brought Uncle Sam into court.

Sylvester Z. Poli and the Shubert Brothers sued in the United States Court of Claims today for $268,666, which they claimed to have lost on their lease of the theater from Nov. 29, 1930, when the government took it over, to June 30, 1932, when the lease would have expired.

The government, seeking dismissal, claimed the lease was from month to month and could be terminated by 30 days' notice, which was given. The suit will be heard Monday.

NEW TAX SUITS FILED

Nine suits were filed in the Circuit court by taxpayers yesterday asking injunctions to prevent County Treasurer McDonough from selling property delinquent $12,284 in 1929 taxes. The complainants were the Waldrath company, the Delaney-Heald company, Marie K. Amemann, Henry Sievers, William L. Waterhouse, Benjamin P. Hallam, Thomas Weinstein, G. J. Logan, and E. A. Sorenson. The attorney representing the group is William J. Grace.

WOUNDED IN JAIL BREAK.

Lawrenceville, Ill., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Charles Miller of Flatrock, Ill., under indictment for chicken stealing, was wounded today in an attempted jail break.

MRS. VON BUELOW REPELS VISIT BY U. S. OFFICIALS

Two federal officers, accompanied by two policemen, called late last night on a mysterious errand at the home of Mrs. Lottie Brenner von Buelow, 5839 Sheridan road. They were denied admittance.

The government officials were said to be Murray W. Garsson, special assistant secretary of labor, and Operative Tettlow, working out of the local immigration bureau offices.

No explanation of the attempted visit to the Von Buelow home was given. It is known, however, that Mr. Garsson is in Chicago with a special squad from Washington, working on a huge alien smuggling ring. Mrs. von Buelow, records show, several years ago became the wife of Enrique Dechow, who posed as Count von Buelow. They subsequently separated and she filed several divorce actions against him.

One informant explained later that the visit to Mrs. von Buelow's home was to question her on a matter in which she is well acquainted and that it was desired to have her testify to enlighten the government more on a "certain matter."

COURT UPHOLDS CLAIM OF HEIRS OF SLAIN WOMAN

Holding that a husband could not defeat an ante-nuptial contract by the murder of his wife, the Appellate court yesterday sustained the claim of heirs of Mrs. Frances Tauber to a $20,000 payment from the estate of her husband, Max. Tauber, a horse trader, killed her and then committed suicide on Dec. 29, 1928.

The Taubers had executed an agreement before their marriage in 1924 that "...lieu of dower rights to the husband's estate Mrs. Tauber should receive $20,000, provided she survived him by sixty days. Tauber's son, Joseph, executor of the estate, refused to make the payment to his stepmother's heirs on the ground that she had not survived the stipulated sixty days.

Judge Otto Kerner wrote the opinion which sustained the lower courts, which had ordered the payments.

Ex-Prosecutor, Accused by Realty Man, Is Freed

Theodore W. Miller, former assistant state's attorney, was freed of a charge of disorderly conduct by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the South State street court yesterday. Homer Ingalls, a real estate man with offices at 10 North Wells street, complained that Miller threw him down a flight of stairs when he tried to serve a notice to move on the former prosecutor at 1629 Fargo avenue.

PUPILS FALL ILL IN SCHOOL AFTER DAYS OF HUNGER

Go for Many Hours with Nothing to Eat.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4159 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

In a metropolis of the size and standing of Chicago an almost incredible situation among the children of the public schools was revealed a few days ago by one of the teachers, who related her own experience. The facts were attested in a letter to Miss Frances Swain, head of the department of home economics for the board of education, who has been in charge of the "penny lunches" provided for those pupils who come from homes unable to supply them with sufficient food for a growing child.

As proof of the need for more food for these 15,000 youngsters found to be suffering from malnutrition one teacher wrote that the children of one family became sick in school. Investigation revealed that the boys and girl had not eaten a square meal for days, and that on this particular day they had been without any food entirely for many hours.

Children Faint From Hunger.

In one school, as was previously reported, children fainted from lack of sufficient food. In another, it was revealed yesterday, the pupils are so reluctant to reveal their hunger that the teachers depend only on the most reliable method of all—the weighing of all boys and girls who appear to be underweight. When a child's loss of poundage is consistent the reason is apparent—lack of nourishment. These children are then supplied with proper food, and, if they cannot pay, the wherewithal is provided by the teachers without their schoolmates being any the wiser.

Donations to the Hungry School Children's Fund, inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE to promote this most worthy service, rose yesterday to a total of $6,580.34, with gifts for the day amounting to $1,022.02. It makes a fine start toward the grand total of $300,000 which the teachers, by their own experience of former years, estimate will be needed.

Proof of the vast need of these 15,000 children from destitute homes continues to flow into this office. Principals of schools chosen at random have been called and asked the number of pupils in dire need of food among their students. Invariably the answer runs into the scores, and in some instances borders on the hundreds.

Teacher Reveals Need.

Anna R. Jordan, principal of the Thomas Drummond school, set forth conditions in her area yesterday in the following letter directed to the fund:

"I wish to call your attention to the destitute condition of a great number of our school children. Last year we received no help from outside agencies and our teachers handled the most desperate cases. After a thorough survey and elimination we spent $100 a month. Our unexpended fund was placed in a neighboring bank, which failed.

"We anticipate great suffering this winter and any help you can give would certainly assist in keeping up the standard of our school."

Each edition of this newspaper carries in an adjoining column a coupon which may be clipped to acompany a donation of whatever size. These funds are to be administered through the same routine used last year by the board of education under the supervision of Miss Swain of the department of home economics.

WORKERS CHEERED BY REOPENING OF OIL FIELDS IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Oil men, bankers, merchants, and the jobless were cheered tonight by the action of Gov. W. H. Murray in ordering the reopening of Oklahoma's flush oil fields tomorrow morning.

The governor explained he was lifting the shutdown, which has been in effect two months, on the pledge of operators to aid in curtailing production, although crude oil still is 30 cents under his $1 per barrel idea of what it should be.

Hundreds of unemployed men saw an opportunity to return to work and merchants and bankers, too, were jubilant.

Meanwhile Lieut. Col. Cicero I. Murray, the executive's cousin, was tackling the task of prorating production under a continuation of military rule. The apparent goal was to hold Oklahoma's production to 546,000 barrels daily as specified in a tristate production compact.

ROBBERS SEIZE $4,750 GEMS IN STREET HOLDUP

Two bandits obtained $4,750 in gems and $38 in cash last night in a robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Moore, 5128 Hyde Park boulevard. Moore is credit manager for the Charles A. Stevens Bros.' store.

The Moores, returning from a south side restaurant, had just drawn up in front of their home in their car when the bandits appeared. Only one, the man nearest Mrs. Moore, was armed. Mrs. Moore nearly frustrated the holdup by seizing the robber's gun. Noticing the man seemed nervous and fearing he might fire, she relinquished her hold and submitted to the robbery. She lost a ring valued at $2,500, another ring worth $750, a bracelet which cost $1,500, and $26 in cash. Moore gave up $12.

FUND FOR RELIEF TOPS A MILLION; WOMEN ORGANIZE

Mrs. Jos. Cudahy Heads New Division.

Deport Destitute Aliens

One hundred aliens, the majority of whom are destitute persons taking advantage of the government's offer to return them to their homelands free of charge, will be deported tonight from the Chicago district, according to Shirley Smith, director of immigration. Only three of the contingent have criminal records.

The Joint Emergency Relief fund stepped over the million dollar mark yesterday.

H. L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co. handed a check for $100,000 to Robert M. Hutchins, chairman of the special gifts division of the organization. This is a contribution on behalf of the investment house and its employés, and brings the total subscriptions to $1,037,555, including the $250,000 pledge of Julius Rosenwald contingent upon five others donating the same amount.

The goal of the relief organization is $8,800,000, and so far no campaign has been conducted except for large gifts from the wealthy citizens of the county. This campaign has been in progress less than a week.

Organize Women's Division.

A women's division of the relief organization was announced yesterday by Samuel Insull Jr., who is in charge of the general campaign to raise funds. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy is chairman. As vice chairmen she announced the following:

MRS. JOSEPH CREMIN, representing the Catholic Charities.

MRS. IRVING S. FLORSHEIM, representing the Jewish Charities.

MRS. CHARLES KING CORSANT, representing the Salvation Army.

MRS. FRANCES DICKINSON, representing the United Charities.

MRS. FREDERIC UPHAM, representing the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

In addition Mrs. Charles I. Pierce was selected as chairman of the finance committee and Mrs. Charles Garfield King as recording secretary.

Mrs. Cudahy Makes Appeal.

"As chairman of this committee," said Mrs. Cudahy, "I earnestly appeal for the intelligent assistance of every woman in Chicago in this work of mercy. Chicago is calling upon her women citizens to give their money, their strength, and their talents to this great movement to raise $8,800,000, which must be accomplished in order to provide the elementary necessities for families in dire need.

"In this very critical situation we women must put our shoulder to the wheels. We must give our best, even to the point of sacrifice with a humanitarian, cooperative spirit."

MICHIGAN ROAD WORK AUTHORIZED; TO GIVE JOBS TO 30,000 MEN

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Climaxing an organization meeting today of Gov. Wilber M. Brucker's recently appointed commission of 98 on unemployment and welfare relief problems, the state administrative board, in special session, approved an immediate start on a $10,000,000 highway construction program designed to give employment to 30,000 men.

Plans for the additional program, which supplements a $3,000,000 road building schedule already approved, were announced by the governor in addressing the commission. He said he had already summoned the administrative board members to act on the matter after having obtained a promise of cooperation in the venture from a Detroit banking group. He left the commission session to lay the program before the administrative board, obtaining its immediate approval.

Much highway work which would otherwise be deferred until late next year will now be started during the late fall and early winter, helping greatly, it is believed, in taking up the unemployment slack in many parts of the state. It was agreed that the board will convene again tomorrow to go over with the highway committee some of the proposed construction work.

LACK MONEY FOR NEEDY MOTHERS, BUY $2,400 AUTO

Eighteen hundred mothers and their 6,000 children failed yesterday to receive the checks to which they are entitled under the mothers' pension law. The checks, amounting to approximately $50,000, are scheduled to be mailed out every two weeks to the mothers who are without other means of support.

The county board directed Michael O'Connor, board clerk, to confer with County Treasurer McDonough concerning the possible raising of funds for the mothers.

The board then approved the purchase of a $2,400 sedan for Sheriff Meyering. Mrs. Amelia Sears, board member, objected to the new automobile, pointing out that only one bid was received. She questioned both the need of a new car and the advisability of paying $2,400 when a less expensive car might do. She was overruled.

Sheriff Meyering has an automobile, it was revealed, which will be accepted at a valuation of $300 in part payment for the new automobile.

650,000 Out of Work in France, Labor Figures Show

PARIS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Records compiled by the Federation of Labor place the total number of unemployed in France at 650,000. The ministry of labor reported today that plants with pay rolls of more than 100 men are employing 218,500 fewer workers than at this time last year. The Socialist party figured that 2,500,000 workers are on part time employment.

OFFICIALS ORDER WORK TO GIVE JOBS TO 1,800

Defer Other Projects to Avert Special Taxes.

Unemployment conditions yesterday caused city officials to order one group of public improvements and postpone action on another group.

The work ordered comprised water main extensions to cost $301,000. Funds for that work are collected as part of the regular city water rents, and the projects, under a "staggered" system of employment, will provide jobs for 1,820 men. At the same time the board of local improvements ordered postponed the majority of forty-nine paving and other improvement projects, at an estimated cost of $2,871,000.

Those projects would have been paid for by special assessments. The taxpayers affected appeared before the board and entered a long series of protests, in which unemployment and the loss of funds in closed banks were the principal reason cited for their inability to pay assessments now.

Approve Projects of $300,000.

The board approved fifteen minor projects, of a total cost of $200,000, where the improvements are of an emergency nature. The largest of these improvements is the paving of 82d street, from Vincennes avenue to Wentworth avenue, at a cost of $50,000.

The water main extensions were ordered by Commissioner of Public Works Sprague following a conference with Mayor Cermak. Work will be given to 910 men next Monday morning. At the end of two weeks these will give way to a second shift of the same number. The two shifts will alternate until the work is finished. All civil service laborers now laid off for lack of city funds will be given employment first and the remaining jobs will be opened to other unemployed. There are some 200 projects to be executed.

Inspect Magnolia Sewer.

A. J. Schafmeyer, engineer for the board of local improvements, and T. S. Ford, city sewer engineer, yesterday inspected progress on the $2,925,000 Magnolia avenue sewer, a special assessment project started under the last city administration. It will be finished next September.

The sewer empties into a 16 foot conduit at Lawrence and Magnolia avenues, leading to the north side sewage disposal plane at Lawrence avenue and the north branch of the river. It will extend north to the city limits, at Ashland avenue and Juneway terrace.

It has been finished and is in use as far north as Glenlake and Glenwood avenues. It was designed to relieve the northeast section of the city, where the present antiquated sewer system had caused many flooded basements in storm times.

DOOLITTLE HERE TO TAKE PLANE ON NEW RECORD HOP

Will Start Canada-Mexico Flight on Monday.

Maj. James H. Doolittle flew into Chicago airport from St. Louis yesterday afternoon on an American Airways plane as a passenger. He came here to get his 400 Laird racer, in which he plans to attempt another dash to dusk record speed flight on Monday, from Ottawa, Ont., to Mexico City. He went immediately to Curtiss airport, 83d street and Stony avenue, to inspect the racer, upon which several alterations were being completed.

After inspecting the plane, Maj. Doolittle said he would return to the airport at 7:30 o'clock this morning to fly it to Ford airport at Lansing, Ill., where he plans to take on a full load of gasoline and start for Ottawa by 9 o'clock. The plane is being altered by the R. M. Laird Airplane company, which built it for the Cleveland speed foundation.

Used in Record Flight.

In the same racer, Maj. Doolittle flew 2,454 miles, from the Burbank airport, Los Angeles, to the Newark airport, near New York, in 11 hours and 15 minutes on Sept. 4. His average speed, including three stops for gas, was 223 miles an hour. The flight won him the Bendix prizes. His route from Ottawa to Mexico City will be slightly longer, about 2,500 miles. The flyer plans to stop for gas at Washington, D. C.; Birmingham, Ala., and Corpus Christi, Tex.

His only worry, he said, is leaving motor. There is the possibility of ice forming in the carburetor or the motor failing to bring the oil temperature to the proper heat, thus lowering its efficiency. The motor is a Wasp Jr., supercharged to about 535 horse power.

Several changes made in the plane seek to increase its speed and flying efficiency. Metal strips have been applied to the leading edges of the wings, where rain wore off the fabric on the trip from coast to coast. Air deflectors have been placed inside the engine cowling to divert air to the back sides of the cylinders for better cooling.

Alter Landing Gear.

Streamlining of the landing gear has been refused. The plane has been rerigged so that it can be flown "hands off the stick." A new type directional gyro operated by a gyroscope and used to detect abrupt swings of the compass in rough air in order to keep on a straight course has been installed on the instrument panel.

Two air vents, which bring fresh air from the entering edge of the upper wing outside the exhaust blast, were moved so that the stream of air would blow directly into the pilot's face.

E. M. (Matty) Laird, designer and builder of the plane, has flown it on several test flights since the changes and found that it handles much more easily and he believed it has picked up some speed. However, it remains for Doolittle's flight to show whether the plane is faster or not, because it requires a five mile level flight for the plane to pick up its real momentum.

PACIFIC FLYERS WILL BE GUESTS HERE NEXT WEEK

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., flying in their Wasp powered Bellanca monoplane, will arrive at Sky Harbor airport next Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning for a two day visit in Chicago. The flyers have accepted the invitation of the Press club of Chicago, which will entertain them at a luncheon and banquet. The two are still at Wenatchee, Wash., with their plane. Pangborn and Herndor wired the Press club that they were uncertain as to which day they could arrive as they had not determined the full extent of the damage caused their plane by landing it on the belly of the fuselage, made necessary when they dropped the landing gear shortly after taking off from Japan.

The C. A. T. Airlines of Mexico are spending $250,000 in an expansion program that includes the purchase of three new Bach tri-motor transport planes, to be placed in service late this month. A new line from Tia Juana to Mazatlan is to be inaugurated. Capital has been raised in the United States for the expansions, according to Theodore T. Hull, president of the system.

Igor Sikorsky, designer of amphibion planes, yesterday passed through Chicago returning to his plant at Bridgeport, Conn., on the United Air Lines. The company is putting the finishing touches to the new S-40, which will be the world's largest plane used on a scheduled air line when it is placed in service on Pan-American Airways. The plane weighs seventeen tons and is powered by four Hornet motors.

AMERICAN LABOR APPROVES DRIVE FOR 5 DAY WEEK

Convention Hails Courage of 25,000 Strikers.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention applauded today the "courage and perseverence" of 25,000 striking textile workers in Lawrence, Mass., and approved the continuation of the drive for a five day week in private industry and government service.

President William Green reported an organizer had been dispatched from New York to assist the Lawrence strikers, who, he said, "are standing steadfastly for decent wages and the American standard of living." The convention voted to telegraph a message of support to the strikers.

Pleads for Workers.

Tom McMann, Massachusetts labor leader, made an impassioned appeal on behalf of New England workers and asserted they were oppressed by manufacturers.

New England employers, McMann chcarged, have "entered into an unholy alliance to force by hunger another pay reduction and bankers are using the whip and lash as never before to destroy homes."

The convention rejected a resolution day" would be impracticable and upon which all organized labor throughout the nation would begin a five day week.

This stand was in conformity with the report of the shorter work committee, which advised that "proclamation day would be impracticable and unwise. Steady progress toward the shorter work week has been made by the federation, the committee reported, despite unfavorable business conditions.

Bids for Convention.

An invitation to the convention to meet in Washington, D. C., next year was presented by R. P. Alifas, representing central labor unions of that city. Alifas said Washington was "the sounding board of the nation," and he called attention to the approaching presidential election and to the publicity and educational features of the national capital.

Meanwhile in committee rooms delegates debated the building trades department fight to force carpenters, bricklayers and electrical workers to affiliate with the department or get out of the federation.

Mobilization of all labor organizations in the United States to fight passage by congress of a sales tax was ordered by the convention and restoration of a federal gift tax and increase of federal income and state inheritance taxes was urged.

A sales tax, federation spokesmen declared, would benefit only 2 per cent of the people of the United States and saddle the burden on the remaining 98 per cent.

The federation also went on record as favoring a law making it mandatory for naval construction and repairs to be done in navy yards rather than by private concerns. Another resolution, also proposed by the metal trades, opposing the employment of sailors in competition with civilian employés in repairing and overhauling naval vessels, and proposing a law restricting such work, received convention approval.

22 TOWNS FIGHT FOR LOWER RATE ON NATURAL GAS

Representatives of twenty-two towns and villages served with gas by the Public Service company of Northern Illinois gathered in the Oak Park village hall last night to form an organization to fight for lower rates when the new natural gas from Texas is piped in.

The villages agreed that they should hire one attorney to represent the entire body of customers and to assess each municipality 2 cents per capita. It was figured that this would raise $10,000 for the fight. Another meeting was called for Oct. 13 for final decision.

The towns' residents complained that the reductions ordered into effect temporarily by the Illinois commerce commission are not large enough. They said that domestic customers in the suburbs are charged much more than those in Chicago. The commerce commission ordered the present rates in Chicago down 6½ per cent for domestic consumers and 31 per cent for heating gas, while the suburbs are to get reductions of 5 and 30 per cent under the same classifications.

Among the towns represented were Streator, Ottawa, Evanston, Cicero, Maywood, Oak Park, Harvey and Marseilles.

TWO BANKS ON WEST SIDE ARE ORDERED CLOSED

Two west side banks with interlocking directorates, one a state and the other a national institution, were closed yesterday at the request of their boards of directors.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson closed the South West Trust and Savings bank, 3500 Archer avenue. The bank was capitalized at $400,000, had a surplus of $100,000, and deposits of $2,500,000.

Alfred P. Leyburn, chief national bank examiner, closed the West Side Atlas National bank, 1601 Roosevelt road, an institution with $200,000 capital, $50,000 surplus, and $1,500,000 deposits. Thomas J. Healy was president of both banks and Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review, was a vice president, director, and one of the principal stockholders.

The state auditor pointed out that neither of the closed institutions had any connection with the West Side Trust and Savings bank, 735 Roosevelt road, whose statement of condition, as published yesterday, listed resources of $11,773,000.

"We're the same old bank in the same old place and not affiliated with any other bank, stronger than ever before," said Louis H. Heymann, president of the West Side Trust and Savings bank.

COURT WEIGHS WOMAN'S PLEA TO ESCAPE JAIL

The appeal of Mrs. Inez B. Crandall of Evansville, Ind., from the ruling of Federal Judge Evan A. Evans, on a habeas corpus writ by which she is seeking to escape a three months' jail sentence and a $500 fine, was taken under advisement by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday. Mrs. Crandall was sentenced by the probate court in Evansville.

Mrs. Crandall filed suit for damages in a St. Louis court following the death of her husband, Joseph, a locomotive engineer for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, in a boiler explosion two years ago. In violation of an injunction granted by the Evansville court, which ruled that the case should have been instituted at Evansville, Mrs. Crandall's attorneys continued the press the action in St. Louis.

The writ of habeas corpus was then filed with Judge Evans. The judge dismissed the writ for lack of jurisdiction.

FRANKIE'S BRIBE OFFER CONVICTS HIM AS RUMMER

West Side Gambler and Cousin Found Guilty.

As the result of a $10,000 bribe offer to dry agents, West Side Frankie Pope, squat proprietor of several gambling establishments in South Halsted street, and his cousin, Fred Pope, a diamond broker, were found guilty of violating the prohibition law by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday.

The two were convicted of having an interest in a huge still in Melrose Park that was raided by prohibition agents nearly two years ago. Judge Barnes deferred passing sentence until next Wednesday.

On the witness stand yesterday Frankie claimed that he "was only kidding" about the $10,000 bribe offer, and his cousin insisted that he had never made any offer. Their attorneys, Capt. William Waugh and Harry Olson, announced that they would file appeals.

The bribe offer was depended upon by Assistant District Attorney Walter E. Wiles to prove that the Popes had an interest in the still.

Neither Frankie nor Fred was at the still when it was raided. Fred arrived at the still shortly after the raid, and upon finding that the agents were not inclined to accept his bribe of $3,000, he offered to take them downtown to see the "boss," according to Agent Brice Armstrong. He led them to 14 South Halsted street, where, Agent Paul Shoop testified, Frankie "boosted the figure $7,000."

Judge Barnes' verdict was a blow to Frankie, who, the day before, had been found not guilty of a liquor violation charge involving the Villa Maurice at 14 South Halsted street, which the government alleged he owned. In that case he successfully defended himself by declaring that he was a gambler, not a bootlegger.

SHIP'S AIR MAIL PILOT IS FOUND FLOATING IN SEA

PARRSBORO, N. S., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The body of Fritz Simon, pilot of the liner Bremen's mail plane, which crashed on Cobequid bay early Tuesday morning, was found today.

Lieut. Louis Leigh, who sighted the body floating in the bay, said he believed Simon had been alive until today. Leigh had been searching the bay since Tuesday from a seaplane.

Buoyed up by his life belt, Simon was upright in the water. In his hand he held a monocle. Blood was still flowing from a cut in his head.

Garfield Park Hospital Nurses Form Health Club

Nurses at the Garfield Park hospital yesterday stepped out of their blue and white uniforms and into comfortable gymnasium togs to open formally their new organization known as the Garfield Park Hospital Nurses Health club. Under direction of J. S. Andersen, physical education instructor at the Sears, Roebuck Y. M. C. A., the nurses went through their exercises. They varied the proceedings at one point by giving a playful "bum's rush" to Cecil Feverston. The nurses belonging to the club will hold gymnasium exercises regularly.

SURGEONS SEE SOUND MOVIE OF OPERATION

The first of a series of sound motion pictures of surgical operations was shown last night to a group of fifty staff surgeons of the Garfield Park hospital, 3821 West Washington boulevard. This series employs a new technique which shows the work of the surgeon in great detail and was commented upon by those who saw it as a step forward in the instruction of students.

Four reels showed two operations with accompanying descriptions and explanation of the technique, performed by Prof. Harold O. Jones, associate professor of gynecology at Northwestern university. The camera, suspended immediately above the incision, was operated by Dr. Howard B. Kellogg, staff physician at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital.

Dr. John J. Pflock, president of Garfield Park hospital, led the discussion and Dr. Matthew J. Kiley, Prof. Jones' assistant, explained the professor's technique.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS FINE FOR GUN TOTER

The Appellate court yesterday affirmed a one year jail sentence and a $300 fine for gun toting imposed upon Frank Battaglia, one time head of the "42 gang," by Municipal Judge John H. Lyle.

Justice Kickham Scanlan delivered the opinion, which was concurred in by Presiding Justice Martin M. Ferley and Justice Otto Kerner. Battaglia's appeal alleged that he had been refused a continuance when he was arraigned; that he had been denied a change of venue; and that he had been denied a jury trial.

The appeal court found that Judge Lyle ordered Battaglia sent back to the lockup to confer with his attorney after he had asked for a continuance, and that an hour later the attorney, finding no valid reason for postponement, was willing to proceed. Judge Lyle's action in having refused a change of venue was upheld on the grounds that no petition for this action had been presented. The court ruled that Battaglia had waived a jury when first arraigned.

FAILS TO GET DIVORCE AFTER 14 YEAR FIGHT

Now Telephone Official Has Two Wives.

After trying for fourteen years to get a divorce, Leroy B. Boylan, 1121 East 64th street, a telephone company official, found yesterday that he had made no progress since he first sought separation from Mrs. Anna Boylan, 4848 North Rockwell street, in 1917.

MRS. ANNA BOYLAN.

Back in 1927 the Boylan case gained the distinction of being the oldest divorce case in Cook county. A year ago, apparently, the case was terminated when Judge Joseph Sabath granted Boylan a divorce on grounds of desertion. Yesterday, however, the Appellate court reversed the decree and ordered the case back to the lower courts.

Finds Himself with Two Wives.

Furthermore, Boylan finds himself in additional difficulties. It was revealed. After Judge Sabath's decree, Boylan married again and the Appellate court reversal leaves him with two wives. Just what he is to do must be decided by the courts. Mrs. Boylan has declared that she will never consent to a divorce.

The Appellate court upheld the contentions of Attorney Barratt Wilson, representing Mrs. Boylan, that Judge Sabath should have permitted Mrs. Boylan and her witnesses fuller opportunities to offer evidence in support of her bill for separate maintenance.

At the many divorce trial hearings, Boylan testified that his wife had annoyed him, was a poor housekeeper and that finally she deserted him. He retorted that it was he who had courted her and that he was "friendly with a lady barber."

Affidavits Are Filed.

Some of the evidence which Judge Sabath refused to hear was given to the Appellate court in the form of affidavits. Mrs. Martha Hess testified that Boylan was living with one Minnie Hoffman and her daughter. Ann, Lee Boylan, testified that he had seen his father frequently with other women.

The Appellate court opinion leaves Mrs. Boylan free to prosecute her suit for separate maintenance. Before the decree became Boylan had been paying $80 a month for her support on order of the court.

ADMITS KIRKLAND SENTENCE CAN'T BE KNOCKED OUT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Although he had asked a delegation of Gary citizens to gather for him details of conduct of the trials of Virgil Kirkland, Gary youth, convicted of the rapacious murder of Arlene Draves, it was admitted today by Attorney General James M. Ogden that he has no authority to set aside the judgment and light sentence in the case or to take steps to bring about a new trial.

"I only wish there were a way," Mr. Ogden said. "That case was a travesty on justice."

Members of the citizens' delegation which brought a petition signed by 5,200 Gary citizens asking Ogden's assistance told the attorney general they were "unable to understand the apparent eagerness of Judge Grant Crumpacker to preside at the trials."

The first Kirkland trial went to Crumpacker's court, the Porter County Circuit court at Valparaiso, on a change of venue taken by the defense. The jury convicted Kirkland, the verdict calling for life sentence. Judge Crumpacker then ruled he had erred in conduct of the case and granted a new trial.

The second jury voted to convict, but Judge Crumpacker ruled the conviction called for was only one to ten years in the state reformatory. Judge Crumpacker's son, John, was a defense attorney in both trials.

Case Continued

The case against Lou Backenstoe, 38 yeras old, trainer of Joe Mendi, a performing chimpanzee, was continued to Oct. 27 by Municipal Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the South State street court yesterday. Backenstoe was arranged on a fugitive warrant charging larceny by bailee of $1,500, in connection with the ape's earnings. Backenstoe was arrested on Thursday night.

Assistant State's Attorney Russell Root requested the continuance to permit extradition proceedings against Backenstoe. The complainant in the case is Dr. Alfred Munson, a Detroit dentist, the owner of the ape. Dr. Munson alleges that Backenstoe has failed to account to him for the money earned by the animal's performances within the last month. The sum due him, he says, is $1,500.

Meanwhile the chimpanzee and trainer were held in a cell at the detective bureau. Backenstoe's bond was set at $1,000.

THE IRONY OF THE PALM CASE.

The announcement that the Michigan Supreme court will review the case of Fred Palm will recall the fact that this victim of society is still serving the sentence with which he would have been punished if he had been found guilty of a major crime. Mr. Palm's real crime is that of being a chump. He's probably not the prize blockhead of the country, but the consequences of his imprudence make him easily the best known. For this he was first sentenced to the penitentiary for life, and is even now, after the original sentence had been commuted, serving a sentence of seven and a half to fifteen years. Mr. Palm possessed himself of one half pint too many and it would have been just as well for him legally if he had run amuck through a Michigan countryside. Under the Michigan dry law he was esteemed a person of just such turpitude, and he is in the penitentiary to prove it.

What happens to Mr. Palm may seem unimportant, he being such an obscurity and evidently so little able to use even common prudence when he knew he was living where the man hunt might descend on him. But individuals often test society's morals and sometimes twist its destiny. Dred Scott was only the Negro servant of an army doctor, but his case was framed to make it the blowoff of a national crisis and it was molded to contain the issues of a gigantic conflict.

There are Americans who think that Mooney and Billings, imprisoned in California, present an indictment against all American society as now organized. The two were convicted of responsibility for the Preparedness day bomb threwing which murdered people. Their defenders say they were not guilty. The law of California still holds that they were properly convicted. Radicals the world over have used the Sacco-Vanzetti case to demonstrate the mercilessness of capitalism, the necessary assumption for this being that they were innocent of the crime, murder, of which they were convicted.

Matthew Lyon, a Vermont congressman, was thrown into a filthy jail in Vergennes in the early days of the republic because he said what he thought of John Adams and the Federalists. He brought down the whole system of autocracy which that misguided party was trying to establish under the censorship of the sedition act making political criticism lese majesty. Individuals often have embodied a whole cause and often they were obscure until their plight made them celebrated for what it involved.

The radical indictment of American society using specific cases hinges on the assumption of innocence. If people agree as to guilt in these instances they will agree as to punishment, but in the case of Palm there is no such doubt. He was guilty. The question is, Will the American people tolerate laws which impose such punishments for such offenses? If they support or condone such legal practices, under the excitement of moral enthusiasms or at the urging of unbalanced leaders, they do really expose a serious weakness. They make their own society unsafe for any one.

It would be ridiculous to think of Palm as a dangerous criminal. He was a small town barber and had been in two scrapes with the law before prohibition got him. Apparently they were just such scrapes as a chump might get into. Then he was found in the possession of liquor, and if he had any premonition of what was in store for him that would have been warning. Evidently he did not have sense enough to take alarm. On another search of his possessions a half pint of gin was found and Palm was done for. He's been in the grim lakeside bastile of Marquette several years and he's booked there for several more.

Common sense revolts from such indignity to it. Justice is ashamed that its instrument, law, should be so savage and a democratic society should take alarm at the self-revelation given. Palm's fate is a warning that American communities, when unduly excited or morally beset, may do lynching inside of what they call law. It's an ugly thing.

A SLAP ON THE WRIST.

The chief of police of Berwyn, Thomas Bartunek, has been reduced to the rank of patrolman and indefinitely suspended from the force. Bartunek was accused of having beaten a citizen of Berwyn whom he had arrested for driving without lights. The citizen was found not guilty of the traffic violation, as well as the additional charges of resisting an officer and disorderly conduct which Bartunek had placed against him.

Bartunek's demotion and suspension were ordered by the police and fire commission of the village. As punishment this disciplinary action is altogether insufficient. The police chief has, in effect, been found guilty by his own employers of the crime of assault, though to call what Bartunek is accused of doing by the name assault is putting the most favorable interpretation upon it. What he really has been disciplined for is an abuse of power in its most abhorrent form.

The action of the Berwyn village authorities should be followed up by State's Attorney Swanson. The record as it now stands furnishes a strong presumption that a grave crime was committed by an officer of the law. There can be no respect for law in a community in which the men intrusted with the enforcement of the law hold themselves above it. Mr. Swanson's duty is clear. If Bartunek is punished to the limit which the law will permit, the example should prove a wholesome restraint upon policemen who think a citizen has no rights which must be respected.

THE REFUSAL TO PAY TAXES.

Evidence is accumulating that a good many solvent individuals and corporations in Chicago are refusing to pay their recent taxes for no better reason than that they do not choose to pay. No argument is required to show how dangerous and subversive of order such an attitude can become. The effects are already apparent in the failure of the local governments to pay their employés or to obtain credit in anticipation of taxes.

Many have not paid because they cannot find the money. No blame attaches to them. Others, however, are inventing legal quibbles and excuses for refusing to contribute to the support of government. A favorite dodge is to allege that the assessment is somewhat too high and for that reason to pay no taxes at all. This is a subterfuge which is unconvincing. Any one who thinks that his assessment is excessive is justified in paying what he regards as fair and contesting the rest. That is an honorable course to pursue. It is in striking contrast to the tactics of those who do not pay even a part of their taxes and thereby obtain a temporary advantage over competitors who have honored their obligations to the community.

Refusal to pay taxes simply because taxpaying is distasteful is unfair competition. It is properly resented by those who have paid at considerable sacrifice to themselves. They are no less the victims than are the school teachers and other unpaid municipal employés.

THE FARM BOARD AS CENSOR.

A recent issue of the Northwestern Miller contains an open letter from the editor of the paper, Mr. Robert Sterling, to Mr. George S. Milnor, president of the farm board's Grain Stabilization corporation. The editor says he knows and is prepared to prove that Mr. Milnor brought pressure on millers to withdraw or threaten to withdraw their advertising.

The Northwestern Miller has been sharp in its criticism of farm board policies. Mr. Milnor, it is charged, resented these criticisms and sought to put an end to them by means as conclusive as the blow of a stiletto. This is an aspect of government in business which is not sufficiently stressed. Not only is government in business inefficient, as every one knows, but it gives enormous power to men who may wield it as tyrannously as Mr. Sterling says Mr. Milnor used his power. Whether Mr. Milnor did what he is said to have done or not, it is not to be doubted that a man holding his office might have confronted Mr. Sterling's paper with the alternative of going broke or knuckling under, and a man of less steadfastness than Mr. Sterling might well have been coerced.

The editor's open letter cannot be allowed to close this incident. A precise and extremely serious charge has been made against Mr. Milnor; he is accused of using his influence, derived from his government connection, to prevent free discussion of policies of the government. It is a good deal as if a secretary of the navy were accused of directing the fleet to fire on the office of a New York newspaper which opposed further naval appropriations. Mr. Sterling's letter places a heavy responsibility upon Mr. Milnor to clear himself of the charge.

Editorial of the Day

FALL PLANTING.

[Indianapolis News].

The gardener who seems to be defying nature by outdoor planting at this season merely advertises to the experienced onlooker that he is a person of vision and a forehanded devotee of an interesting diversion or occupation. There is more coöperation with nature in fall planting than even an experienced novice knows about, for nature has no way to carry over even the seeds of annuals, but must broadcast them with a lavish hand and trust to the sturdiness of the seeds and the benign grace of the winter to carry them along until spring in a location favorable to thrift.

Trees and shrubs can be planted in spring, as the instinct of most gardeners tells them, but the time to take them up is in the fall, whether they are set out then or later, and the confirmed spring planter may be surprised to learn that much of his spring bought shrubbery has been carried through the winter in damp storage. The fall planter argues that the tree or shrub might as well have been provided with an opportunity in the fall to establish its root system, so that in the spring it is prepared to devote the service of its underground structure to the more important business, from the point of view of the owner, of showing signs of becoming something above the ground.

There is an axiom that spring gardens are made in the fall, and it is not far from general acceptance. Fall not only is the time to plant many of the bulbs that produce the heralds of spring but also to draw heavily on the imagination for the effect that will be produced. All the fun in gardening is not in digging. With a garden plan to make, a supply of information and the help of an advisory seedsman, a gardener may pursue his effects in the comfort of his fireside. But he will be hardly human if he is not inspired to test his theories in practice. If he does his planting in the fall, he carries the picture of the final effect in his mind all winter, and thus achieves his own defiance of nature.

A TREATMENT FOR ITCH.

SEVEN year itch bears a name that indicates an ability to hang on. It has been proposed to change the name to seven day itch. Those who advocate the change say they have no trouble in curing a case in a week. If a man has it seven years, it is because he had rather have the itch than to take the trouble to cure it. Therefore, if he wants to call his disease seven year itch he should go a step further and call it "Jones' seven year itch." The malady itself should not be stigmatized with any of the results of Jones' shortcomings. Which means that many object to the methods of cure more than they do to the disease.

In most sulphur ointment cures it is necessary to sterilize the clothing as a part of the treatment. Some fail to go to that trouble. It is necessary to get the sulphur ointment into the subterranean passages in which the bug hides in the skin. This requires that the scab be scrubbed off before the ointment is applied, and that the sulphur grease be well rubbed in. Many object to all that washing and scrubbing. Some are unwilling to use ointments, and particularly sulphur ointments. The doctors are willing to be obliging. They say if you will not use sulphur ointments, then use compound solution of cresol. This is as common as pig tracks. Every drug store carries it and many farmers and others keep it handy.

The method of using it, which Dr. L. De Milo recommends, is as follows: Grasp a piece of gauze or cotton with a forceps and use it as a brush or mop. With this the cresol solution is applied. Since it burns, and since the burning is not felt for the fraction of a minute after the application is made, the process of applying should be deliberate. In fact, his advice is that a nurse make the first application, at least. If the mother of the patient has seen it done, she may make the second application. The entire body, except the face and neck, should be painted with the solution. Very sensitive areas should be protected. If the burning is unbearable the solution can be washed off with soap and water. Water alone, used as a wash, will prove unsatisfactory. The burning should not be troublesome, except on the scratched patches.

The painting should be repeated in about three days. As a rule, two paintings are all that is required. One week should be the time required for cure. It may be best to put the underclothing in hot water, and to expose the outer clothing to sunlight.

If other members of one's social group are enjoying itch, it is generally best to change one's associates until they change their parasites.

MEASLES AND EARS.

Mrs. D. L. C. writes: Two months ago my 2 year old daughter had German measles. Soon afterwards her ear commenced running a yellow matter which has a terrible odor. It has never pained her at all. 1. Is this what is called a running ear? 2. Could it have been caused by the measles? 3. What can I do to stop it? I keep it swabbed out with cotton in warm oil, and grease the outside of her neck around the ear, but it does not seem to do much good.

REPLY.

1. It is.
2. Yes.
3. Local treatment will cure running ear, but it must be proper. Some cases require operation to remove dead tissue. Some are cured by proper washing with Dakin's fluid. Exposure to direct sunlight cures some. If such cases are neglected the hearing suffers.

FASTING AND INDIGESTION.

H. C. writes: I have heard that fasting is a sure cure for indigestion. Is that correct?

REPLY.

No.

TRAFFIC NOISES.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Can't a law or ordinance be made to avoid heavy traffic between 55th and 59th on Princeton in the early hours of the morning? This traffic starts at about 5 a. m. and keeps everybody in the neighborhood up by the racket they make. These trucks go by with their tailgates hanging down and chains running from the back, making quite a racket. L. M.

Officers were assigned to investigate and they report they made a number of visits daily to the location referred to between the hours of 5 a. m. and 7:30 a. m., since receiving this complaint, and found no noise nuisance caused by trucks using this street. Adjacent owners were interviewed and they stated that they were not disturbed by the trucks. Truck drivers were cautioned against making any unnecessary noises while using this street.

CHANGE OF NAME.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I came to the United States on a visiting visa, married an American citizen, and in due time received my citizenship. Subsequently I was divorced. In the divorce decree I was permitted to assume my maiden name. 1. Could I exchange my present citizenship paper to have my maiden name in it? 2. Can I get a passport on my maiden name?

H. C.

1. No.
2. Take the matter up with the passport office in the Transportation building. "It is sufficient, in legal proceedings and elsewhere, that a person is designated by a name by which he is commonly known and called, even though it is not his true name. . . . A marriage by the name by which the individual is commonly known is valid. . . . Where it is not done for a fraudulent purpose, and in the absence of statutory restriction, one may lawfully change his name without resort to any legal proceedings, and for all purposes the name thus assumed will constitute his legal name just as if he had borne it from birth."—45 C. J. 380, 381. Chapter 96 of the Illinois revised statutes provides that a person "may" file a petition and secure a court decree, but it is held that such statutes do not abrogate the common law right of an individual to change his name without application to the courts. In adopting a new name, one should for convenience give notice of the change to those persons to whom the information may be material. In transactions in which the old name appears, we suggest continuing to use it to avoid confusion. For example, the same name under which one took title to real estate should be used in a subsequent conveyance.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"DO YOU THINK," asked our Perspiring Reporter of six of our leading citizens, "the White House five hundred million dollar plan will immediately cause the return of prosperity?"

MR. SELDOM HOME, cashier of a Hot Dog Wagon—"I don't know. Al and his lawyers are pretty smart and I shouldn't wonder if he would wiggle out with nothin' but a slap on the wrist."

MR. U. TELLEM, keeper of the Dog Pound for Waffle Hounds—"I hain't had time to read more than seventeen pages about Al today, but he's sure putting up a good fight. Mebbe they'll send him to the chair, but I dunno."

MRS. FRIEDA DOUGHNUT, home girl—"It's a bum rap. Why, Mr. Capone is a perfect gentleman. I don't know what he's done, but, anyhow, he never done it."

PROF. OTTO LEARN, teacher of Trained Fleas—"The public is watching with breathless interest. I stood out in front of the court building myself all day yesterday, but I didn't get to see him."

MISS IMA CUTIE, yer party doesn't answer girl—"Say, hain't it a shame to jump on a nice guy like Al jest because he wouldn't divide fifty-fifty with the government? Say, that gives me a pain in the neck."

A MESSAGE.

If some day Death should, smiling, turn to me
And o'er my shoulders fold his sable cloak,
You must not weep nor grieve for me, but see
My joy that all my earthly chains be broke.

I go to other fields, a fairer land—
New vistas, wider visions meet my eye.
There will be other labors for my hand,
And new adventures 'neath that other sky.

No sighs nor tears that dissipate the soul
Can build a lasting monument on Earth.
Far rather would I see my life-work whole,
See you convert it to some lasting worth.

But more than that, my love, remember this:
Your happiness was Heaven itself to me.
And I may never find a realm of bliss,
Lest, turning, chance your smiling face to see.

And happiness cannot be found alone;
So live your life, seek new friends, love the old;
And do not let your heart turn into stone,
Nor let your love of laughter become cold.

Though I have often failed you in this land,
Know that I'll always guard you from above,
Close by your side in spirit I will stand,
For Death can never be the death of love!

ROSCOE CHARLES WILSON.

WE GET A HOLIDAY come Monday all because Chris Colombo discovered us that day. Should we make whoopee over the event or will thoughts of the eighteenth amendment, the stock market, prosperity still hiding behind that corner, jazz bands, and Eugenie hats make us wish that after Chris had discovered us he had forgotten all about it as Leif Ericson did?

THE PACIFISTS still insist that there will be no more wars. Wonder what they call that bombing of Chinchow by the Japanese: A tennis game or ring-around-the-rosy?

THIS CHANGING WORLD! Time was when in these United States we insisted on our great men being born of poor but honest parents in a one room log cabin. And now down east they're insisting that Lincoln wasn't born in a one room log cabin at all, but in a pretentious two story house, and that his father was well-to-do. After a while we'll make Lincoln's a brownstone front mansion with a dumb waiter and a bath tub and his father a rich banker. Styles in great men change as often as styles in women's hats.

THIS YEAR'S COTTON CROP is the second largest in history and the planters say they can't get enough for it to buy a pair of suspenders. What this country needs is longer shirt tails. Write to your congressman today.

THE REV. PAUL SCHULTZ in opening the Lutheran convention yesterday said the Bible permits but the government forbids the use of alcoholic beverages. Maybe there's a chance for a wet to sneak in at the Pearly Gates after all.

BAR NONE RANCH REMUDA.

Mean as Satan; homely, too,
Hammer head and awkward feet,
You never know what he's going to do;
That pitching pinto, Piebald Pete.

Cherry's coat is smooth as satin,
Her disposition is sweet,
And Lady Luck is white as milk,
But I'll take Piebald Pete.

See that red strawberry roan?
She's well built, small and neat,
But, though he's elicited many a groan,
Saddle me Piebald Pete.

Pegasus, slim and swift as light,
With silver hoofs and fleet,
Would be the mate for that mare, Delight,
But give me Piebald Pete.

The Princess, Cæsar, and gentle Bess,
The Bar None herd complete,
But the one I love, I must confess,
Is that pitching Piebald Pete.

AND THEN there's Pepper Martin, the superman of baseball. Those people who aren't excited over Al Capone and his trial are so daffy over Pepper Martin that they, too, won't even look at the five hundred million dollar prosperity plan until baseball goes into winter quarters.

AND WHEN we think of the crowds at the football games today we will laugh merrily if anybody asks us about Old Man Depression and say lightly: "Never heard of him." R. H. L.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1915.

CHICAGO.—On the stroke of midnight this [Sunday] morning Chicago went on the water wagon for a day for the first time in forty-three years. Capt. James O'Toole of Chicago avenue station stood at Clark street and Chicago avenue at midnight and looked toward the river. The street was ablaze with light. "One minute later," the captain said, "the lights in the myriad of saloons went out as if they had been turned off by a single switch. I believe that was the situation in the 7,152 saloons all over Chicago." Assistant Chief Schuettler announced that all reports in at 2 o'clock indicated there was not a violation of the midnight closing order. Most of the downtown restaurants remained open until their patrons might consume the beers and wines they had ordered before twelve o'clock. The corporation counsel had given this leeway. The distilleries had loaded the saloons up with bottled goods to be taken home by the patrons, and it is likely that more whisky was sold in the loop last night than ever before in the history of Chicago.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza is to be recognized by the United States and other American republics as the head of the de facto government in revolution ridden Mexico.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1901.

NEW YORK.—The Alfred G. Vanderbilt coaching party, which had undertaken to make the trip from New York to Philadelphia and return in a single day, arrived here at 1:32 this morning, three hours and two minutes behind scheduled time. The party has set a new record for the round trip as the feat has never been attempted by coach before. The trip was planned by James Hazen Hyde, who defrayed its cost, Mr. Vanderbilt and Maurice E. Howlett. The drive was made in less than eighteen hours. Some of the scenes at relay places where fresh horses were obtained were remindful of the "lightning change" acts of the vaudeville stage.

CHICAGO.—The forty acre park bounded by Leavitt street, Western avenue, 27th street and 39th street was formally named McKinley park by the south park commissioners as an enduring memorial to the murdered President. A McKinley statue, in heroic size was proposed for the park.

CHICAGO.—Marquette club observed its thirtieth anniversary of the Chicago fire by a banquet at the Auditorium. Booker T. Washington, the Negro educator and leader, and Congressman Charles B. Landis of Indiana were the principal speakers.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 10, 1881.

LONDON.—An immense congregation assembled at the Congregational chapel at Newcastle-on-Tyne on Sunday to hear Moody and Sankey, the evangelists.

NEW YORK.—Speaking on the heresy trial of Dr. H. W. Thomas of Chicago, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher in his sermon at Plymouth church today said: "It's an injury to the church to try to suppress free thought. I love the Methodist church for the grand work it has done, but when I see an important gathering like that meeting in the west to cast out a man like the Rev. Dr. Thomas, a free proclaimer of the truth as revealed to him, a man of sweet nature, of fragrant piety, of peace, and purity—when they cast out such a man I say, they have cast out an angel to let in a devil. The church which cannot hold a pure, noble, Christlike man is not fit to live and call itself a Christian church."

WASHINGTON.—George M. Scoville, brother-in-law of Charles J. Guiteau, assassin of President Garfield, returned from New York and said he has not yet selected any associate counsel to assist him in conducting the defense of Guiteau. He said that Guiteau had given him a statement in which he said: "I expect to issue a book shortly wherein I shall show that the President's wrecking the Republican party last spring by the unwise use of patronage would have resulted in another war and that the Lord inspired me to remove him to keep the Republican party intact and save the nation another heartrending and desolating war."

IN THE AUTUMN OF 1891.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—In today's TRIBUNE is illustrated the "site of the University of Chicago in 1891"—a swamp or swail, as the picture indicates. This is supposed to have been where Harper library now stands. May I say that the land where Harper library stands never was a swamp or even a piece of low ground? Along Midway plaisance and north there, of the land was high. Immediately west of Dorchester avenue was "Scammon's woods," named after J. Young Scammon; and to the west of this spot [between Woodlawn and Cottage Grove avenues] was "Gansell's prairie." One was heavily timbered with oaks, the other was a cattle pasture. In the former, when a boy, I shot wild pigeons; on the prairie I picked yellow and white moccasins, shooting stars and other wild flowers of an earlier day. But there never was indication of a slough or swamp. In Jackson park, south of 59th street extended eastward, all was swamp; in fact, the present lagoon is only old Phillips' creek deepened and enlarged. It was here the boys caught bullheads and frogs and shot ducks.

CHARLES P. ROOT.

WAR RISK INSURANCE.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—To make it possible for ex-soldiers to carry insurance while they were getting on their feet financially, the government issued term insurance policies which had to be converted to some other regular form of insurance at the expiration of a specified term.

The period of conversion for most of these policies falls somewhere within the present period of depression, and the ex-soldiers are now faced with the choice of converting their term policies to other forms at rates from four to ten times higher, or of dropping their policies and leaving their dependents entirely without protection.

Here exists an excellent and worthy means of aiding ex-service men without adding to governmental expenditure. All that is required is that the period of term insurance be lengthened. Cannot some immediate action be taken to bring this about? EX-SERVICE.

IT'S A CONSPIRACY.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Is it necessary to have a certain pull in order to have opinions inserted in your column providing they live up to the rules of your paper? I am a constant reader of your TRIBUNE and I have sent in some remarks coming up to the requirements of your paper. Why is it they have never published the same?

ALBERT SCHMIDT.

BOOZE OR BUDDIES!

St. Charles, Ill., Sept. 24.—If all the money all the Legionnaires spent on liquor at the Detroit convention were put in one big fund and divided among the needy ex-service men they wouldn't need a bonus.

Which does the American Legion love more, booze or buddies?

LEGIONNAIRE'S WIFE.

UNPAID INTERNES.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Does the Cook county board of commissioners appropriate money for salaries for the internes of Cook county hospital? If so, why don't they get it? C. WOODWARD.

THE MARRIAGE RACKET.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—I feel it my duty to enter my protest against the influence of such stories as "The Marriage Racket" now running in your daily paper. I consider it very low toned and unworthy. No one could secure any inspiration toward virtue from it. The young woman heroine seems to be acting only from impulse in refusing or rather not embracing a life of sin. Conscience seems to have no place at all in the story, and the whole setting of the story tends to be degrading rather than uplifting. The profane language and the constant references to impurity as though it were possible, and desirable, and permissible, and marriage as though it were a yoke, and to be avoided, would exert a deadly influence on the young who have had no proper home training and are seeking pleasure merely, as so many are.

Your stand on the liquor question is like that of most of the daily papers [many of us believe, in fact, almost all church members], very bad indeed. Of course you know that your paper is considered "wet" and "very wet" indeed, and doubtless you want it to be so considered. I am very sorry that you take the side you do. With any barriers let down we will soon be engulfed in a flood of drink. You are helping to let down these barriers and will have much to be accountable for at the bar of God. You are creating public opinion in favor of drink and liquor selling, and law breaking in general.

Most of my mature life has been spent as a teacher [up to 1917] in Chicago high schools, so I am not writing as an illiterate person, or as one who does not know about young people or the world. May God help you to decide on a better course. I. H. BRYAN.

GETTING 'EM YOUNG.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—There was a story in your paper this morning of some children out in Evanston who, while watching a film of the American Legion meeting at Detroit, cheered the Legionnaires but booed the President. The children seem to have been possessed of a fine sense of discrimination.

The evident desire of Evanston's mayor to establish a law of lese majesty for the youngsters is not particularly surprising. Evanston has long been outstanding as the home of professional reformers. To people of that ilk nothing is so sweet as "cramming it down the other fellow's throat." A. O. JACKSON.

TURNING ON THE HEAT.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Your editorial of Aug. 6 states that the governing comrades in Moscow have decided to turn on the heat only three days a week in soviet Russia. Can THE TRIBUNE give any information how many days of heat millions of families in this country will enjoy, if any? We have already been informed through your paper about the millions of jobless in this country; also about the many starving children. Perhaps THE TRIBUNE believes we can get hot by perusing such editorial stuff, and thereby eliminate the necessity of coal.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO., Boston

Milne Writes First Novel; It's Delightful

Depicts Author Who Produces a Best Seller.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Two People," by A. A. Milne. [Dutton.] Published yesterday.

A. A. MILNE, who is as well known to Americans as any English writer, what with his incomparable "When We Were Very Young," his plays, his mysteries and his essays, yesterday became, for the first time, a novelist.

A. A. MILNE.

As far as I am concerned that "incomparable" can be applied as an adjective to everything he writes. I know that some of the very modernest moderns tilt their noses at Mr. Milne's "whimsy" and feel as if they had just taken a gulp of salt water over some of his fancies; act as if his name were pronounced Millen to rhyme with killin', which is their secret idea of his style. But I'm just one of those old-fashioned readers who likes a bit of sentiment and who can read some of the baby talk in "When We Were Very Young" and get all crinkly inside with laughter, and have a good chuckle with Mr. Milne in his essays on satirical inconsequentials. He can "whimse" all over the page for me—the more the better.

You do get pretty tired of the decalogue being smashed to smithereens as the serious business of almost everything you read. Nowadays much of the writing concerns itself with the breaking of commandments—often with the simultaneous shattering of at least two of the exact thou shalt not's. Much of present day fiction makes its readers so commandment conscious they forget life is mostly realer and life is earnester—and a good deal more fun—than making a business of being naughty.

Mr. Milne has written about "Two People" who are married, in love with each other, and blissfully happy, and that's that. And if in fiction you yearn for infidelities and cruelties, mental and physical, for incompatibilities and all of the other reasons for divorce, you may take this person's word for it that "Two People" is no book for you. Your reading it would be just a waste of good time that could be spent on Kraft-Ebing or Freud, or the records of a Morals court.

But if you are a simple soul and, like this literary editor, enjoy a little whiff of literary perfume now and then distilled from the flowers of life as an antidote to the whiffiness of, let us say, the world's drains—here is your bouquet. "Two People" is delightful, charming—and one asks why shouldn't there be some special words for the special kind of delicate fragrance of a book like "Two People." "Delightful" and "charming" are all worn around the edges from overuse. And yet they describe exactly "Two People." The two people themselves are that. Their story is that. Mr. Milne's style is that. Life, somehow, is more that when you have finished the book. So we'll have to let "delightful" and "charming" stand.

The two people are a husband aged forty-one, who at the beginning of this book has just finished writing a novel, his first AND last he declares, and a wife aged twenty-six who answers the question of "Who is Sylvia? What is she?" with such beauty of form, and spirit as moves not only famous beauties to grudging envy, but the cook to an ungrudging extra course for unexpected company.

Sylvia is as beautiful as the dawn; her husband adores her (and secretly thinks that she is a little dumb). She adores her husband and, being Sylvia, we never know what she secretly thinks, but we secretly know that she puts the correlatives neither-nor before the "beautiful" and in the place of the "but" of the oft-spoken phrase. They are very happy until the husband becomes a famous author, and they leave their country elysium. London offers its gifts to a beautiful woman and a famous man. What happens to them then you will have to read "Two People" to find out.

The satire on the life of the writer of a best seller is perfectly delicious. The hero is a man who can't drive a car without getting chills and fever. Such a soul is no match for the hard business of being a spectacular literary success. And Mr. Milne hasn't missed a trick in reciting the tortures of that duel.

Mr. Milne has, as far as I am concerned, added another noun to "poems," "plays," and "essays," to be modified by that adjective "incomparable." This book makes him an incomparable light novelist.

Meetings and Lectures

This morning at 11 o'clock there will be a children's party in the Walden book shop on North Michigan avenue in honor of Fjeril Hess, the juvenile author.

The first meeting of the Bookfellows will be held this evening at the home of George Steele Seymour, 1225 East 53d street, at which time "Our Summer Reading" will be the subject of discussion.

Story of Incas Put in Book for Children

Other South American Facts Are Told.

BY AGATHA L. SHEA.

[Director of Children's Work for Branches of the Chicago Public Library.]

"South America's Story," by Elsie S. Eells. [McBride.]

"Behind the Battlements," by Gertrude Linnell and Helene Carter. [Macmillan.]

"Picture Map Geography of the U. S.," by Vernon Quinn. [Stokes.]

HISTORY lovers are found among all ages, and our list this week includes two titles, each of which will have an appeal for its respective age group. To the high school reader Elsie S. Eells' "South America's Story" offers a comprehensive and authentic history of that continent, beginning with prehistoric and closing with modern times. Many years' residence in the land of which she writes, during which she has come to know its peoples, their customs and beliefs, combined with a careful study of the forces which have shaped them and their development, have enabled Mrs. Eells to present a story of interest to any student of South American history.

Legends and folklore of the Incas are interspersed in the early history, and one is led into that atmosphere of magic and romance which has played so large a part in the life of the people. The only criticism of the book that this writer would make is that Mrs. Eells in her desire to present a complete and thorough account has been overassiduous in her inclusion of numerous details, the omission of which would not have detracted from the value of the work as a whole, and would have undoubtedly made the book more appealing to the young reader of history who is not enough of an enthusiast to compass this more complete work.

However this may be, the book remains a valuable contribution to the young reader's history shelf on a subject of which there is a real dearth of material.

Entirely different in theme and treatment is the second book on our list, "Behind the Battlements," by Gertrude Linnell and Helene Carter. This tells in a delightful manner the stories of the ancient battlemented cities of Carcassonne, Avignon and Mont St. Michel, of their early history, and of their survival today almost the same as they were centuries ago. The story of the social and home life of the people is woven into the history of the times and interesting incidents make the book a decidedly attractive one for children of the ten to eleven year group. Another book of decided interest and value of this group is Vernon Quinn's new "Picture Map Geography of the United States" with picture maps by Paul Spener Johst.

This very inviting volume devotes two or three pages to each state in the Union, giving concisely geographical facts, industries and products, derivation of name and nickname. The textual information is supplemented by fascinating full-page picture maps graphically presenting the facts stated.

Franz Josef's Death Still Subject of Mystery Tales

The mysterious rumor which surrounded the death of Emperor Franz Josef in the world war and which, curiously enough, is current in Europe today, forms the basis of the story of "Witchfire," the new novel by André Tellier (Greenberg).

CRAIG JOUSTING WITH SHAW OVER TERRY AND HENRY IRVING

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Those who like to see fur and feathers flying will have their fill within the next few weeks. For almost coincidentally with the publication of "The Letters of Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw" will appear the elaborate polemic by Gordon Craig, entitled "Ellen Terry and Her Secret Life." It will be recalled that in his book on Henry Irving, Mr. Craig severely attacked Mr. Shaw, and Mr. Shaw jovially answered back, according to habit.

GORDON CRAIG.

Now the matter is likely to be carried farther into the realm of personalities, with profit only to those who like rows and the ransacking of private papers.

Mysterious, sombre, inscrutable!

FROM a land shrouded in Medieval darkness comes Essad-Bey to tell such tales as modern ears have seldom heard. Himself a Caucasian, he has scaled high mountains to penetrate to its secrets; lived with strange tribes to fathom their mysterious ways; searched for buried treasure; gathered together legends and facts to write this sensational tale of adventure and travel. While the Russians work out their five year plan, this land next door lives according to the plans of its ancestors thousands of years back. Blood feuds rage and bandits flourish; courtship ends in abduction and petty arguments in murder; men and women practice morals and customs utterly alien to our own. Essad-Bey has written an amazing book, which blends magnificent yarns and astounding truths of the most romantic races in the world today. $3.00

LARGER COUNTY UNIT IS LOWDEN CURE FOR TAXES

Urges Consolidations at C. of C. Dinner.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Reconstruction of the system of county and township government in Illinois was advocated by Frank O. Lowden, former governor, last night as a remedy for one phase of the tax problem.

MR. LOWDEN.

He held that too many governments and too many officials are rolling up the tax burden, that the 102 counties as they now exist are a relic of ox-cart days, and that many of them should be merged in groups on a regional basis. Mr. Lowden said the county "no longer functions as a successful government" and that a merger system would be a real step toward local self-government.

Mr. Lowden's address was delivered at a dinner of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce as the finale in a two days' program at the Hotel Sherman devoted to the question of "Finding a Way Out" on taxation and transportation.

Thomas S. Adams, tax authority of Yale university, at the noonday luncheon advocated reduced expenditures without increasing unemployment among city employés, new taxes, and extension of the income tax.

Plea for Consolidation.

Former Gov. Lowden pointed out that county and township governments spend the larger part of the taxes, but have not been modernized, and that counties cut to the measure of horse and buggy days have outlived their usefulness.

"In the average county of Illinois," Mr. Lowden said, "the salaries of county officials absorb a very large percentage of the total revenues of the county, running as high as 50 per cent. That these officials could serve a much larger territory in most instances no one doubts.

"I realise the practical difficulty in effecting the consolidation of counties. Without such consolidation, however, contiguous counties, to a large extent, can be united to administer revenue, schools, highways, health, charities, and other objects of state concern.

"It is a matter of common observation that we have too many public officials. We hear of unemployment everywhere except among public officials. Their number goes on increasing in good and evil times alike.

Calls County Jails a Disgrace.

"Our county jails have been a disgrace for more than a hundred years. Our county almshouses have been a reproach to our civilization. They should be abolished and in their place should come either regional or state institutions."

"We have too many governments," he said, "and an extreme illustration is Cook county. In fact, Cook county comprises only a part of the metropolitan district of which Chicago is the heart. Yet Cook county alone contains 332 independent local governments. Is it any wonder that Chicago, with all its vast resources, should be in financial distress?

"The town or township is a still smaller unit of government which has largely survived its needs. No one but the town assessor knows what its boundaries are.

"In any ideal reconstruction of county government, the boundaries would be so changed as to make of the county a natural economic and social unit, regard being paid to the principal cities and towns and the territory naturally tributary to such. The aim would be to create a county in which community activities and community consciousness were possible.

"It is sometimes urged that to consolidate counties is a move away from local self-government. Quite the reverse is true. If we would check the encroachment of the state upon the functions of the county we must make county government so efficient that there will be no reason for such a change."

Adams Upholds Income Tax.

Prof. Adams of Yale, a specialist of 25 years' standing who has served as tax adviser to the treasury department, during his talk declared "the best tax we have is the tobacco tax." He said: "We need not more taxes on tobacco, but more taxes like the tobacco tax; that is, consumption taxes on articles of wide, but not absolutely necessary consumption." He declared the income tax is better than the property tax.

"Specifically," he said, "the following constitutes, in my opinion, a sound program in the average community:

"First and most important, an organized effort to reduce public expenditures.

"A systematic effort to reorganize the machinery of assessment, involving the appointment of assessors on a basis of merit, retention or promotion on a basis of efficient work.

"An increase in the personal income tax or its introduction, if not now in effect.

"The taxation of intangible personal property at a low rate, preferably applied to the income from such property, the tax to be collected and administered as an adjunct of the personal income tax.

"A deliberate and rational effort, after the matter has been thoroughly canvassed and the will of the community expressed, to assess and tax such categories of personal property as in the opinion of the majority should be taxed.

"My recommendations respecting income taxes and personal property taxes are made on the assumption that public expenditures can be checked. There is no sound place for an income tax if it is to be an excuse for further spending."

J. Paul Clayton of Springfield was reelected president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Walter W. Williams of Benton and Carleton G. Ferrie were reelected executive vice presidents.

GANDHI RELENTS AND DECIDES TO STAY IN LONDON

Will Renew Fight to Settle Racial Row.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Although many of his followers urged him to return to India following yesterday's farcical blowup of the effort to patch the racial dispute, Mahatma Gandhi, India's Nationalist leader, today decided to remain in London until the general election on Oct. 27 and continue negotiations for a settlement of the Indian problem.

He so informed Lord Sankey, lord chancellor and chairman of the federal structures committee, who thanked the mahatma for his patience.

"I will remain if we can reach summary decisions instead of making speeches," Gandhi said, and the lord chancellor interjected a cordial, "Hear! hear! I agree."

Promises British Aid.

"Fundamental questions must be settled immediately," Gandhi again insisted.

Smilingly promising the aid of the British government, Lord Sankey said: "We cannot fail or we will be the laughing stock of the world. I shudder to think what may happen in India if we fail. There is not an Englishman who is not longing to help you."

Lord Sankey chided the Indians with a picture of how near their dream of self-government really is.

"Why, you will soon be having your own general election," he chuckled, and, master diplomat that he is, he soon had the dejected Indian representative believing that Britain actually intends to give India something after all.

Will Renew Talks.

The Mohammedans have objected to a discussion of constitutional questions until their demands are granted by the Hindus, so it was finally agreed that the election interval would be spent debating noncontroversial topics such as federal court revenues.

Gandhi said tonight he is waiting for a letter from the Rev. John Haynes Holmes, New York clergyman and author, before pronouncing his final word about his contemplated visit to America.

"The Rev. Mr. Holmes wired me emphatically not to come to America, adding that he is sending an explanatory letter," he stated. "I presume he speaks for many American friends such as Jane Addams of Hull House in Chicago, Prof. John Dewey, and Sherwood Eddy. My American visit is all up to the Rev. Mr. Holmes now."

Gandhi's Statue Beheaded in London Studio; Mystery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Jo Davidson, American sculptor who is doing a bust of Mahatma Gandhi, was cursing his luck today. He worked feverishly late yesterday moulding the "holy man's" face. Last night something happened. This morning when the sculptor returned to work, he found Gandhi's head had fallen off. The cause of the beheading remained a mystery. Davidson started all over again today.

Doris Blake Advises Girls Affairs of Heart and Home

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Dan Corbin and Don Phillippe, de Rodriquez, hoofers, with their pianist, Tom Libby, open in Tyrone for a week's vaudeville engagement. A convention is being held in the town and the hotels are overflowing. Phillippe grabs the first vacancy. Tom and Irma inquire at the town's leading hostelry, where Tom runs into an old friend, Bill Fitzroy. Tom finds a cot and Bill turns over his room to Irma. Bill invites Irma to a dinner party in the hotel, where she meets Wallace Graham, a widower. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Rose. Bill and Wallace shower invitations on the pretty dancer. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with Phillippe and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. A baby son arrives to compensate her for any flaws in the marriage system and he soon becomes the center of her universe.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

DEFERRED HONEYMOON PLANS.

As early as breakfast the following morning Irma voiced her contrition for having spoken rudely of Anne. Wallace, never too good humored at that best, granted his acceptance of her apology. Nothing was said on the subject of Europe. Irma hoped that nothing more would ever be said on the subject. It was strange then that she should be the one to revive it after a lid had lain dormant for more than a week.

All during that time Wallace had been extremely kind but very silent and distant. Irma knew that her hard words about Anne had been forgiven and forgotten. It was Europe that was torturing his soul. The fog of London, the Parisian boulevards and the gay adventure of ocean travel had been rudely snatched from him. At first Irma was inclined to be scornful of the childish obviousness of his disappointment. A man should have a philosophy to fall back upon or at least a sense of gameness to keep him from wearing disillusioned hopes on his coat lapel. He mentioned Europe no more and Mildred and Aunt Tessie had dropped "when you go away" from their chatter. He had evidently told them that the trip was off.

Irma had never seen the matter from Wallace's viewpoint till the day she went rummaging through the bureau. Her object was to find a garment tattered enough to be converted into dust cloths. Under Wallace's dress shirts she found some unfamiliar articles which she took from the drawer and sat down to examine. One was a tiny English-French dictionary, the other was maps of Paris and London, another was a small leather bound book whose cover bore the gilt words, "My Trip Abroad." She raised her head from the little objects and stared ahead of her into space. God, how she had wanted that trip. She felt very selfish and wicked. Wallace had looked forward to that trip for years. It was important to him. She tried to compare it to some desire of her own and found that none of her desires were comparable. Holding the little diary in her hand it was somehow easy to bridge the gap of two long years and see Wallace again as the pleasant man who had called for her at the stage door and who had not tried to maul her. He was so sweet and the ambition of his life was to see Europe. She smiled faintly. It was such a silly ambition for a man like Wallace.

How her ambitions were different. He was past forty and a six weeks trip was his dearest wish. She was twenty-one and her only desire was to raise her son successfully. She felt a moment's elation over the deeper, more serious quality of her mind.

She arose and replaced Wallace's belongings in the drawer. She stood for a moment lost in thought. Poor Wallace. It was a shame he couldn't have his trip.

Aunt Tessie appeared in the doorway. "Find anything we could use, hon?"

"What? O, the dust clothes. No, I didn't. Mildred'll be home soon and I'll send her out for some cheese cloth."

"Mildred isn't coming home till dinner time today."

"Where is she going?"

"Why, the Malcolm's chauffeur is teaching Janie to drive and Mildred went with them to watch."

"She did? Lord, that sounds dangerous. Maybe Jane will wrap the car around a tree or drive into a stone wall."

Aunt Tessie's thin, pointed chin went up in a sudden defiant gesture. "I thought of that," she said. "But Mildred wanted to go and Janie was so set on having her. I'm not one for spilling everybody's plans just for the sake of having my own way. The Lord said there should be no other gods before him and when we go loving somebody so much that we don't care who else we hurt or disappoint then God himself is going to hurt that same one we love." Aunt Tessie took a breath and looked at Irma.

Irma looked back at her and said, "I sure gave you a swell opening to say what you had on your mind. didn't I? Well, God's word gathers no dust cloths. I'll go get them."

Irma had never before spoken so flippantly to Aunt Tessie. There was no disrespect intended now. The insolence of her words was meant only to still the sudden pounding of her heart and banish the cold, tight feeling in her limbs.

Aunt Tessie said, "Yes, you can laugh, Irma." She went back to her own room then.

Irma sat down on the bed and thought about God. Would he deliberately strike at a little defenseless baby just because she had kept Wallace from going to Europe? Irma forgot about the dust cloths. For an hour she sat trying to remember all she had ever heard about God and wondering what He was most likely to do in a situation of this sort.

She remembered the English juggler who had played on the bill with her in Pittsburgh. His wife assisted him, handing him props and laughing at his witticisms when the audience didn't. They had a baby. It was in a place called Nottingham. Irma recalled that the girl in the sketch had asked the juggler's wife if she didn't worry about the baby.

"Not half so much as I'd worry about Harry," she had answered. "God bless him after the baby but He'd never bother His head about a chap like Harry."

Now was that a clue? Did God look after the Nottingham baby because its mother had not worshipped it before everything else in the world? And did He gather unto Himself all children who were so highly prized that there was room for no one else? Perhaps He did. Perhaps some day terrifyingly soon He would say to the Angel of Death, "Fetch me Baby Martin Graham. Even His mother is making life miserable for Wallace and Mildred on account of him."

And there was no saying to the Angel of Death, "Nobody but I can have him."

Perhaps God had sent her a warning. Perhaps He had purposely arranged for Aunt Tessie to speak her little piece directly on the heels of Irma's finding Wallace's little books and maps. It was kind of Him to have given notice that He intended to manage the baby if she couldn't do it without forgetting everybody else's rights.

And thus it came about that Irma herself reopened the matter of going to Europe. Wallace was delighted. His face lit up so joyously that for a moment Irma was glad that she had decided to go. He had a talk with Aunt Tessie in which he informed her that Rose was not to be discharged in his absence even though she committed murder, arson, and mayhem. Nothing short of neglect of the baby was to cause a single word of reproof.

Aunt Tessie said, "Why should I even talk to the girl? I don't know what's come over you, Wallace."

He knew that she did know perfectly well so he didn't answer her.

Wallace had a talk with Rose then. "If you're good to the baby and nice to Miss Graham and Miss Mildred while I'm gone, it will be worth your while, Rose. Mrs. Graham will give you a week off when we get back and I'll give you two weeks wages. Now do you think you can be a good girl while we're away?"

Rose looked at her simple-souled employer with that expression of scorn achieved only by incompetent servants. "I always do my best," she said.

Wallace thought of her cooking and said nothing.

Irma was pleased at Wallace's having spoken to the two women. Certainly things ought to work out all right. After all, she was only going to be gone six weeks.

Oftimes through the early part of the summer she would have sleepless nights. Thirty-five hundred miles away from the baby. There was going to be a wide, deep ocean between them. Often she would feel that the whole trip had to be cancelled. She couldn't leave him to strangers. Aunt Tessie was a stranger to her and to her child. Rose was a servant. Perhaps she would neglect him in his mother's absence. But, no, God would look after him if she, Irma, did the right thing. Surely while she was making possible the realization of Wallace's lifelong dream God wouldn't deal an underhand blow at the baby. God knew that she didn't care for Regent street or Hyde Park or the Eiffel tower. It was only for Wallace that she was going. Certainly He wouldn't reward her unselfishness by bringing her grief.

Wallace's mood was so gay and sprightly since Irma had agreed to go traveling that an argument between them became a rare occurrence. He answered all complaints with promises, all criticisms with apologies.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

It seems to me that you should thoroughly enjoy "Skyline." I did.

Vague, disturbing memories will stir as the picture unreels. You will sense something familiar about the action. I'll put your minds at rest. This story was filmed once before as a "silent," under the title "East Side, West Side," and George O'Brien played John Breen. As I remember, the first version was not as interesting as the sound film. But I may have my dates mixed. "East Side, West Side" was filmed a long time ago.

Anyhow, as is, you'll approve of this tale of the boy from the river barge who aspires to leave his sordid life and build skyscrapers, and, after weaving his way through the strangest maze of circumstances, achieves his ambition.

Hardie Albright does some magnificent acting in the title rôle. He's not acting on "it," but his sincerity, polish, and ability to take punishment make up for this shortcoming. He sustains some terrific falls and staggering wallops in a fight staged in the first reel.

He's fine, Maureen O'Sullivan is sweet as a rose as The Girl, Jack Kennedy plays her father, Mike Kearney, with bluff humor, and other rôles are well taken. BUT—leaving the best to the last—Thomas Meighan made the picture for me. Ah, there is a man and an actor!

He never was in finer fettle, never did better acting, never had a part that he seemed to like better than that of the great James McClellan, master builder and engineer who becomes, for reasons the picture shall show you, absorbed in the plans and life of John Breen.

Direction is of the best and so are et ceteras. As for thrills—remember Harold Lloyd in "Safety First"? Zowie! Well, there are some hair raisers in this that make Harold's go lie down in a corner.

KIND: Comedy drama.

QUALITY: Fair.

ACTING: Excellent. Bebe Daniels is charming and clever as an adventuress, though I DO wish she hadn't gone blond. Warren William is dashingly Jack Barrymore-esque as a soldier man, and dear old Frederick Kerr is a lamb as the rich, elderly man who really doesn't care what happens to his old will, but won't hear of being parted from his adored Laura.

DIRECTION: Not bad.

STORY: The locale is Hungary and, in a gorgeous house not far from Budapest, a blond adventuress and her gigolo plot to have a dear old fellow, named Paul Barony, leave them all his money. The old chap's Foreign Legion nephew appears to confound these plans. And, think you, love the lady? Think! Think! Think! (It's really rather a stupid story.)

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Because of the cast—some.

See you tomorrow!

Science, Trade Seeking Cures for Depression

Purdue Calls Session to Devise Remedies.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Industrial leaders from five states are gathered at Purdue university for a two day study of the coördination of business, science, and education to promote human welfare and mitigate depressions.

About 250 industrialists, scientists, and college professors attended the opening dinner tonight.

Harrison E. Howe of Washington, editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, said science is becoming the "pilot of industry," replacing the old idea that new industries must be created by the initiative of some genius who began operations in his town, regardless of natural resources.

"In addition to applying these sciences ordinarily catalogued as natural sciences," said Mr. Howe, "we are beginning to call upon statistics and commercial geography and to develop scientific methods for the study of markets and distribution.

"Engineers and chemists are being blamed for what has come to be called technological unemployment.

"Some critics lose sight of the new industries which have been created through applied science. It is unfair to censure science for the overemphasis of mass production and leave untouched our obvious failure to give proper consideration to the balancing of consumer demand and of distribution against the production which science had helped to make possible.

"We are told that in China the labor of 85 out of every 100 is required to produce the meager existence experienced by the majority of that populous country. In the United States 15 American workers produce the necessities for 100, giving ample opportunity for a life of greater ease and for leisure which, properly applied, leads to culture.

"If our sociologists and humanitarians have not been able to keep pace with science, so that we do not yet know how best to employ our leisure, that too cannot be charged to any failure on the part of science.

"Give us another industry like motion pictures, the radio, electrical refrigeration, automobiles, oil burners, and so many thousands of new jobs would be created as not only to affect unemployment but to be potent in again starting us on the upgrade."

Indiana Society Honors Holloway's Memory; Postpones Its Dinner

As a mark of respect for the memory of Edward M. Holloway, who died on July 18, the Indiana Society of Chicago voted at its annual meeting yesterday to postpone for one year its annual dinner, usually held in December.

Mr. Holloway was secretary of the society from the time of its formation in 1904 until his death and was in charge of the annual dinners, of which twenty-six have been held in consecutive years. The resolutions of the society stated:

"Under the direction of Mr. Holloway the Indiana Society of Chicago became the outstanding state society of the nation, and the unusual entertainment provided at their annual dinners not only attracted the members of the society and guests from Indiana, but men of prominence from all parts of the country."

As a further mark of appreciation, the society voted from its funds $1,000 to be paid to the governor's commission on unemployment relief, as a memorial to Mr. Holloway.

Lawrence A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central railroad, was elected president of the society for the coming year; Frederick G. Campbell, secretary and treasurer; John T. McCutcheon, historian; and the Rev. William Chalmers Covert, chaplain.

Columbia Students Want Better English Talked by Professors

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The way students say some Columbia university professors handle the king's English comes under the heading of "murder in the classroom."

Spectator, the university's student publication, reports in an editorial bearing that title that letters have been pouring in all week from indignant students, and that "eight precise undergraduates" have demanded a full investigation.

The eight students did not stop at generalities. They named 26 professors and included specific charges, such as these infractions of grammar:

"The people that——"

"If any one has any questions, they should ask them now."

One professor was accused of using "don't" for "doesn't," or "does not" seventeen times in one lecture.

Expert Warns Neglect Helps Cancer Growth

British Surgeon Talks at Hospital Here.

Sir George Lenthal Cheatle, foremost English authority on cancer, opened the first of the Louis A. Greensfelder Memorial lectures at the Michael Reese hospital last night. Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Baltimore and Dr. Bowman Corning Crowell, director of clinical research of the American College of Surgeons, were other speakers.

"Cancers are usually innocent tumors before they develop into cancers," Sir George said to the physicians and laymen who crowded the hospital auditorium. "Treatment during the tumor stage yields the greatest hope of cure.

"Cancer of the breast is curable when treated in its early stages. The chances of cure decrease as the disease is allowed to progress untreated. A lump in the breast or a discharge of blood require immediate investigation. Before cancer develops in the breast, the tissues undergo a series of changes which can often be detected. Treatment in this very early stage of the process before cancer is fully established results in cure in practically every instance.

"Surgery, radium, and X-rays remain for the time being the only curative agents."

Dr. Bloodgood revealed the careful statement of the board of directors of the American Society for the Control of Cancer in regard to the cure for cancer.

"The board of directors believes that the only effective treatments for cancer today are surgery or irradiation with X-rays or radium," he declared. "It further desires to emphasize the point that the best palliative or permanent results are to be obtained when the treatments are applied as soon as possible after the first warning symptoms.

"The board also wishes to make this statement to the public: 'If people wish the greatest possible protection against cancer and other diseases they should, while they are well, select a family physician if they can afford one, or a clinic, and should ask not only for an examination but for advice on the rules of health and on the earliest symptoms of disease.'"

"Many forms of cancer are preventable and many forms of cancer can be cured if recognized early," Dr. Crowell, the third speaker, declared. "More knowledge than is at present available concering cancers should be earnestly sought. It is imperative that there be laboratories and institutes devoted to research in cancer and that there shall be centers for the practical application of newly proven facts for the benefit of humanity.

"Those hospitals have taken a step in advance which have added to their organization a special organization for attention to cancer cases. There will be a group of hospitals throughout this continent to which cancer patients or individuals, who suspect that they may have cancer, can go with the knowledge that a specially selected group of doctors will bring to bear on their case the best diagnostic methods and the best advice as to treatment of cancer."

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Something akin to panic has struck those studios which lingered too long with gangster films. Howard Hughes, who invested close to $1,000,000 in making "Scarface," has spent the last two weeks undoing portions of the film, just as it was on the verge of release. A few scenes were added, and a succession of them changed so as to portray Scarface Comante, the main character, as a whiner at the end. The Will Hays organization, passing the word along to the studios that there was a national storm against making such characters seem like heroes, decreed a changed ending which eliminated threads of courage in the main rôle.

As the film will end when released, it will show Paul Muni as Comante, his henchmen killed, turning pale in his steel plated barricade as a policeman yells: "Get him out with a stink bomb."

The gangster is to be pictured emerging with a gun, but when a policeman's bullet strikes his hand, asking for mercy.

Warners had "Larceny Lane," with Jimmy Cagney, in similar readiness for release, when this film also had to be changed. In the version which the public never will see, Cagney acted out a fellow with some likeable traits. In the remade version, Cagney completes the picture in jail after a particularly odious bit of double-crossing. Universal is not certain it will go ahead at all with the making of "Gallows." This story, an original by Director Roland Brown, was much fancied at Universal as a prospective hit, but Brown was ordered to rewrite and resubmit it so as not to run afoul of the anti-gang film feeling.

Denies Empress Eugenie Hats Are Properly Named

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Frank Russell believes the late Empress Eugenie is getting credit she doesn't deserve for the millinery mode. A member of the Southern Methodist university faculty, he has just completed a year's study of the origin and design of costumes. He says hats like the present were worn in the 17th century, during the reign of Charles II, of Great Britain and Ireland.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

(Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully], for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central station.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' PRINCESS SLIP.

Every woman needs several of these slips, and this model is well shaped so there will be no lines that conflict with the outer garment. It has a comfortable flaring hemline, is easily made, and may have a plain hem at the bottom or one with a scalloped outline.

The pattern, 2668, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 2 yards of binding.

Tickets Selling Fast for Benefit for Children

BY THALIA——

It's small wonder that the Country Home for Convalescent Children at Prince Crossing has been so generously endowed by prominent Chicagoans when it has such an eloquent sponsor as Mrs. William J. Chalmers working constantly in its interests.

She told the guests, at the luncheon party she gave yesterday to discuss plans for the benefit concert to be given by Mary Garden for the home at Orchestra hall on Nov. 9, spellbound with her moving account of the activities at the home.

Mrs. William C. Pullman, Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, and Mrs. Ernest A. Graham, who are also members of the board, and Mrs. Chalmers told of the progress they'd already made in the raising of some several thousand dollars for the benefit. Before she went away for the summer, Mrs. Chalmers had sold all of Orchestra hall's 32 boxes and besides 16 groups of seats on the main floor designated as boxes. Members of the board are selling the main floor seats at $10 apiece except for the last 5 or 6 rows, which cost $5 each. A special selling committee of women who aren't on the board are also working. These include Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, who has already sold 50 seats, Mrs. Samuel T. Clover, Mrs. Henry Field, Mrs. Walter Borden, Mrs. Francis Johnson, Mrs. Volney Fairbank, Mrs. Arthur Dodge, and Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde. Mary Garden sent Mrs. Chalmers the program for the affair and she says it is a perfectly beautiful one. Barre Hill is to sing with Miss Garden.

Football and Steeplechase Program for Today.

The Notre Dame-Northwestern battle is the only serious rival of the steeplechase as the star attraction for today this afternoon. Some of the notable football fans are passing up the best race to be at Soldiers' field, but there will be hundreds on hand to watch the thrills and [probably] spills of the chase around Onwentsia. Dozens of Lake Foresters are having guests for the event over the weekend. A. A. Busch, Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Hager Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hadden Hardinghaus of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Belknap Hawkes, and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Heffringer and her daughter, Miss Natalie of Kansas City, all of whom have horses entered in the race, arrived yesterday and are staying at the Deerpath inn.

The steeplechase dinner dance was held last night at Onwentsia, and there will be a number of luncheon parties today before the meeting. The John Payne Kelloggs and the Donald Nelsons are giving large luncheon parties, and Mrs. Laurance A. Armour will be hostess at a similar affair in honor of the season's debutantes, Betty Perry, Betty Brown, and Jane Smith. After the steeplechase the whole will drive to Lake Geneva for the young people's house party that Mr. Kellogg Fairbank is having for his debutante niece and namesake, Miss Janet Ayer.

Parents Are Urged to Satisfy Child's Need for the Open Country

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The gist of yesterday's article was: children have a deep need of country, so help yours to satisfy it. Perhaps that sounds impossible to you. Perhaps you live in a great city and have the tiniest sort of income. Perhaps even a family vacation to the country or seashore can't be managed each year. And so you may think, "it's easy for some one who doesn't understand to say such things. It can't be done."

But it can be, by hook or crook. Close to one of the largest cities in the world I have found real country, woods and hills, bayshore and seashore, places to walk, to loaf in, to build a campfire in—all as part of a day's trip. With a few possible exceptions parents can bring together those two that belong together—country and childhood.

People as a whole are coming more and more to provide country for their children. But there are still too many parents who do not, who resort to movies and shows and radio and other indoor civilized entertainment for their children. There are still those who unconsciously feed young eyes only the straight, still, hard lines of buildings, young ears the thousand raucous noises that are the overtones and the hum that is the undertone of a city, and young noses the dull air of a town—when they could often nourish their eyesight with the soothing moving curve of trees and water, their ears with sound of wind and birds and insects or with perfect quiet and their noses the clear, pure, fragrant, spicy atmosphere of country or sea.

However wonderful this world of ours may be, it is a tense world. Our neurologists give us alarming figures on the serious nervous and mental states of too many people. We all need the relaxation that the country means. Let us get all we can and give it to the children, too, so they can use it for their joy now and their sound nerves later on.

SCHUMANN-HEINK TO SING KATISHA IN REVIVAL OF 'MIKADO'

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ernestine Schumann-Heink, 70 years old and a great-grandmother, will go back to the job of comedienne in which she made a name for herself in Germany long before she became a famous operatic and concert contralto.

Singing the rôle of Katisha, the feminine comedy rôle, she will go on tour in a Shubert revival of "The Mikado." The company will leave New York Oct. 16 and travel across the continent. Rehearsals started yesterday.

"It is a long time—more than 45 years—since I sang like this," she said today. "It is fun, better than grand opera."

Sarah Mausby Bride of Count in New York

Miss Sarah Victoria Mausby of 3750 Sheridan road and Count Augusto Cavicchia were married yesterday in New York city. The ceremony was performed in the Park Lane hotel, then the address of the groom, before a few friends.

Count and Countess Cavicchia plan to leave today for Chicago where they will spend a week with the bride's family, after which they will sail for a honeymoon in Paris. Each gave the age of 30 years when obtaining the license.

Countess Cavicchia is the proprietor of a studio shop at 216 North Michigan avenue. Her brother, Joseph C. Mausby, in the cosmetic preparations business at 22 North Michigan avenue, said he had not known of his sister's plans for a wedding. His sister landed in New York on the Bremen Wednesday, he said. She had spent two months in Europe.

War Objectors, Drys Approved by Methodists

The Methodist ministers attending the Rock River conference's ninety-second annual session in the First Methodist church devoted most of yesterday to adopting resolutions dealing with world peace, the Anti-Saloon league, the eighteenth amendment and crime news.

Today, however, the reinstatement of John A. Logan Warren of Rockford, Ill., unfrocked in 1927, is expected to come before an executive session of the conference. A special committee of eleven, headed by the Rev. J. C. Spencer of De Kalb, was appointed on Thursday to review the case.

Civil suits for slander won by Mr. Warren as a result of the loss of his pastorate will be reviewed by that committee. It was said the Rev. W. S. Fleming of Chicago would make the plea for reinstatement.

The passage of the Griffin bill was urged by the conference. Six other resolutions, submitted by the social service commission, also were adopted. The Griffin bill pending in congress would prevent exclusion from citizenship of persons whose opposition to war service was based on conscience.

That objection is identical with that of the Quakers. The Griffin bill was designed to prevent the exclusion from citizenship of such persons as Prof. D. C. Macintosh of Yale university, who lost his case when he appealed to the U. S. Supreme court.

The work of the Anti-Saloon league was indorsed by the conference. During the debate on that and the prohibition resolutions, which commended Gov. Emmerson for his veto of the bill to repeal Illinois' search and seizure law, mention of President Hoover's efforts to enforce prohibition laws brought forth prolonged cheers.

Another resolution adopted invited Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Chicago to retain his post for four more years. Still another provided that the Methodist Book Concern unionize its shops in Chicago and Cincinnati, as has been done in New York.

The conference called on President Hoover in one resolution to use his good offices in relieving Germany of blame for the world war by revising the war guilt clause of the Versailles treaty. The United States concluded a separate treaty with Germany. The position of the Rock River conference of 1928 in respect to peace and international relations was approved. By the terms of that resolution the conference formally dissociated itself from war and preparations for war.

The conference urged that the United States enter the world court, provided article ten of the covenant of the league of nations, that affecting territorial integrity, is eliminated. The United States also is advised to bring about the abolition of natational armies and navies, through the establishment of a world police force.

Another resolution declared: "As industry is now organized, even in prosperous years, a million wage earners in this most prosperous country are left without employment. In times of special distress like the present the number of unemployed mounts to millions.

"Our present system, with its individualism and unrestricted competition, more resembles the practice of the jungle than it does the practice of the Christian family. Our system is haphazard and planless, taken as a whole, and the inevitable result is the distress of today."

Among clerical delegates elected to attend the general conference at Atlantic City next year are Dr. Ernest Freemont Tittle, First church, Evanston; Dr. John Thompson, First church, Chicago, and Dr. Frederick Eiselen, president of the Garrett Biblical institute.

Should This Couple Marry Now, or in Two Years, or Six?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How would you doctors, and doctors' wives, advise the young couple whose problem is presented here:

"I want you to know Bob, Miss Blake. He's very serious minded and very considerate, 24 years old, and decidedly a one girl man. We are not engaged, primarily because I don't see the sense of an engagement of more than a year's duration. I finished my college work last year; he finishes in June. He has financed his own education and will be about $300 to the good by the time he gets his B. S. But $300 isn't much of a start toward a medical course. We are still planning, however, that he should go on this fall.

"We believe, as you do, that happiness for life is worth waiting six years for, but our query is: Is it really necessary to wait that long?

"I wish that doctors and doctors' wives the world over would be kind enough to tell us whether or not they waited 'ages' for the wedding bells, and whether they would choose the same course again.

"Grant us normal personality and will power and plenty of pluck. If we should marry in, say, two years, or maybe three, and I should continue to work and he to study, would our disappointments through such a union outweigh our joys, or would our lives be enriched by the struggle, and would the victory be sweeter than the rewards of patiently waiting?

"We are most eager to follow a discussion along this line, and will be so grateful if you can help us to anchor our convictions. BERTHA."

Should they marry right away? In two years? In six?

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Not Entirely Neglected.

"Dear Miss Blake: My boy friend acts as though he likes me, but when we go to a party he's usually the life of it and gives everybody a good time, and acts as though I don't exist. But for the last hour he stays with me and doesn't let any one interfere. Do you think he really likes or loves me? REDHEAD."

Being the partner of the official entertainer has its drawbacks, but he doesn't neglect you entirely Redhead.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guests at the White House Miss Vaal Stark of Palo Alto, Cal.

Mrs. Hoover received the Lady Mayoress of Manchester, Eng., this afternoon at tea. The mayoress is here for a short visit with the lord mayor. Mrs. Titt, the mayoress, was accompanied by Mrs. MacNamara, wife of the naval attaché of the British embassy. Immediately after the little tea party the lord mayor and mayoress were entertained at tea by the English Speaking union, and from there went on to the garden fête at Woodley, the home of the secretary of state and Mrs. Stimson.

DESIRE DEFRERE WEDS MRS. HILDA H. BURKE AT UNION CITY, N. J.

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Desire Defrere and Mrs. Hilda Hopkins Burke of the Chicago Civic Opera company were married today. The ceremony took place at Union City, N. J., and the couple arranged to leave at once for Chicago.

The pair had planned to wed upon the arrival of Defrere here yesterday, but they experienced difficulties in getting a license both here and at Newark. The clerk of the municipal marriage license bureau in Manhattan refused a license because Mrs. Burke could not produce proof that her husband had been served with papers when she obtained her divorce in Illinois. The city clerk at Newark insisted that the couple wait three days, but they said that was too long. Today, they finally got their license and were married.

Defrere is baritone and stage director of the Chicago Opera company.

Women Teachers Balk Briefly at Man for Association President

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Women members of the western division of the Illinois Teachers association revolted against the report of the nominating committee at the annual convention here this afternoon. They demanded that the name of Caroline Grote of Macomb, dean of women at the Western State Teachers college, be substituted for that of G. W. Gaylor of Macomb as president of the association.

The women complained they had too little representation on the list.

"It has been years since we have had a president from our ranks," one woman teacher said. "You'd be lost without our dues," another declared.

Then one of the men delegates remarked that it was too late to make a change this year and after a preliminary vote in which the motion to substitute Miss Grote's name was defeated the motion was withdrawn. Mr. Gaylor was elected.

Good Night's Sleep Irons Out Wrinkles Faster Than Facials

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You may talk all you like about magic wrinkle removing lotions, but I defy any lotion to do a better ironing out job than a good night's sleep can offer. Not one good night's sleep—but sleep in good, regular doses.

I've just seen a woman returned from a rest cure with her former lined face ironed out as smoothly as the face of a more than thirty-five year old can be. She was away a month. Was in bed every night by ten, and slept through till seven-thirty. Up and had a walk before breakfast. And what a beauty miracle!

Maybe you can't get away for a month. Nor for a week. But can't you play pretending you are away for a couple of weeks. Tell the world, your world, that you're writing the year's best seller and you can't be disturbed. Or tell them that you think you're getting smallpox. Tell them something to keep them from disturbing your evenings and try a home rest cure for facial lines.

We all spend so many hectic evenings—up late and doing nothing of any particular value to ourselves or acquaintances. Or, we get the habit of just prowling around till midnight. Or maybe we've got the bed reading habit, and the thriller can't be put down till the gong rings out one-thirty or two.

A couple of weeks of this sort of program will etch the lines in noticeably well. Of course, we all know that. We know what we need is more sleep. But try and make us take it. I have a feeling that putting oneself on a two weeks' rest period would do it. It might set us to thinking that we do waste a lot of time in meaningless effort. But in a facial reform program it would be well to incorporate into the early to bed régime some practical wrinkle aids, such as the ten minute facial, the cold water facial plunge, or the use of the ice pack or astringent. Anyway, it does help a woman not used to resting to realize that she is doing something concrete in a wrinkle removing way.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

ANSWERING QUESTIONS.

All in the day's work for those responsible for the TRIBUNE'S farm and garden department is the answering of from 18 to 112 letters, each disclosing the search of some gardener or farmer for information, or offering to supply information. There have been a total of 18,625 such letters received in this department in the three years since Oct. 17, 1928.

Skyscraper residents and operators of western ranches have been numbered in these interesting and versatile communications. One may seek a riddance for ants and the next ask for control methods for smut in wheat, or ask who holds the world's record for husking corn.

Day after day they come, these questions that sometimes nearly baffle the department's library or outside sources of technical or intensely human information.

In the spring, when gardening and landscaping is at its height, the inquiries have piled in at the rate of as high as 1,355 in a month. That happened in April, 1928. That wide interest has resulted in establishment of a special information service called "This Week in the Garden" appearing each Sunday in the Metropolitan section.

Curiously, the most interesting comments come from those who read stories of hobbies, whether in farming or gardening. One article telling of raising rabbits brought in more than 1,000 inquiries, necessitating the printing of the reply. That article appeared over two years ago, yet still prompts an occasional inquiry.

Other "hobby" stories have touched responsive chords among readers. They have told of raising goats, ginseng, mint, poultry on small lots, and about turkeys. More readers want to know about flower gardening than any other item of this department's field. As a result a booklet was prepared and is sold at cost, covering the main topics of interest to the amateur. House plants occasion hundreds of inquries from city dwellers.

Next in order are requests for information on care of trees and shrubs, the control of pests, rodents, and disease in town and country, possible markets for farm produce, sources for new seed stock and cultural methods, information on costs in farming, invitations to visit gardens or farms, news, tips, and criticisms.

The recent trend of population back to the country has caused many unemployed in Chicago to seek information on sections where they might buy or rent small acreages or family sized farms. Each inquiry is an individual problem, often presenting the dreams of a couple that must be shattered when they learn that the country place these days calls for able bodied folk or those with sufficient means to be relieved of making it pay.

Yet the department has helped to place capable families with some savings back on the farm, with the conviction that they will fare better than might otherwise have been possible.

Food Talk.

Two recipes from this column suffered a misadventure a short time ago and appeared incorrectly. For the benefit of those of you keeping a file, we will give them again today.

EGGS CREOLE.

1 cup of canned tomato soup.
1 tablespoon of chopped green olives.
1 tablespoon of minced onion.
1 tablespoon of butter.
¼ teaspoon of pepper.
Pinch of salt.
8 eggs.
1 tablespoon of chopped parsley.

Mix together all the ingredients [except the eggs and the parsley] and simmer gently for ten minutes. Meanwhile, butter four custard cups and drop two eggs in each, being careful not to break the yolks. Sprinkle the eggs with parsley and set in a pan about one-quarter full of boiling water. Steam, closely covered, for ten minutes. Turn the eggs out on individual plates and surround with the sauce. Serve at once.

SWEDISH MEAT BALLS.

1 pound of round steak.
¼ pound of pork from the shoulder
2 large boiled potatoes [mashed]
1 egg.
1 small onion.
2 tablespoons of catsup.
Salt and pepper.

Put the meat through a meat grinder, using the fine knife, twice. Add the mashed potatoes to the meat and then add the egg, grated onion, catsup, salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Shape into balls about an inch in diameter. Fry in butter three minutes. When brown all over add one-half cup of water to the pan and steam, closely covered, for ten minutes. Serve with a gravy made as follows: Remove the balls from the pan and add two cups of boiling water to it, two tablespoons of catsup and flour sufficient to thicken. Season with salt and pepper and pour the sauce over the meat balls.

Here is a luscious chicken pie for Sunday dinner.

CHICKEN PIE.

One 4 pound chicken.
3 tablespoons of butter.
3 tablespoons of flour.
1 cup of milk.
5 cups of chicken broth.
Salt and pepper to taste.

CRUST FOR PIE.

2 cups of flour [bread].
4 teaspoons of baking powder.
1 teaspoon of salt.
2 tablespoons of shortening.
1 egg.
1 cup of milk.

Disjoint and cook the chicken until tender. Then place in a deep fireproof dish. Make a sauce of the butter, flour, milk, and broth. Season and cook until thickened. Pour over the chicken and set in the oven to keep warm. Make the crust. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together. Cut in the shortening. Beat the egg light; add the milk to the egg and stir into the mixture. Turn out onto a board and shape to fit the dish, or cut into biscuits. Lay over the chicken and bake in a hot oven [425 degrees Fahrenheit] until the crust is done.

This is for the Sunday menu, too:

BERMUDA SALAD.

½ cup of sliced Bermuda onion.
1½ cups of shredded cooked beets.
1 bunch of water cress.

Slice the onions crosswise very thin; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place over them two tablespoons of vinegar and one teaspoon of sugar. Let stand one hour to season. Cut the beets into narrow strips; mix with three tablespoons of French dressing and add to the drained onions. Let stand for five minutes. Toss the watercress in additional dressing and arrange the onion mixture upon it.

Velvet Brocade Is Back in the Mode

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Along with many other old fashioned things, velvet brocade returns to make the newest modes. Naturally, the velvet brocade of 1931 isn't exactly like the kind that used to make elegant Victorian costumes and curtains. The new velvet brocade, first of all, is almost as thin as a bit of chiffon, for it consists of velvet flowers or other designs placed on chiffon or georgette. The velvet brocade of this fall and winter is, also, frequently in several colors so that it looks as fresh and dainty as the printed chiffons we wear in midsummer. Evening gowns in this new material, worn with velvet wraps and wraps of fur, are among the most attractive novelties of the new Paris style season.

This material, being extremely rich, is usually made up into frocks that are most simple in effect, like the Ardanse dress shown in our sketch. They can, thus, be worn for the thousand and one informal occasions of winter evenings.

It is fashionable to wear your informal evening gown with sleeves, and with a neckline that is, at least in part, cut like that of a day time dress. The Ardanse frock in our sketch has, as you see, elbow length sleeves, and the square front décolleté is like that of an afternoon model, while the back is cut out in a deep V that belongs to evening.

This dress is made of blue velvet brocade on a pearl gray georgette ground, and bands and bows of blue velvet ribbon are placed around the elbows of the sleeves. Two blue velvet flowers are placed at the front of the neckline. The dress is cut in the princesse silhouette, and flared at the knees by set-in circular godets. It is instep length.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—Connie Mack's Athletics are a long way from enough in their bid for a third successive world title. They came back today in all their glory, made a wreck of the Cardinal team and tied the world series by capturing the sixth game, 8 to 1, before 39,401 spectators.

Now for the fight for title and money goes into its seventh lap tomorrow with George Earnshaw, the pride of Northmore, pitching against the 38 year old Burleigh Grimes.

It was Earnshaw who was to have been used in the Macks' last ditch fight today. But Lefty Grove labored in his place, and the unexpected maneuver on the part of Connie Mack saved the ace man of his staff for his all important finish.

Error Starts Downfall.

Superlatives aren't needed to tell how things happened today. It was a world series ball game in name only. It wasn't so much the Macks' power at bat. It was mainly a matter of Paul Derringer, the young pitcher who was vanquished in the opener last Thursday, caving in under the strain of an error in his defense.

Jake Flowers, playing third base for Sparky Adams should have been shot would have been if his legs had been sound, made the wildest of the world series throws to start the fifth inning. Until then Grove had found no youthful adversary was no weakling.

But the throw changed a calm, orderly scene into a riot. Derringer couldn't locate the plate. He let himself be carried farther into a sea of confusion over a ball he thought Umpire Dick Nallin should have called a strike. And when he put the ball over the plate the Macks hammered it.

Lindsey Also Ineffective.

Before Derringer could be rescued from his dismal predicament four of the present titleholders scored and the Cardinals were down for the count. But the Macks weren't through. They were out to make amends for something, and they did. They came up with another four run blast off Jim Lindsey in the seventh, and the crowd stood in derision at the flounderings of the team which in the five previous battles had taken nothing from the kings of the American league.

Even John Leonard [Pepper] Martin, unstoppable since the series started, fell back to the status of just another ball player. The twelve hits which he had sprinkled through the first five games, putting himself in a fair to be the all time series batting record, were given no addition. To those, who had been puzzled by the batting sensation on two other days, there was nothing more than a man swinging a bat without effect.

Crowd Cheers Martin.

Martin, probably tightened a bit by his anxiety to keep going at the dizzy pace he had established for himself, came up to the plate four times. The crowd applauded him wildly when, in his first appearance in the second inning, he popped a foul to Foxx. The crowd still was with him in the fifth, when he appeared again. The roar that he wanted vanished when Haas thundered in to grasp a low, dangerous liner. Later he popped out again, but in the ninth he was given some salve for his wounds when the crowd accorded him the only pass of the game.

The Cards at least had the pleasure

DETROIT ELEVEN SCORES 20 TO 0 WIN OVER IOWA STATE

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The University of Detroit football team scored a 20 to 0 victory over Iowa State college here tonight.

A double pass from the 19 yard line, with Tooker, half back, carrying the ball, gave Detroit its first touchdown in the second period. Detroit battered the line in the third period and carried the ball from Detroit's 22 yard line to the Iowa State one yard line. Rajkovich plunged for the second score.

Yarr Breaks Thumb in Last Drill—but He'll Play Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 9.—Capt. Tommy Yarr, center on Notre Dame's varsity, will play against Northwestern at Soldiers' field tomorrow with his left hand in a cast. Yarr fractured the thumb on his left hand in tackling practice last night. An X-ray examination today by Dr. Edward J. Summers of South Bend disclosed the fracture and Dr. Summers immediately placed the hand in a cast.

Yarr will not be kept out of the game. Since the fractured thumb is on the left hand, it will be possible for Tommy to pass the ball from center, for practically all of the force is exerted by the right hand.

Gorman Has First Call.

Yarr was at practice this afternoon, but he took no chances with his left hand. He insisted he would be able to take the field against Northwestern with the first eleven.

In event Yarr cannot play the center duties will fall to Tom Gorman or Ben Alexander. Both are sophomores without experience, save for the Indiana game last week. Gorman, who is a Chicago boy and prepped at St. Philips on the west side, scored Notre Dame's second touchdown against the Hoosier eleven when he intercepted a pass in the third period. Alexander comes from San Marino, Cal.

Line Play Improves.

Despite Yarr's injury and the loss of Nick Lukats early in the season, Notre Dame players, in their final practice tonight, had a spirit and dash which presaged victory. The team, particularly the regular eleven, has improved tremendously in practice this week. Wednesday night's scrimmage was the best of the year.

The line has functioned better and consequently the backs have gained more ground. Nordy Hoffman, a good big guard, who, for the first time in years, replaces the more familiar "watch charm" type, is an example. Hoffman can bring his 195 pounds out of the line with surprising speed, and once in front of the ball carrier he blocks the secondary defense with remarkable regularity.

Drill on Kicks.

Practice tonight consisted of a final review of defense. The team kicked off several times and received kick-offs. It was a typical Friday night drill with extra emphasis placed on ends and linemen getting down the field under punts. Notre Dame must not permit Rentner to return punts for it is likely the Irish will lose ground anyway on exchange of kicks because of Olson's long distance ability.

Jaskwhich and Murphy have spent several hours this week under the tutelage of Jack Chevigny practicing the kicks. The showing against Indiana, when one kick in four was successful for the extra point after touchdown, explains the Chevigny's efforts.

Forty-five on Squads.

Anderson tonight named 45 players for the Chicago trip. The varsity squad includes seven quarter backs, five full backs, five right half backs, and four left half backs. There are three men for each position in the line save at right guard center and right tackle, where fourth string players also were named.

Sixty reserve players also will make the trip to Chicago at the expense of the athletic department.

Varsity Leaves Early.

The varsity will leave over the South Shore lines in a special train at 7:55 o'clock tomorrow morning. The reserves follow at 10 o'clock.

The list of players making the trip follows:

Left ends—Edwin Kosky, Paul Host, Leonard Bice. Left tackles—Al Culver, George Kosak, Regis McNamara. Left guards—James Harriss, Norman Greeney, Harry Wunsch. Centers—Tom Yarr, Tom Gorman, Ben Alexander, John Rogers. Right guards—Nordy Hoffman, Bill Pierce, Joe Pivarnik, Tom Mahaffey. Right tackles—Joe Kurth, Ed Krause, Fred Barriere, Tobias Darmody. Right ends—Dick Mahoney, Hugh Devore, Frank Canale. Quarter backs—Emmett Murphy, Charles Jaskwhich, Joe Foley, Laurie Vejar, Al McGuff. Nordy Christman, Ray Boland. Left half backs—Marchmond Schwartz, Mike Koken, Frank La Borne, Julian Acers. Right half backs—Joe Sheketski, Ray Brancheau, Carl Cronin, John Tobias, Duke Millbeam. Full backs—Steve Banas, George Melinkovitch, Bernie Leahy, Reuben Grundeman.

IT'S AUTUMN, AND ALBIE BOOTH IS BIG NAME AGAIN

Yale Meets Georgia on Gridiron Today.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 9.—Once again some scene painter has been splashing the New England hills with buckets of red and gold. Once again the kids shuffle along the wide, quiet streets of the New England towns, kicking up the dead leaves, which release a smell something like the tang of tobacco. The dark again comes down suddenly and the yellow lights begin to glow as early as 5 o'clock in the green shuttered white houses along the Boston post road.

And once more and for the last time the name of Albie Booth, the son of a gun-stock polisher in the rifle factory, becomes one of the great American names.

Yale is playing Georgia tomorrow, Yale's first real game of the season, and this is Albie's year as captain. Yale beat Maine last week in one of those Primo Carnera and Farmer Lodge affairs, but tomorrow's game will be a fighting game, for Georgia has beaten Yale two years running.

Only Harvard has ever won three games in a row from Yale, as some historian has discovered in the records, and the question is thrown up to Albie Booth, and he with a fretful appendix. "Will history say that Albie Booth's team was the first Yale team to lose a third successive game to some team other than Harvard?"

Albie's Great Day in 1929.

This puts a terrible responsibility on the young man with the irritable appendix who had the misfortune to make chumps of the stolid Army team of 1929 and has been suffering from the exaggerated expectations of the public ever since. He never again has played with such abandon or such success as on that day when he scampered onto the field unknown and unsuspected to filter through the Army crowd like cigaret smoke through a screen door and win for a Yale team that was two touchdowns behind.

The Cadets made grabs at him, but it was wrestling with a fundamental idea. When they rolled over thinking they had mashed him flat, he wasn't there at all, but somewhere else and still marching.

After that the coaches of the teams that Yale met paid Albie Booth the greatest compliment that they are capable of. They planned defenses not against Yale's team as a whole but against Albie as an individual.

Reputation His Misfortune.

Albie became a menace. But they stopped him, and he never yet has justified the reputation he made that day. In fact, his reputation has been his misfortune. Given a less terrifying beginning, he would not have been laid for so cautiously ever since, and he might have done a lot better.

The Georgia team is as like Notre Dame as a football team can be which did not come from Notre Dame and Rockne himself. The head coach is Harry Mehre, who learned his football from Rockne; the first assistant coach is Rex Enright, also a Rockne player, and the second assistant is Ted Twomey, another Rockne man.

Mehre's father is ill somewhere and he couldn't come to Yale with his team, so Enright was in charge this evening and very nervous about it all, like a man who sits in to play some good friend's hand in a poker game for adult money.

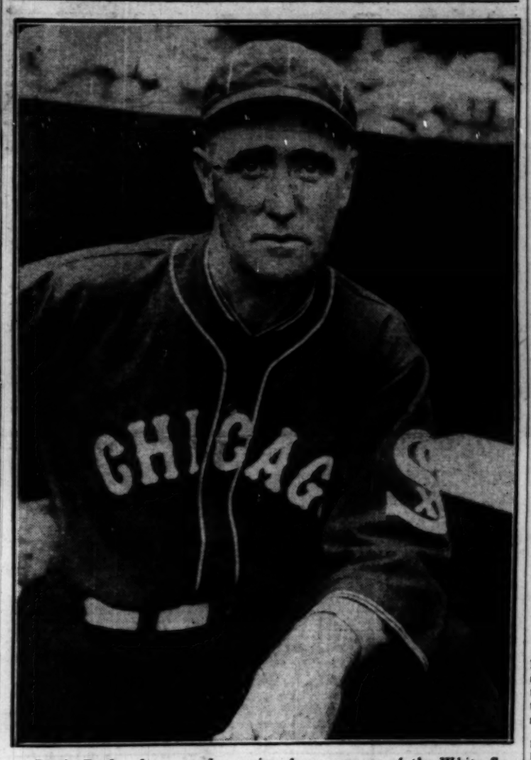
A Southerner from Chicago.

Georgia's captain and quarter back is a small, spare, gray-eyed young fellow named Austin, or Ausie, Downes, who is remembered at Yale for a long romp to a touchdown in last year's game.

When Downes came out after practice, one of the photographers, wishing to be merry and bright, said, "I suppose you Georgia boys are hoping it's hot tomorrow."

"Georgia boy?" said Downes. "I'm from Chicago."

BREAKS WITH WHITE SOX



Donie Bush, who yesterday resigned as manager of the White Sox, following a conference with officials of the south side club. Reasons for the break were not divulged.

MICHIGAN KNOWS CHICAGO OF YORE; LOOKS FOR FIGHT

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 9.—The University of Michigan's big band today was heard practicing "The Victors," one of the best football tunes that ever boomed out on the autumn air. Cornetists, trombonists, and drummers—they all figure they'll have reason to play it again late tomorrow afternoon after their football team has concluded its first conference game against the University of Chicago eleven.

Yes, Michigan reckons it will have no difficulty in winning from the Maroons, but you can't accuse anybody here, from Coach Harry Kipke to the lowliest substitute, of overconfidence. The absence of any cockiness among the Wolverines can be attributed to sinister advices from Chicago earlier in the week that the Maroons had evolved a peculiar formation which would mystify Michigan to no end. Previous experience with suddenly aroused Chicago teams has put Michigan on guard, even though the Chicagoans will be depleted by injuries and ineligibility.

Maroons at Ypsilanti.

Coach A. A. Stagg and his squad stopped at Ypsilanti tonight, arriving about 10 o'clock. Whether Stagg plans to send his players into the game tomorrow without any preliminary practice or whether he would work them out tomorrow morning could not be learned.

Even the most ardent Michigan fan will agree that it would be a mighty fine thing for the Maroons to win tomorrow, if only for the sentiment attached to the fact that the Old Man is now in his fortieth year of coaching in the Midway. This is augmented also by the rivalry with Michigan. The Maroons and Wolverines will be meeting for the twentieth time since

NO FUTURE ON CLUB, COMMENT OF EX-LEADER

Hose Silent on Plans for Successor.

BY ARCH WARD.

Donie Bush yesterday resigned as manager of the White Sox. The announcement was made by Bush after a conference yesterday morning with Secretary Harry Grabiner.

The Sox leader presented his resignation Wednesday. Owner Comiskey accepted it yesterday, although he held option on Bush's services for another year. Club officials declined to comment last night on the reasons for the break.

The only explanation Bush advanced was that he didn't fit into the organization.

"I regret that I must leave the south side, "Donie said last night. "No manager ever worked before a finer group of sportsmen. The support the fans have given the White Sox has been marvelous. They deserve a better club.

No Future With Sox.

"I also dislike to leave the boys on the team. They have given me every coöperation. But I feel there is no future for me with the White Sox. I don't mind losing ball games if there is a prospect of better days ahead, but I feel that whatever reputation I possess as a manager would be jeopardized by remaining another year."

Bush has no immediate plans for the future. He disclaimed knowledge of managerial openings on the Detroit and Brooklyn clubs.

Mr. Grabiner said the Sox had given no thought to a successor to Bush.

Bush has just ended his second season as manager of the south side club. In the first year of his régime the Sox finished in seventh place in the American league and this year they wound up last. Injuries harassed the team throughout the season.

Friction in Mid Season.

The Sox with their full strength available climaxed the 1931 season with a surprising victory over the Cubs in the city series. It was the first time in five years they had defeated their north side rivals.

The only evidence of friction between Bush and the Sox business office was in mid season when he sent Lyons home while the club was in the east because the pitcher had a lame arm. After a few days here Lyons was sent back to rejoin the team in Detroit. Bush didn't use him for several weeks.

In the twelve years since the Sox last won the pennant they have had six managers, an average of one every two years. Their names and the position of the club at the finish of each season follows:

Kid Gleason—1921	7

Bush came to the Sox after slightly less than two years of service as manager of the Pirates. He succeeded Lena Blackburne as boss of Chicago's American league club. Bush led the Pirates to the National league championship in 1927. The team dropped four straight games to the Yankees in the world series.

Bush's term with Pittsburgh was concluded abruptly on Aug. 28, 1928. The team came home from an unsuccessful eastern trip and Bush was called into conference with Owner Dreyfuss. It was announced before the game that afternoon that Bush had resigned, but from other sources it was disclosed that the resignation had been forced upon him. Dreyfuss is supposed to have told him there would be a change in managers at the end of the season. Bush replied the change might as well be made then and there. Dreyfuss agreed.

Career Began in 1905.

Bush, a native of Indianapolis, began his baseball career with an independent team at Sault Ste. Marie in 1905. Late in 1908, after playing short stop with Saginaw, Mich.; South Bend, Ind., and Indianapolis, he was drafted by the Detroit Tigers. He had a big year with the Tigers in 1909 and took part in the Detroit-Pittsburgh world series that fall. He remained with the Tigers until 1921. The next year he played with the Washington Senators and in 1923 became manager of the club.

After a year as pilot of the Senators, Bush returned to Indianapolis, where his club finished second in the American Association race three straight years.

Bush plans to attend the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game today after which he will leave for Indianapolis to spend the winter with his mother.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 9.—(AP)—After losing two games, Butler university scored its first football victory of the season here tonight, defeating Ball State Teachers' college, 34 to 0. Butler scored in the first few minutes on a 15 yard run by Raber, twice in the second quarter, and twice in the fourth.

WHEN MARMION GROWS UP HE'LL BE QUITE A HORSE

Shows Courage to Win 2 Year Old Purse.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Most likely the 2 year old Marmion, owned by the Coldstream Stud, is going to be a mighty game fellow when he begins running over a distance of ground in the big 3 year old fixtures next season. Marmion certainly proved his courage when he won the Chicago Day purse before a crowd of 9,000 at Hawthorne yesterday.

He demonstrated it in more ways than one. In the early part of the battle he trailed the fleet Diamond Head, owned by Peter B. Kyne, by some half dozen lengths. At the head of the stretch he sailed up alongside of Diamond Head and a second later took the lead.

Then when he settled down into real good stride and just at a time when he loomed up as a certain winner along came Switch, running next to the rail, to sweep everything before him.

Switch Gives Him a Scare.

Switch had the energetic Bobby Jones in the saddle. Jones has ridden some great races around Chicago this year, but none were more finished than the one he turned in on Switch. It was so powerful that Marmion and his jockey, Buddy Hanford, became frightened right at the end and they only managed to win by the narrowest of nose margins.

After Marmion had whipped Diamond Head that weak hearted fellow dropped back to no place and Bert John from Col. E. R. Bradley's stable ran fast enough in the last furlong to take down third money.

Marmion ran his six furlongs in 1:14 2-5, which is pretty fast over the Hawthorne track, and he carried 115 pounds and gave away weight to all his rivals.

Dis Dat, the favorite, owned by Tom Taggart of French Lick Springs, Ind., got a bum deal from his jockey, Leroy Cunningham, for he ran head and head with Marmion until the real battle started in midstretch. Then Cunningham became timid and pulled Dis Dat back into last place and didn't make an effort to gain any ground from there until the finish.

Northway "Good Thing" Fails.

In the betting Marmion paid $8.22 to win, $4.32 to place, and $3.70 to show. Switch, which races for Mrs. Emil Denemark, was at $4.84 to place and $4.46 to show. Bert John, one of the long shots in the race, paid $7.06 to show.

The Northway stable of California attempted to put over a "good thing" in the first race in Jennie Gal, a royally bred daughter of Sir Gallahad II.-Hurry Home. The price against her dropped from 10 to 1 to 2 to 1, and she stepped right out and took a commanding lead in the early stages.

Coming down the stretch she faltered, and Col. Bradley's Booby Bird stepped on past her and scored a handy victory under the confident ride of the veteran Jimmy Smith. Darter ran third and was going very fast at the end. Booby Bird paid $9.18 for a two dollar ticket.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9.—Purdue's coaches pseudo anxiety concerning tomorrow's football contest here with the University of Illinois eleven took on a genuine aspect today when Ray Horstman, veteran full back, was sent to hospital with a severe arm injury that will keep him out of the Illinois game and possibly out of the Wisconsin game the following Saturday.

Simultaneous with the announcement of Horstman's incapacity came word from the class rooms that book worm Ed Ungers down, Mr. Ungers being an experienced tackle who had been counted on to work against Illinois.

Rick Will Play.

Bill Rick, star of last year's 25 to 0 rout of the Illini, also went to the hospital because of an abscess in his nose, but not even the main blues singers would predict his absence tomorrow.

The loss of Horstman, a serious one to Coach Noble Kizer's plans, probably will mean nothing vital in the outcome of the game unless Alex Agnew is injured. It had been planned to alternate Alex and Horstman, but the emergency will mean nothing down by the able Yunevich.

Gaulers Choose Boilermakers.

The hospital and classroom reports of the day did not affect Purdue's betting with the betting gentry, which is favoring the point system rather than odds in placing wagers. The unsophisticated think that Purdue has touchdowns better than Illinois.

Illini fans do not seem steamed up over the prospect of a triumphant parade any more than do the betters. Indications are that not more than 15,000 Illini will be on hand to cheer their sophomore heroes.

Coach Kizer stood by his plan to start only juniors and seniors. In contrast, Zuppke will not start a senior and will open with only two juniors.

This gives the Old Gold and Black uniforms in all matters, save kicking goals after touchdowns. There does not seem to be a person in Lafayette who can forget that in the last two years Purdue has lost only four games in 24 played and that three of the four losses were through failure to kick the extra point.

BOSTON BRAVES PAY $10,000 AND POOL FOR SHIRES

Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Officials of the Boston Braves of the National league this afternoon announced the purchase of Art Shires, third baseman of the Milwaukee American association club, for $10,000 and Shirley Rael, who was bought by the Braves from Pittsburgh last season.

Shires will be a teammate of Al Spohrer, the Boston rookie he defeated in a boxing contest two years ago while Shires was a member of the Chicago White Sox.

Shires joined the Sox late in the 1928 season and in 1930 was traded to the Washington Senators. He was sent to Milwaukee by the Senators last spring and was among the American association's leading hitters all season. Several clubs were reported to have been waiting for him at the close of the season, including, the Chicago Cubs.

MARQUETTE RUNS OVER RIPON, 40-0, IN NIGHT GAME

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Marquette university scored four touchdowns in the second period and one each in the third and fourth here tonight to defeat Ripon college, 40 to 0. The last touchdown in the second period came as the result of a fluke play in which Wayland Becker, Marquette right half back, kicked off. The ball went over the goal line and Arthur Holmes, Ripon half, became confused as he prepared to receive the ball. He failed to touch the ball and Becker raced in, falling on it for six points. Johnny Sisk, left half back, and Becker starred for Marquette.

Athletics Win, 8-1; Title Is at Stake Today

of being the first to give the crowd something worth whooping it up about. Roettger singled to center with one out in the opening inning, but Frisch's grounder to Bishop was converted into a double play. The Macks offset this hit when Foxx singled past Bottomley with one out in the second. He was forced by Miller, who went to second on a wild pitch before Dykes grounded out to Flowers.

By use of a perfectly placed bunt Derringer himself almost became the cause of getting Grove into a tight spot in the third. After Wilson's high fly to center Gelbert singled past Bishop, who grabbed the ball with his bare hand but couldn't hold it. Derringer bunted and got the ball past Grove, but Bishop, tearing in when he saw what was happening, recovered and threw to Foxx in time to get Derringer by inches. Gelbert moved down to second and was stranded there when Williams came up with a perfect throw to first on Flowers' grounded.

It was the misfortune of the slugging Simmons to hit one wickedly in the fourth and get nothing for the effort. Haas was the first man up and he stood like a wooden Indian while Derringer was slipping across a third strike. Frisch whipped out Cochrane. Then Simmons hit a rakish drive toward right center, but Roettger cut in front of the ball, dived as it was about to hit the ground, and held it. Grove apparently resented this robbery. At any rate, he upset Roettger on strikes in the fourth and followed with a similar dose for Frisch.

Flowers' Wild Throw.

The throw with which Flowers ripped the heart out of the youthful Derringer in the memorable fifth sailed so high that only a leap by Bottomley kept it from going into the field boxes. Miller promptly laid down the customary sacrifice on which Derringer threw him out. Then the disintegration of the Cards' young pitching phenom set in.

Derringer tried to be overcautious with Dykes. He tempted the old timer with badly pitched balls, and Dykes refused to bite. He walked. Williams didn't go in for the waiting game. He swung and a single went zooming out into center. Martin, coming in at top speed, picked up the drive and aimed it back toward the plate, but the throw was too long to be of any good. Foxx scored easily. When Grove fanned it looked as if Derringer might get out of the woods with a minimum of damage.

Walt Out Derringer.

The hope the young man aroused in his St. Louis constitutents when he fanned Grove was dashed a moment later on a pass to Bishp, filling the bases. Haas moved into the batter's pit and followed the tactics of Bishop. He waited until he had run the count to 3 and 2. Then Derringer threw another, Haas watched it go past, dropped his bat, and started the stroll toward first. Derringer and Wilson, thinking it a third strike, moved toward their own dugout.

When Umpire Nallin called it a ball the Cards swarmed on him from all directions. Even Manager Street came tearing out of the dugout. Nallin listened patiently and then, by motions of his hands, let the Cards know that it was low and on the outside. Anyway, it remained a pass to Haas, the bases remained filled, and Dykes was forced to score with the second run. Cochrane, the bust of the series as a hitter, hammered a single past Frisch's left to score Williams. Then Simmons went back to the waiting game. Derringer walked him and Bishop was forced to score.

Then Manager Street issued the long overdue recall of the wilted freshman pitcher. Sylvester Johnson got Foxx on a popup to end the sad inning.

Cardinals Break Through.

While the Macks were getting a breathing spell before uncorking their second four run attack the Cards picked up their lone run off Grove in the sixth. The inning started with Blades batting for Johnson. Grove fanned him. Flowers doubled to the wall in left center and made the rest of the journey when a powerful grounder by Frisch rattled off Foxx's chest for a single.

Lindsey wasn't long in learning in the seventh that the A's didn't exhaust themselves in their attack on Derringer. His feeble relief effort began against Bishop, who led off with a single to right. Haas sacrificed and Cochrane filed to Hafey. Simmons wasn't that easy. He singled through short and Bishop tore across the plate. Foxx kept it going with a single to left. Lindsey added to his own distress by hitting Miller, loading the bases.

The uneven struggle grew funnier when Simmons was forced to score on a pass to Dykes. And still funnier when Hafey, standing under Williams' high fly in left, committed the muff that gave Foxx and Miller an opportunity to score. Grove then ended the inning with a grounder to Frisch.

Martin Waits Until Stage Is Set; Then Makes Grand Entry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 9.—The famous Pepper Martin isn't so dumb. He waited until all the Cardinals had taken the field for their pre-game practice today and then made his entrance by dashing from the bench to his working territory in center. Everybody gave him a hand. That is, everybody except the Athletics.

Martin's fame is beginning to pay dividends. Before the game he was handed two shotguns which he thinks he might use on a hunting expedition. Another gift was an enormous watermelon from unknown admirers down in Texas.

The baseball people weren't at all backward about selling standing room tickets for room that didn't exist. Aisles were so packed that it was almost impossible for coupon holders to get to their seats.

The weather couldn't have been improved upon. After two days of rain, the sky cleared and just enough breeze was blowing to make the fans realize that summer had gone. The field was a bit heavy from the rain, but not enough to cause the athletes any trouble.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Cubs, was among those present. He intends to take things easy for a spell, after which he will get busy on the important matter of trying to strengthen the Cubs for next season.

Jim Bottomley took a healthy hold of one of Grove's foolers in the second after two were out and lined it to deep right. Just when the crowd was getting ready to yell over what looked like an extra base hit, Miller leaped up and caught the ball.

Grove seemed to concentrate on Roettger and Frisch. He fanned them in the fourth and again in the ninth. In the latter instance, however, Roettger got to first because Cochrane let the third strike get away. That was the same play that caused the experts and radio announcers so much trouble in the ninth inning of the second game last Friday.

Gabby Street, manager of the Cardinals, didn't have any luck with his pinch hitters. Blades batted for Johnson in the sixth and Grove fanned him. Collins, who early in the year had Bottomley's first base job, batted for Lindsey in the eighth and grounded to Bishop.

Wally Roettger's own momentary bad judgment in the third forced him to make a great play. With two out Bishop drove a liner to right and the ex-Illini athlete started to come in. After a few steps he realized he was in error, so he halted, leaped up and stabbed the drive with his outstretched glove hand.

Bishop was a sensation at second base. He handled four assists and four putouts, but his best work was on two plays that do not show in his chances handled. Hafey led off in the fifth with a hard drive and Bishop, flat on his face on the ground, stopped the ball behind second with his bare hand. He couldn't get up in time to keep Hafey from a hit. He did the same on Gelbert's hit in the third, except the ball got out of his hand.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 9. — Wisconsin football teams have not lost an intersectional game in the five years under the Thistlethwaite régime. Tomorrow at Camp Randall the Badgers expect to keep up the good work against Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

If they don't, you may put it down as a case of the Notre Dame system proving superior to the football mode of which Pop Warner is credited as the originator. The men from Auburn, coached by Chet Wynne and Roger Kiley, former Notre Dame stars under the late Knute Rockne, are expected to spring a Notre Dame type of attack, passes, spinners, and end runs included.

The Badger coaching staff respects Auburn. All of this week's practices were held with the idea of stopping the Alabamans' overhead attack. But whether the Wisconsin varsity will or not depends on just how the whole squad clicks tomorrow. If it functions effectively it will be a surprise to Coach Thistlethwaite, inasmuch as it is reputed to be so weak that even the freshmen can score against it.

McGuire at Quarter.

Speaking of offensives, Thistlethwaite asserted after today's practice that he expected to shoot the works against the southerners. In other words, there'll be no withholding of plays for the Purdue contest one week later. The Purdue game is seven days off and there'll be ample time for surprise formations. Beating Alabama Poly is tomorrow's task.

Mickey McGuire, the Honolulu half back, will be in as signal caller for the Badgers tomorrow. That lifts a load from Badger football minds. The squad couldn't seem to get going without him. Helping McGuire will be a line that will average 193 pounds and a back field that will be ten pounds lighter. Auburn will be outweighed.

The work of the Badger backs lately has been up to snuff, but how the forward wall, containing new talent at the ends, at one tackle and at one guard, will function is conjectural, especially as concerns the left side.

Kranhold No Worry.

George Thurner, Milwaukee, and Ralph Lovshin, Duluth, Minn., are the so-called inexperienced wingmen. Don Cuthbert, Barron, Wis., is the tackle about whom concern is felt. But why the experts worry about Harvey Kranhold, Appleton, is not established. Kranhold, to be sure, is new, but as a left guard he's certainly a comer. He's as promising, Badger followers say, as was his teammate, Gregory Kabat, who last year as a sophomore set the conference on fire by his work in the line.

Buckets Goldenberg, Milwaukee; Russ Rebholz, Portage, now in his last year, and Johnny Schneller, Neenah, complete the starting ball carriers. Thistlethwaite admits he likes this quartet of backs as well as any he's seen in a long time.

St. Viator Eleven Defeats McKendree College 24 to 0

Lebanon, Ill., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The St. Viator college eleven defeated McKendree, 24 to 0, here tonight for its second consecutive Little Nineteen conference victory. Touchdowns were scored by O'Donnell, Muscari, McNaughton, and Westray. St. Viator used a diversified attack, scoring twice on long forward passes and twice on line plunges. It was leading, 12 to 0, at half time.

Catholic U. Piles Up 91-0 Triumph Over Gallaudet

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Catholic university of Washington defeated Gallaudet, also of Washington, 91 to 0, here tonight.

Opening with a 70 yard run for a touchdown on the kickoff, Catholic scored as follows, by quarters: 28, 12, 25, 26. Two touchdowns were the most scored by any player.

75,000 to See Notre Dame Play Northwestern Today

of these cars will continue down the north side boulevards to Soldiers' field.

Notre Dame Favored.

From the purely football side, chances are rated nearly equal with perhaps a shade to Notre Dame because of past performances and more replacements. Northwestern's supposedly superior back field is offset by a supposedly superior Notre Dame line, not superior at some points but possibly averaging better. Team spirit at both institutions is healthy. Both elevens expect to win. That spirit of depression which hit the Purple campus when Reb Russell and others were injured has given place to a feeling that whether or not the Wildcats are underdogs in public estimation, they are not actually so.

Purple Shuns Campus.

Odds on the result, governed largely in college affairs by the zeal of the partisans, are even money but the purely commercial speculators rate the Irish as 8 to 5 favorites, with a few spotting the Purple 6 points for an even money wager.

Northwestern took its final practice before the game at Soldiers' field yesterday afternoon. There the usual last before-game signal practice, punting, forward passing, and receiving of aerial heaves took place to accustom the boys with their surroundings. In the dummy signal practice Ollie Olson, the 180 pound sophomore from Wheaton, was in Russell's place at full back. Otherwise the starting lineup probably will be the same as against Nebraska last Saturday.

Following their limbering up, the Wildcats clambered into their bus, which had brought them from Evanston, and were driven to the Chicago Beach hotel, where they spent the night. Dinner was followed by an early visit to the movies, a blackboard chalk talk by the coach, and then to bed by 10:30 o'clock. It was explained this hotel stay would keep the players from discussing with visiting alumni at their fraternity and residence houses the outcome of the affair today.

Notre Dame, following custom, will arrive in the city this morning and will be quartered at the Auditorium hotel.

NEW YORK IS SURE OF ARMY, NAVY CONTEST

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Word was received from Washington this afternoon that New York definitely has been chosen as the site of the Army-Navy football game, which will be played for the benefit of the unemployed on Dec. 12.

The contest probably will be played in Yankee stadium, the site of last year's charity game, which seats approximately 80,000. Col. Jake Ruppert of the New York Yankees announced several days ago that the club would donate the use of the field for the game.

Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities also bid for the game.

HYMIE WISEMAN BEATS SCHUMAN IN EIGHT ROUNDS

Hymie Wiseman of Des Moines, Ia., again proved his superiority over Solly Schuman by decisively outboxing the Chicago lightweight last night in the eight round windup at Eagles hall, 52d and Madison streets. Wiseman beat Schuman in six rounds last spring at the Stadium.

In the semi-windup Joey Bosak beat Harry Garbell in six rounds. Davy Day's first pro fight proved successful when he defeated Johnny Mason in four rounds. Georgie Stokes beat Tod Kelley in six rounds and Jimmy Murphy outpointed Johnny Allen in six rounds.

Scalpers Demand $12.50 for Ticket to Today's Game

Scalpers last night were offering tickets to the Northwestern-Notre Dame game at Soldiers' field today for $12.50 each. The tickets were said to be on the 30 yard line on the Northwestern side.

The same tickets were being offered for $15 and $20 earlier in the week. A canvass of four loop ticket offices revealed that the scalpers were securing the tickets only on request. They had no supply in their possession.

Cutting of the price and procuring of the tickets on order only were directly attributable to announcements from both Notre Dame and Northwestern that plenty of seats were still available at the established price of $4.

Notre Dame was the favorite throughout the loop, the leading commissioners quoting prices of 8 to 5, 3 to 2 and even money with six points. Little wagering had been done, however, the commissioners said.

Prairie Chicken, Once Plentiful, Faces Extinction

BY BOB BECKER.

The prairie chicken, once a game bird abundant on the Illinois prairies, has been decreasing in numbers until today it can hardly be considered a game bird. But the average sportsman does not realize the change in Illinois farming conditions and its effects on prairie chickens until he hears from an observant farmer who has watched them over a period of years.

Charles H. Faber, a retired farmer of Mendota, Ill., 70 years old, and for 51 years an active worker on a Mendota farm, has written us a vivid picture of the vanishing prairie chicken in this state.

His letter in part follows:

"Fifty years, yes, 40 years ago prairie chickens were hatched on the farms around here, producing many young ones. Some farmers would shoot a few now and then, say after harvest.

"Some farmer boys constructed traps, placed them where the birds gathered and caught some. Twelve years ago there were dozen prairie chickens on our farm of 235 acres. The number remained the same for several years.

"We quit shooting and tried to prevent hunting by others on our premises. But this effort was not always successful. Men from towns and cities nearby would slip in, usually on Sundays, and shoot anything available.

ISSUE RULES FOR SOLDIERS' FIELD TRAFFIC TODAY

Police Expect to Handle 15,000 Autos.

BY HAL FOUST.

South park commissioners are prepared to handle 15,000 private automobiles in addition to the buses and taxicabs that will carry the crowd to Soldiers' field this afternoon for the Northwestern-Notre Dame football game. Special traffic regulations will be in effect, and the efficacy of these rules will be watched as a guide to traffic management during the 1933 World's Fair.

A corps of 50 men, equipped with cameras and counters, will tally and photograph the mobilization and dispersement of the army of football fans. This will form a definite record of how well today's experimental regulations can handle large crowds such as will be common during the World's Fair.

If You're Not Going, Stay Away.

To cooperate with the police, the south park board requests all motorists not attending the game to stay out of Grant park this afternoon.

The loop workers and homeward bound shoppers also should comply so as to avoid the congestion around the stadium and on the bridges over the Illinois Central tracks.

Private cars coming to the game from the south will be parked in the lot south of the stadium and when the game is over they will be routed south. Those from the north will be parked north of the stadium and after the game will be routed north.

Fifteen minutes before the game is over, police will close approaches to the lake front drives so that they will be cleared for the rush from the stadium.

Bridge for Pedestrians.

The 11th street bridge will be reserved for pedestrians. They will be kept on the west sidewalk of the inner drive from 11th to 14th street, where they will cross to the stadium.

Buses and taxicabs will keep to the east curb of the inner drive in carrying passengers to the game. Taxicabs will park on the west side of the stadium and on 16th street for the end of the game. Buses will load on the stadium drive.

FAST VANDERBILT BACKS MENACE OHIO STATE GOAL

Columbus, O., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Vanderbilt university's football squad of only 28 players arrived in Columbus tonight. Tomorrow it will battle Ohio State for the third time in the schools' history. The Buckeyes won twice, in 1905 by 12 to 6 and in 1909 by 6 to 0.

The Commodores are in perfect condition with the exception of Capt. Tommy Leonard, half back, who still is suffering from a chipped wrist bone, received as Vanderbilt beat North Carolina, 13 to 0. Leonard probably will start, however, according to Coach Dan McGugin, assuring the Vanderbilt team of a back field quartet capable of stepping 160 yards in 10 seconds.

Ohio State will enter the game somewhat handicapped physically but with every regular in the lineup with the exception of Ted Rosequist, tackle. Quarter Back Joe Benis and End Sid Gillman are recovering from injuries and are available if needed.

DEPOSED BANKER ASKS $3,730,186 IN DAMAGE SUIT

He Charges Conspiracy to Destroy Fortune.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Papers were served today in a suit involving $3,730,186 brought by Joseph J. Lunghino, former president of the Commercial Trust company, against Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, and a number of prominent attorneys, brokers, and bankers.

In his complaint Mr. Lunghino accuses the following defendants, with others, of conspiring to destroy his bank and his personal fortune:

George F. Rand, president of the Marine Trust company, one of Buffalo's largest banks, and also president of the Marine Midland corporation, large New York state bank holding company.

Russell J. H. Hutton of the investment firm of Schoell, Kopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc.

Former Supreme Court Justice Daniel J. Kenefick, former counsel of the Commercial Trust company.

Rand Denies Charges.

"There is no basis whatever for any of Mr. Lunghino's claims or charges," Mr. Rand declared. "The only interest the Marine Trust company had in the situation was to save the money of the depositors of the Commercial Trust company."

Mr. Lunghino claims he lost $1,400,-134 through the collapse of the Commercial Trust company, more than $1,250,000 through the slump in the stock of the Commercial Share corporation, and was damaged to the extent of $1,000,000 as the result of his prosecution on grand larceny charges.

Mr. Lunghino's complaint charges all of those named as defendants of plotting his financial destruction as a step in the direction of creating a monopoly of the banking business of Buffalo.

Freed on Larceny Charge.

His arrest on charges of grand larceny in New York City, of which he was subsequently acquitted, was inspired, Mr. Lunghino alleges, when it became clear to the Buffalo bankers that he had taken successful steps toward the financial rehabilitation of the Commercial Trust company.

The final acts of the alleged conspiracy, Mr. Lunghino charges, were staged in a room in the basement of the home of Mr. Rand in a fashionable section of the city. Mr. Lunghino avers he was threatened, coerced, and intimidated by Mr. Rand, backed by his powerful banking associates, and compelled to relinquish control of the Commercial Trust company to a financial group headed by Mr. Rand.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Hide and Seek

RYVES' COMET PHOTOGRAPHED; CLOSE TO SUN

Yerkes Astronomers Find 'Wanderer.'

Williams Bay, Wis., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ryves' comet, an illusive wanderer in the skies which for two months has played hide and seek in the rays of the sun, was seen and photographed today by astronomers at Yerkes observatory here, Director Edwin B. Frost announced today.

So closely does this newly discovered comet follow the sun that astronomers had to catch it by stealth, Dr. Frost said. They waited until just before dawn and then, over the horizon, just ahead of the sun, came the comet.

Prof. George Van Biesbroeck leveled the great Yerkes telescope at the stranger, made his photographs, and later in the day developed his plates. Astronomers were jubilant when they detected a tiny speck, and then ascertained by intricate calculations that the comet was just where it was supposed to be.

"The comet, at its closest approach, was within seven million miles of the sun," Prof. Frost said. "That is very close. It is, we determined, two hours east of the sun, about seven degrees removed from it.

"And it will never be much of a success as a public spectacle for now, of the ninth magnitude, it is too faint for the naked eye to detect. It is at present a hundred times fainter than when it was first observed on Aug. 10. It was closest to the sun Aug. 25, and so far as I know it was not seen until this morning since Aug. 19."

P. M. Ryves, who discovered the comet and whose name it bears, is a British amateur astronomer living in Spain.

Policeman Shot Aiding Woman Dies of Wounds

Policeman Joseph Isaacs, 28 years old, 6504 Wentworth avenue, of the Kensington station, died early this morning in the Roseland community hospital of bullet wounds received yesterday when he tried to quell a disturbance in the Spanish Tavern, cafe at 11851 South Michigan avenue. Isaacs, on vacation, attempted to save a woman from being beaten by a man. He drew his revolver, but was disarmed, and shot twice.

TWO WOMEN RESCUED FROM BURNING AUTO

Two women were trapped in their burning automobile last night after the machine had crashed into a wagon in Lansing, Ill., but were saved from burning to death. The women, Mrs. Harriet Miles, 39 years old, 6040 Dorchester avenue, and Mrs. D. G. Rosengrant, 65 years old, 7010 Bennett avenue, were taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, where the latter's condition was pronounced serious.

When the auto struck the wagon both left the road, the machine bursting into flame. Half a dozen motorists ran to the burning machine and extricated the helpless women.

A man, identified through papers in his pockets as Daniel A. French, 55 years old, 321 Lake street, Maywood, was fatally injured last night when struck by a Yellow taxicab at 41st street and Drexel avenue. He died in the Chicago hospital. Louis Neath, 11209 Prairie avenue, was the driver.

This death and one other increased the Cook county auto toll since Jan. 1 to 960. The victim:

Michael Briskie, 15 years old, 4109 South Princeton avenue. Died in the German Deaconess hospital from injuries suffered earlier in the day when he was knocked from his motorcycle by an automobile. The driver of the car was James Shugrue, 3822 West Monroe street.

COUNTY LOSES IN APPEAL AGAINST BILL FOR BALLOTS

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday denied a rehearing of the evidence which the Cook county commissioners wished to present in an effort to avoid paying the printing bill contracted by the board of election commissioners in the 1930 general election. Under the decision the county must pay the $165,000 bill, which some of the county commissioners charged was almost double the price paid by the county for similar ballots.

The matter was taken to the Supreme court by the Atwell Printing and Binding company, 221 East Cullerton street, on a writ of mandamus to compel payment. In the original review no evidence that the city's bill was excessive as compared to the county's was presented. The court ruled that the county must pay under the election law. In the petition for the rehearing no additional evidence was admitted.

Half the bill has been paid while the appeal was pending.

FIND M'ERLANE FINGER PRINTS ON WIFE'S DEATH CAR

Finger prints on the door of the automobile in which Mrs. Elfreda Rigus McErlane was found shot to death on Thursday were identified last night as those of her husband, Frank McErlane, gangster and gunman, in the police bureau of identification. Police pressed their search for McErlane.

McErlane and his wife, sometimes called Marion Miller, were on their way on Wednesday night to visit Joe Saltis, former beer baron, on his estate in Wisconsin. The police believe McErlane killed his wife during a drunken quarrel.

The woman's mother, Mrs. Antoinette Rigus, 6656 Lowe avenue, identified the body at the county morgue. She said that her daughter had married McErlane in East St. Louis on May 7, 1930.

Find Toadstools, Eaten as Mushrooms, Caused Death

Toadstools, eaten in error for mushrooms, caused the death of Fred Parker, 48 years old, a farmer living near Sheridan road, south of Zion, it was decided at the inquest yesterday. Parker died Thursday night in the Lake county general hospital in Waukegan. He became ill on Wednesday after eating some supposed mushrooms which he had picked earlier.

Toledo, O., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Two Toledoans are dead and seven others are in hospitals critically poisoned from eating toadstools they believed to be mushrooms.

Evanston Employes Give Day a Month for Relief

Evanston city employés will contribute one day's pay a month for the next five months to the $150,000 relief fund being raised in the suburb, Mayor Charles H. Bartlett said yesterday. The contributions, to be deducted from the pay checks of the 325 city employés, will amount to $9,250 between now and March 1.

GRAND JURY GETS HOUSE RECORD OF CANNON REPORTS

Court Order Overcomes Clerk's Refusal.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—The district grand jury's investigation into the political activities of Bishop James Cannon Jr., will conclude tomorrow, it is expected, with the submission to the jury by William Tyler Page, clerk of the house of representatives, of the original reports made by the bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, his associate, regarding expenditures in the anti-Smith Democratic campaign of 1928.

Court Demands Records.

Responding to an order by Justice James M. Proctor of the District of Columbia Supreme court Mr. Page recanted his former objection to producing the records. He had held that a 52 year old house rule prevented the presentation of the original reports without the house's express permission. The court ruled otherwise and Mr. Page then declared that he would submit the records and in the interests of justice run the risk of a house censure.

Though expected to conclude its hearing tomorrow the grand jury will make no report, provided an indictment is found, until Oct. 17. Except in extraordinary circumstances it is the custom here for grand juries to present all indictments at one time.

Several Witnesses Heard.

Among the witnesses to testify today as to Bishop Cannon's disposition of political contributions made to him by E. C. Jameson of New York, former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen of New Jersey and others were E. J. Armbruster, department of justice auditor, and Ernest M. Kull, bank cashier. The latter is said to have testified concerning two $5,000 cashier's checks which, it is reported, went from Frelinghuysen to the bishop.

Other witnesses told of Bishop Cannan's handling of the Jameson donations, portions of which, according to testimony submitted at last summer's senate hearing, found their way into the bishop's private accounts.

U. S. GETS PAIR HERE TO OUST MOVIE WORKERS

Albert Lazar, 38 years old, and Solly Grossman, 32 years old, brought by airplane from New York to induce nonunion motion picture operators to leave Chicago, were turned over to the government yesterday on charges of violating the anti-narcotic law. Witnesses and victims of acts of terrorism in the dispute between the motion picture operators' union and the independent theater owners' association failed to identify them. The men, both drug addicts, confessed that they had been hired to drive the imported operators out of the city for a consideration of $25,000.

TROUBLES PILE UP FOR ROOSEVELT IN HIS ABSENCE

Demand He Remove Tammany Sheriff.

New York, Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Political troubles are accumulating daily for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, presidential aspirant during his absence in Warm Springs, Ga., on his autumnal vacation. Repeated efforts have been made to invade his southern retreat and lay the packages of political dynamite on his doorstep, but without success.

Growing out of the testimony of district leaders who have revealed their remarkable frugality on small salaries comes an insistent demand that the governor remove Sheriff "Tin Box" Tom Farley and Registrar McQuade, head of the thirty-four Brooklyn McMcQuades. The governor has so far refused to entertain any such suggestions, saying he would be back in New York on Oct. 17.

The Brooklyn judicial mess growing out of the bosses' deal on the twelve newly created judgeships also is getting hotter in spite of the determination of political leaders of both parties to stamp out the fire. The politics in that situation is bad for the Democratic state organization.

In both situations the relationship of Gov. Roosevelt and Tammany is involved and for the most part unpleasantly. The Tammany problem is one of the most difficult with which the governor has to deal.

To break with Tammany and risk the loss of the state delegation in 1932 might be disastrous. Yet such a break would strengthen Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy for the nomination in the west and south.

QUESTION CITY STAFF ON STREET LIGHTS CONTRACT

Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge, who is investigating the charges of the Citizens' association regarding a street lighting contract awarded under the last administration, announced yesterday that he has questioned fifteen inspectors from the office of the commissioner of gas and electricity. Francis O'Donnell, who was acting commissioner prior to the appointment of William A. Jackson and who is now chief deputy, was among those questioned.

One inspector, it is said, admitted that he was required to inspect so many different activities of the workmen of the Electrical Contracting company, which obtained the $1,000,000 contract, that it was impossible for him to properly supervise the work. A supervising inspector told Prosecutors Dodge and John Gallagher that he asked for more inspection help when it was necessary, but that he could not get it. However, this witness said that after the important work was done the job was flooded with inspectors.

It was charged by the Citizens' association and by Commissioner Jackson that the specifications were not fully complied with.

The man, Clarence J. Cochran, 62, was held in contempt of court for trying to borrow $92 from a son of one of the defendants. The woman juror was disqualified.

WALL ST. HEARS RATE DECISION IS DUE TODAY

Believes Roads Will Get Increases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—A report was widely spread in Wall street today that the Interstate commerce commission would hand down its decision granting a sliding scale of rate increases on the application of the railroads for a 15 per cent boost in freight rates after the close of the stock market tomorrow.

The rumors gave impetus to a strong advance in rail shares on the stock exchange, with leading members of the group jumping 2 to 6 points in a short while.

Little no official news was forthcoming from Washington, Wall street was inclined to believe there was some basis for expectation of an announcement over the week-end because of the insistence of the reports in various quarters.

Not Except Farm Products.

According to one version, the interstate commerce commission has decided to grant an increase of 2@15 per cent, graduated by classification of freight. Some classes, notably agricultural products, will be excepted entirely, it was said.

The average increase, Wall street said, will be from 7 to 8 per cent.

The increase of that amount, it was stated, based on 1930 earnings of the roads, would mean an annual addition of from one hundred million to two hundred million dollars in net income of the railroads. A flat 15 per cent increase would bring the four hundred million dollars added revenue sought by the carriers.

However it was thought the commission might make some recommendation that the railroads move for a readjustment of wage scales.

Wage Cut Rumors Credited.

Credence in this phase of the rumors was strengthened by an intimation given by Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, after a conference with President Hoover at Washington today, that the roads might be forced to reduce wages.

"I have hoped that wage reductions would not be necessary," he was quoted as saying. The deduction was drawn from that remark that he believed the railroad situation had passed a stage where wage reductions were necessary.

An unevenly distributed rate increase would be in line with expectations which have been voiced by railroad experts in Wall street in recent weeks. At the same time there has been a reason to believe, because of the position farm commodities have suffered in the last two years, that the interstate commerce commission would be reluctant to place any further burden on agriculture.

When final arguments in the rate cases were heard about two weeks ago it was expected that the interstate commerce commission would make its decision as quickly as possible, but probably not before the end of October.

Fiber Production in U. S. Held in Air Castle Stage

BY SCRUTATOR.

In response to comments that appeared recently in this column on the subject of financing hemp and flax projects, representatives of various groups interested in the promotion of machines for extracting fiber from such plants point out the advantage to American agriculture of developing new crops.

It is true that this country needs more of certain fibers than it produces. Burlap bags, for instance, are made from jute imported from India. In 1929 the United States imported nearly a hundred million dollars' worth of jute and jute products.

In the same year imports of flax, hemp, ramie, and products such as linen made from these fibers totaled more than fifty millions. About $42,-000,000 of other vegetable fibers were brought into this country.

The diversion of a large part of this foreign business to American agriculture would be a big help, especially in regions where there is cheap marginal land. Fields abandoned to the Canada thistle could be reclaimed for hemp, for the latter will drive out the thistles. Such crops, however, would hardly be profitable for farmers who till high priced black soil.

After Crop Is Raised, What Then?

But after the farmer raises a crop of hemp or fiber flax, what then? Promoters of scutching apparatus from time to time for many years have declared that they have licked the problem of producing fiber cheaply enough to enable domestic producers to take business that has been going abroad.

Hemp has been grown in this country for generations. The early settlers wore "hempen homespuns." The fiber was used to make sails for vessels, ropes, twine, etc. But for half a century the use of hemp has been declining, although a little is still being produced in Wisconsin and Kentucky.

Many years ago James J. Hill, looking for additional business for his railroads, sought to find a way to make linen from the flax straw that farmers burned after harvesting the seed. He commissioned an inventor named MacAdam to devise a machine. MasAdam died without having solved his problem.

Now hemp and flax again comes to public attention as a result of the activities of several syndicates interested in promoting various new machines. One Indiana group has already asked the farm board for cheap money to help finance its project and other groups have used the possibility of obtaining federal funds as a talking point in boosting their propositions.

New Crops Desired.

It is to be hoped that something can be done to develop new crops for the farmer. But until somebody proves that a machine can be built that will extract usable fiber on a commercial scale cheaply enough to make it profitable and also demonstrate that there is a ready market for it the proposition is still in the air castle stage.

Advancing federal funds for such purposes, even through the devious route of financing hemp growers cooperatively organized, would simply mean that the taxpayers' money would be used to speculate on a machine for the advantage of the patent owner or licensee. Should the experiment happen to be a success the promoters would be in a position to profit greatly, while the most that the farmer could hope for would be a fair market price for a few tons of produce.

The bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture has warned farmers against large scale plantings of hemp except in localities where experience has shown that profitable crops may be expected.

"The warning," the bureau says, "is directed primarily at the enthusiastic sales promotion talk put out by companies organized to exploit new hemp scutching machines occasionally devised and placed on the market."

Private capital will not be slow to exploit any machine that promises good profits. When and if such a machine is developed there will be no need for the government to stake the speculators in the name of farm relief.

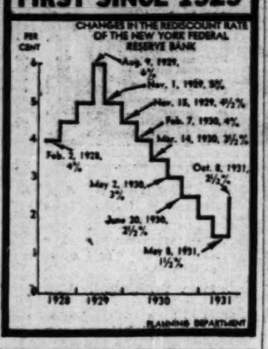
INCREASE IN NEW YORK REDISCOUNT RATE IS FIRST SINCE 1929



FIND WARM WEATHER ACTING AS BRAKE ON RETAIL TRADE BUYING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—The warm weather, which has been the cause for much complaint in recent weeks in the reports to Bradstreet's from fifty leading cities, again is prominently featured as a restraint to trade.

"There is little doubt that the unseasonable heat so far this fall has retarded retail buying of cool weather articles, and the fact that this element has been so frequently mentioned shows an encouraging amount of optimism among merchants in that they blame this, rather than general conditions," the review states. "But it is also evident that retail business this fall is going to be below last year, and below normal.

"The advent of cooler weather may bring a buying rush of considerable proportions. The results of the new plan of Mr. Hoover for helping banks should also be reflected in trade, but the indications are that conservatism will continue to be the most prominent factor throughout the fall."

"The outstanding feature of the week was the concerted nationwide plan to relieve financial pressure," says Dun's review of the week. "The beneficial effect on sentiment was immediate.

"Commodity prices were helped to some extent and security values considerably improved. Some hesitation in many lines of business was still apparent owing to the higher temperatures, but the gradual recovery from the low levels of trade that obtained during the summer months is still making progress."

Reserve Bank Aids Money Market; Gold Goes Abroad

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—Following upon the advance in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve bank of New York from 1½ to 2½ per cent the money market today made important upward adjustments in the price of credit.

Yield rates on bankers' bills were lifted one-half to five-eighths of 1 per cent, call money, after renewing at the old figure of 1½ per cent, moved up to 2 per cent, the highest charge since April 16, last, and the time money market tightened, without, however, showing any change in quotations.

The change in the New York bank rate, followed during the day by advances in the rediscount rates of the federal reserve banks of Boston and Cleveland here and by a rise in the Bank of France rate abroad, precipitated further wild movements in the foreign exchange market.

Outflow of $56,367,600.

Foreign withdrawals of gold were again heavy, with a net loss for the day of $56,367,600, bringing the total net loss to the gold stocks of the country since Sept. 21, when the pound sterling was removed from the gold standard, to $479,738,100.

The advance in open market bill rates was not immediately followed by a change in the federal reserve bank's bill buying rate. In order to facilitate the market's adjustment to the sudden change in the bank rate, the federal reserve took in about $50,-000,000 of bankers' bills that were offered to it by bankers and dealers at the old buying rate of 1½ per cent. In the afternoon the bank of issue advanced its buying rate on bills having a maturity of 90 days or less to 1¾ per cent.

Highest Since January.

The new market rates for bankers' acceptances are: For bills up to 90 days maturity, 1⅞ per cent bid, 1¾ per cent asked, an advance of one-half of 1 per cent; for four months' bills, 2⅛ per cent bid, 2 per cent asked, up five-eighths of 1 per cent; for five and six months' bills, 2⅛ per cent bid, 2⅜ per cent asked, up one-half of 1 per cent.

The new rates are the highest since last January for short-term paper and represent a total advance of seven-eighths of 1 per cent over the recent low record of 1 per cent bid, seven-eighths of 1 per cent asked, that was maintained until Sept. 21 last.

Today's prompt response of the federal reserve banks of Boston and Cleveland in following the lead of the Federal Reserve bank of New York was accepted in Wall street as indicating that the general advance in money rates is likely to spread over the country quickly. The Boston bank lifted its rate from 2 per cent to 2½ per cent, while the Cleveland institution went up from 2½ per cent to 3 per cent. The Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, which has a 2½ per cent rate, met, but made no change.

Interpret French Boost.

The action of the Bank of France in increasing its rate from 2 per cent to 2½ per cent was interpreted as a move on the part of the French banking authorities to keep Paris as attractive as New York to international money. Prior to the change in the reserve bank's rate Paris had an advantage of ⅛ of 1 per cent. The changes made by the two banks place their rates now on equal footing.

Contrary to the normal reaction following an advance in the rediscount rate, foreign exchanges today were generally strong against the dollar. The market was featured by sharp advances in the Swiss franc and the Dutch guilder, both of which currencies were lately sold by speculators in anticipation of a suspension of the gold standard. The Swiss franc bounded up 19 points to 19.85 cents, compared with a parity of 19.30, while the guilder closed at 40.55 cents, up 25 points, having at one time been quoted as high as 41 cents. Par for the Dutch exchange is 40.20 cents. At today's close both exchanges were far above the gold shipping points, opening the prospect of further heavy exports of the metal from this market.

Raise French Rate.

PARIS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Bank of France today raised its discount rate from 2 per cent to 2½ per cent.

Gold Coverage Drops.

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Reichsbank reported today that its gold coverage had dropped to 30.1 per cent, compared to 31.2 last week.

RAILWAY ISSUES SHOW STRENGTH IN BOND MARKET

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A strong market for railroad bonds developed today on the news from Washington that President Hoover was beginning an inquiry into means for assisting those important securities.

Numerous rail liens rallied 1 to more than 5 points. Industrials and utilities were also well supported, but their gains were less spectacular. In activity, the session was the second largest of the year. Rock Island 4s, Baltimore and Ohio 5s and 6s, Chesapeake Corp. 5s, Erie convertible 4s, Alleghany Corp. 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s and collateral 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania gold 5s and debenture 4½s, Texas and Pacific 5s, the Wabash group, and several New York Centrals were among the strong spots. Denver and Rio Grande Western 5s jumped 11¼.

United States governments reflected the firmer money markets by declining sharply. Treasury 4¼s lost 1¼ and the 4s about a point, foreigns were quiet but mostly higher, exceptions being the German and Japanese governments.

Paramount Publix Shows $5,743,255 6 Months' Net

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Paramount-Publix corporation reported consolidated net profit, including earnings of subsidiary companies, of $5,743,255, equal to $1.82 a common share for the six months and $2,227,603, or 70 cents a common share for the three months ended June 27 last. These earnings compared with $8,441,212 for the six months and $3,606,444 for the three months ended June 28, 1930.

Hear of Joint Agreement to Run United States Lines

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Representatives of east and west coast shipping lines, in conference with Herbert Fleischhacker, financier, here today, were understood to have virtually agreed on joint acquisition and operation of the United States lines.

The shipping magnates attending the conference were R. Stanley Dollar, representing the Dollar lines and controlled companies; John M. Franklin of the International Mercantile Marine group; Kermit Roosevelt of the Roosevelt lines, and K. D. Dawson, Portland, Ore., head of a group of trans-Pacific lines. Paul W. RAIL SHARES DO BEST IN DAY'S STOCK MARKET

Secondary Issues Show Advances.

The New York and Chicago Stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and other commodity and security exchanges will be closed Monday, Columbus day. The Winnipeg and Buenos Aires grain markets will also be closed, but European markets will be open as usual. Banks will also be closed.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 9.—Railroad shares continued to forge ahead on large scale buying orders in today's market, but the remainder of the list had its troubles—mainly in the form of profit taking.

The leaders, with one or two exceptions, finished the session showing losses of from a fraction to 2 points or so. United States Steel closed at 70¼, off 2¾; American Can at 83¼, down 1¼; Consolidated Gas at 72⅛, off 1; General Electric at 30⅜, off ⅛, and General Motors at 36½, off ⅝ point.

Secondary issues, however, displayed more plus signs than losses, which gave the market an upward look despite the backwardness of the pivotals.

Reason for Buoyancy.

Continued buoyancy in the carrier division was due to a widely circulated report that the interstate commerce commission is prepared to hand down a favorable decision tomorrow on the rate increase application.

While Wall street does not anticipate that the roads will be granted the full amount they asked for, it is believed that the advance will be substantial enough to help them out of the financial rut into which they have fallen since the depression cut down their business so sharply. The average increase, according to the day's "dope," will be about 7 or 8 per cent.

Buying Is Substantial.

Buying in the leading issues of the carrier group went on all day, numerous orders of a very substantial character being recorded to their benefit. There was some realising toward the last, but it was well absorbed and closing prices were not far under the best of the day.

For the Administration of Your Estate

The administration of an estate involves collecting money due the estate, settling debts, adjusting claims and taxes, handling investments, managing and transferring property. It requires knowledge of business, of security and real estate values, of taxes, of accounting, of probate procedure. No one person can be expected to specialize in all of these. But the Continental Illinois Bank, with an entire division of its Trust Department given over wholly to estate work, does specialize in every one of them. And each duty in the management and settlement of every estate in the care of this Bank receives the attention of the men individually fitted for that particular responsibility

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES FIRM AT CLOSE OF TRADE

Utility Section Provides Center of Interest.

Shares on the Chicago Stock exchange were firm at the close yesterday, although the percentage of minus signs that crept into the list was somewhat larger than on the previous day of trading. However, the number of gains was more than twice that of the recessions. The volume picked up somewhat, with the total turnover for the day 170,000 shares.

The utility section continued to provide the center of interest, with the result somewhat mixed, especially in the Insull group. Insull Utility Investment and Middle West Utilities were the two most active issues on the board and both closed higher. Insull Utility in finishing at 13¾ was up the fraction on a turnover of 32,100 shares. Middle West got a ⅝ point gain at 12⅜ on a turnover of 34,650 shares.

Down 5½ Points.

Commonwealth Edison lost 5½ points in closing at 147½. Corporation Securities dropped a ¼ point on the transfer of 3,100 shares, while the certificates, which have been moving in a pretty wide range the last few days, dropped 1¾. Cities Service at 7⅝ picked up a minor fraction.

Trading in the automotive division was fairly active. Bendix gained ¼ in closing at 16⅞, while Borg-Warner dropped back ⅛ at 13¼. Cord was ⅛ to the good in closing at 6⅞. Houdaille Hershey lost ⅛ and was off a minor fraction at 12⅝.

The general list found the advances plentiful, with the majority held within a point or two. An exception was Quaker Oats, which advanced 6 points to 107. And another was Nobilitt Sparks, which likewise was 6 points to the good at 25 on a small turnover.

Other Advances.

Among the shares to show gains of a point or a little better were Vortex Cup, up 1 at 16½; North American Car, 1 point at 10; U. S. Gypsum, 3 at 27⅛; Kalamazoo Stove, 1 point at 10; McWilliams Dredging, up 2 at 18⅛, and Fitz Simons and Connell, up 1 at 19.

U. S. Radio and Television was active once more, but lost 1¼ on a turnover of 6,150 shares. Q. R. S. De Vry, a low priced issue which has had its lively moments of late, moved at a brisk pace yesterday and gained a minor fraction at 1⅝. The annual report of the company is to be issued tomorrow and a new board and chairman are scheduled to be elected.

Reports Larger Profit.

President R. C. Lanphier of the Bangamo Electric company in a letter to the stockholders states that the net sales of the concern for the first nine months of 1931 amounted to $2,509,757, in comparison with $2,814,239 for the same period last year. Net profits for the nine months, after all charges, totaled $338,399, as compared with $286,100 for the same period last year.

Mr. Lanphier states that sales at the Springfield, Ill., plant for the month of September were the largest in the firm's history and were due principally to large orders for electric heaters received from a number of utility companies. He stated that earnings for the first nine months were more than twice the entire year's dividends on both the preferred and common shares.

COTTON CHANGES SMALL; LESS HEDGING PRESSURE

A fair trade was on yesterday in cotton and prices moved within a range of 21 points. There was buying at the opening attributed to shorts and trade interests which was satisfied by moderate hedge sales, which have fallen off in the last few days, due presumably to low prices inducing farmers to hold their cotton back, as a result of the president's prosperity plan. At noon prices were around 9 points above the previous day's close, but the finish was with futures in Chicago 2 points net lower to 10 points were higher, the most lower deliveries being up only 1 point for the day. New York prices were unchanged to 4 and 2@4 points higher. Spots in New York were 5 points lower at 5.80c. New Orleans was 5 points higher at 5.50c, the same as Galveston and Houston. Liverpool closed 8@9 points net higher. Prices follow:

Top yesterday, $6.50; average, $5.75.

Combined receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 100; hogs, 9,000; sheep, 2,000.

The second largest Friday hog receipts since last March were dumped as the market yesterday and prices reacted rapidly soon after a slow early opening. Light weights suffered most on the break and closed 15@ 25 lower, while most others ruled 5@10c lower.

The extreme top for 265@280 lb butchers remained steady at $5.80, but the general average moved down 5c to 5.20. Buying of better grades of light butchers by larger houses late helped to hold the average price up. Most of the 3,000 left in the pens at the close were inferior grades. Outside demand was fair, taking about 60 per cent of the receipts.

October Bids Raised.

Buyers raised their bids for medium and heavy grades of October hogs to $5@5.50 on the futures market yesterday without attracting an offer to sell. Numerous bids of $4.50 were made for December and January contracts, but the lowest offer was $5.00. It was cleanup day in the cattle pens yesterday and the market, as usual on Friday, was a "catch as catch can" affair, although the more important sales were in line with the previous session.

In strictly choice steers were available, but some good 974 lb averages were sold at $9.40 and 1256 lb averages brought $9.80. Few were good enough to pass $9.00. Many southwestern steers came in yesterday, many of them of plain quality. A string of 1,071 lb yearlings averaged 996 lbs at $5 and 50 averaged 1038 lbs at $5.. Corn fed steers from that section sold at $8.25. Cows were steady, while others ruled weak to lower. Calves showed 25c more.

Lamb Market Uneven.

The lamb market weakened after a stronger opening yesterday and finished slightly under the general selling of the day before. Receipts were estimated early at 25,000, but when word of the expected increase arrived at killing stations where thousands of lambs were held in readiness to ship in, about 40 carloads were held back and late estimates were placing the count at less than 18,000 at Chicago.

Prices changed hands at the first sign of strength, going to packers at $5.25 and to city butchers at $6.50, but no top rangers stopped at $6.25 a hundred pounds and were similar to a shade lower rounds and were similar to 25@50c lambs at $7.75 at the high point of last week. Country buyers are after the feeding lambs at $5.00@5.25, but pay $3.50 reluctantly for good two and three year old breeding ewes.

Liberal receipts of hogs at Chicago the first Monday are estimated from 30,000 to 45,000. F. M. Sherwood, C. Kozelek, and W. Garrett marked hogs; S. Lund, J. M. Waters, and T. T. Rancher, 44,000; R. Trullinger and G. Brittain, 43,000; H. Wolfe, 42,000; G. W. Chandler, P. Allen, A. G. Rohner, and H. S. Truner, 40,000; J. C. Waterbury, 39,000; J. T. Brown, 38,000; F. W. Young, 36,000; H. Pattison, 35,000; and F. Knutzen, 34,000.

PROFIT TAKING ERASES EARLY WHEAT GAINS

Prices More Responsive to Supply and Demand.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat trade showed further evidence of breaking away from the influence of the stock market yesterday, and while there was a fractional advance early which carried prices to the best figure since Sept. 24, heavy profit taking, credited to local professionals who have been active on the buying side for several days, caused a reaction of 1¼@1⅝c from the best figures.

The finish was at net losses of ¼@⅝c. Toward the last there was some selling by local traders on private cables claiming that Russia had made liberal charters to ship grain to the United Kingdom. This was in direct contradiction to the rumors of Thursday claiming boats were being canceled.

Market Responsive.

Taken as a whole the wheat market during the last two days has shown more disposition to respond to normal supply and demand conditions and speculative influences than for many weeks. The setback from the best figures was not a surprise to many as prices had advanced 4⅝c from the low point of Monday, and with a double holiday ahead a number of the local operators were inclined to even up in their market operations.

Outside Trade Larger.

Outside speculative interest in the wheat market showed a rather pronounced tendency to increase, and there was rather persistent buying during the day. According to trade gossip several leading local professionals are now operating on a fairly liberal scale on the buying side, and there are expectations that all breaks will find good support. December finished at 48⅛c to 48⅜c, May 52⅝c to 52¾c, and July 52⅞c.

A manifesto favoring an import duty on wheat and the quota system announced by one of the leading political parties in England was largely responsible for pronounced strength in the Winnipeg market, which closed ⅛@⅞c higher with December closing at 53⅜c in Canadian funds. Houses with continental and seaboard connections were active buyers and export sales of around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas were reported in all positions during the day. Hedging sales checked the upturn. Buenos Aires December closed at 43¼c, a net gain of 1⅝c for the day in the face of a decline of ⅛c in the exchange rate.

Strength in North America on Thursday and prospects that an import duty might be imposed caused an advance of 1@1¼d in Liverpool, but owing to a higher exchange rate the gain was 1⅝@1¾c per bu with December closing about 54¾c, based on sterling at $3.87.

Drought in important sections of the winter wheat belt is not being entirely overlooked as a market factor by traders, as around 9,000,000 acres are estimated as being in the dry area, and the forecast failed to indicate any rain of consequence during the next few days.

Corn Shows Easy Tone.

While there was some buying based on the strength in wheat early, the corn market eased readily later on local selling and the finish was ¼@1c lower with December at 35c, May 39⅛c to 39¼c, and July 40¼c. The country continues to sell only corn rather freely to arrive, local handlers booking 160,000 bu during the day, and there was 275,000 bu sold to go to store. The eastern demand continues slow. Weather reports from the main belt were favorable, with cutting progressing rapidly, and a few scattered cars of new grain are now being received daily at terminals.

Profit taking in oats more than offset commission house buying and the finish was ⅝@⅞c lower with December closing at 22c, May 24⅝c and July 23¾c. The country sold 31,000 bu to arrive during the day, but the basis in the sample market was somewhat firmer.

Action of the rye market was a disappointment to the bulls and the close was ⅞@1c lower with December at $1½c and May at 41c. There was nothing heard regarding export demand.

LARD MAKES SMALL GAINS

Lard was bought by shorts and sold by packers yesterday. The latter paid no attention to the decline in hogs, with large receipts at western points, and supplied the buying of distant futures. The disposition of the trade is to get out of the October and into the December and January and a little changing is on every day. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 6d lower. Export clearances from the seaboard were only 296,000 lbs. and of bacon, 1,057,000 lbs. No attention was given to bellies and prices were nominally unchanged. Prices follow:

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Considerably better support carried butter and egg futures upward on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, gains of ⅝@⅞c being recorded in butter and ⅝@1½c in eggs. Potatoes were about unchanged. The opening in eggs was easy with November dropping ¼c to the previous all time low made earlier this week but later heavy covering started a market and new buying appeared. The covering has been rather heavy throughout this week and despite the unfavorable tone of storage news, opinions appear to be more favorably inclined toward the market. There were 12,000 cases less eggs removed in the four markets than on the same date last year. Butter news continued strongly bullish and buying, which has been lax all week, suddenly improved. Sales: Butter, 1,270,000 lbs.; eggs, 3,144,000 doz.; potatoes, 960,000 lbs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A majority of operators in the grain trade favor higher prices for wheat and are disposed to buy it on weak spots. They recognize that no big advance is to be expected at present, but say that prices should work gradually higher. Commission house trade has picked up in the last few days and there were more buying orders in the pit yesterday for wheat, corn, and other grains than for a long time past. Bulges are being taken advantage of to secure profits and the trade is looking for more constructive news. Action of the stock market in holding a good part of its advance helps the grain trade. There is one factor, however, that is being closely watched, and that is the conditions in Russia.

Sentiment in corn was more mixed. Buyers of the previous day were the main sellers yesterday. The country sells cash corn in fair volume on every advance and the consumptive demand is not increasing in proportion to the enlarged offerings. Cash basis on white corn eased yesterday but on yellow mixed corn remained steady. There has been good selling of corn against buying of rye. The largest traders in corn, however, are understood to be bullish.

The Russian five year plan for next season calls for a 30 per cent increase in wheat acreage, but it is expected by some of those in close touch with the situation that the plan will fall considerably short of the goal set, as they do not believe Russia is prepared to carry out such an expansion program in wheat acreage. Broomhall reports that grain shipments from Russia have been gradually decreasing since the week of September 19, when they were 6,066,000 bu. and further decreases are expected in the near future.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

General Motors Outlook.

Declaration of the regular General Motors quarterly dividend on the common stock is expected at the November meeting. The company's officials are optimistic over the outlook for next year, in spite of the current reduction in production and sales.

Third Quarter Prospects.

The speculative fraternity had its first inkling of just how poor forthcoming third quarter corporation statements may be expected to shape up with the appearance of the United Fruit figures. This company reported net after depreciation, but before federal taxes, of about $300,000 for the September quarter, compared with $3,613,000 in the previous quarter and $10,550,000 in the same period last year. For the nine months net was about $7,000,000, against $11,650,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Wall Street Surprised.

Wall street found itself little short of astounded by the proportions of the drop reported in brokers' loans for the week. The decrease of $171,000,000 was the heaviest for any week since Nov. 12 last year, when a drop of $219,000,000 was disclosed. Loans, now barely above the billion dollar mark, are the lowest for any time since 1922.

Ideas on Railroads.

The vigor of the railroad share advance increased expectation of an early decision, and a favorable one, by the interstate commerce commission on the higher freight rate application. Some Wall street people who lately have been buying railroad shares say that should the roads obtain no relief in higher rates, or insufficient relief, they will get something from wage reductions, or, failing that, the government will provide such credit aid as will be necessary to prevent financial collapses.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

"In all southern areas of the prairie provinces threshing is practically completed but in the northern districts it has been delayed by rain, and grain there will suffer depreciation in grade," says the Bank of Montreal crop report. "The estimated average yield of wheat is 16 bu and that of oats, 25 to 30 bu."

"Field work had been delayed in western parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska owing to lack of rain and unless it is received soon a further decrease in acreage is anticipated," says the Modern Miller. "Other sections east of the Rockies are reported to be in good condition. Harvesting of spring wheat in the Canadian northwest is nearing completion and threshing is well along."

Sowing of wheat is progressing rapidly over the eastern half of Kansas, where there is generally sufficient moisture, according to the government weekly crop report. General deterioration in condition of late crops resulted from an unseasonably high temperatures and absence of rain in Oklahoma last week. Seeding of wheat is progressing in northwestern portions with some fields up to fair stand.

"Only summer fallow wheat is in satisfactory condition in this territory," says a message from Atwood, Kas., to Lamson Bros.

HAY DOLLAR HIGHER

Local commission houses advanced their quotations on Friday around $1 per ton on timothy and its mixtures with clover or grass; arrivals were still holding around the same levels as they were the fore part of the week, with 12 cars of timothy and 1 each of marsh hay and oat straw on track.

Gets Contract to Supply Pennsy Road's Electricity

New York, Oct. 9. — Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power company of Baltimore has announced the consummation of a twenty year contract for power with the Pennsylvania railroad, covering the entire electrification requirements of the Pennsylvania system from the Susquehanna river at Havre de Grace, Md., to Washington, D. C.

PRICES ON CURB HOLD UP AGAINST PROFIT TAKING

New York, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Curb stocks generally held well against profit taking today. Final prices were irregular, with net changes narrow.

Several industrials and specialties improved considerably and there was a scattering of advances in the utilities, although the more active members of that group eased off under realizing. Oils were firm.

Small losses in Electric Bond and Share, United Light A, Brazilian Traction, American Superpower, and Associated Gas A were offset by improvement in Middle West Utilities, Niagara Hudson, Tampa Electric, American Gas, and Consolidated Gas of Baltimore. Commonwealth Edison was heavy, but Duke Power, another thinly traded issue, rose nearly 9 points.

Gains of a point or slightly more by Walgreen, Van Camp, Gulf Oil, Deere, and Dow Chemical were widely exceeded by Singer Manufacturing, Parker Rust, and Great Atlantic and Pacific. Ford of Canada B rose more than two points.

Insull Utility rallied a couple of points in the investment trust division but United Founders reacted, losing half of yesterday's one point rise.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money rates are quoted by Chicago banks as follows: Customers' commercial loans, 4@5 per cent; collateral loans, 4½@5 per cent; brokers' loans, 4 per cent; commercial paper, 2¼@2¾ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 1⅛@1¼ per cent on thirty to ninety days' maturities. Chicago bank clearings yesterday were $49,800,000, compared with $73,300,000 a week ago, and with $79,400,000 a year ago.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Call money steady, high 2, low 1½, ruling rate 1½, close 2 per cent. Time loans steady, 60 days 2, 3-4 months 2⅛, 5-6 months, 2¼ per cent. Prime commercial paper 2⅜ per cent; bankers' acceptances firm; 30 days 1⅛-1¼; 60-90 days 1¼-1⅜; 4 months 2¼-2; 5-6 months 2⅛-2⅜ per cent. Bar silver 29⅛c.

Gulf States Steel 5½s.

I have a $1,000 Gulf States Steel company 15 year 5½ per cent sinking fund debenture due June 1, 1942. I paid $980 for this bond and I notice that it is now down. Please give me advice about it.—E. R. S.

Gulf States Steel company is the second largest steel company in the south. During 1928, 1929, and 1930 the company modernized and expanded its plants in Birmingham, Ala.

In 1930 gross sales were $8,374,722, the lowest reported in the last six years. Net loss before bond charges was $489,902. Bond interest and amortization totaled $325,433. In 1929 net profits before bond charges and federal taxes were $1,722,502. Charges in 1929 were earned 7.54 times, against 5.55 times in 1928 and 8.07 times in 1927.

In the first half of 1931 operating income was $36,353, against $444,380 in the first half of 1930. For the June quarter alone operating deficit was $26,624. For the six months to June 30, 1931, net loss after all charges was $520,684, against $3,537 for the corresponding 1930 period.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $5,831,556 and current liabilities were $2,867,302. Working capital was $2,964,254, against $8,446,487 on Dec. 31, 1929. Cash was $544,152, against $555,491 the year before. Columbian Carbon company is the largest producer of carbon black in the United States. It also produces natural gas and gasoline.

REALTORS RAP "UNNECESSARY" SPECIAL LEVIES

Protest at Improvements Not Needed.

BY AL CHASE.

Realty men protested at what they term "unnecessary special assessments" and also condemned unsightly billboards at a meeting of the subdividers' division of the Chicago Real Estate board, held at the Palmer house. Resolutions on both subjects were adopted. Le Roy J. Keneval, sales manager of the Frederick H. Bartlett Realty Co., prepared the special assessment resolution, which was unanimously approved by the realtors present at the luncheon.

LE ROY J. KENEVEL

It states that an important factor which is affecting the problem of taxation is the additional burden of special assessments caused in many instances by the installation of improvements not entirely necessary at the time they are made and which could much better have been deferred until the property is needed for development purposes.

It also points out that there are many special assessment items for the year 1930 now unpaid and delinquent, and that considerable numbers will accrue as a result of 1931 special assessments.

Warns of Dangers.

"The grave danger of this practice of assessing property for street improvement is twofold," the resolution states. "First, it discourages property owners with ownership of property, causing inability and failure to pay general and special taxes, thereby throwing the additional burden on towns, counties, and other property owners.

"Second, failure to pay assessments kills the market for special assessment bonds, as proved by lack of bids for bonds of this character now offered for sale to investment houses."

The resolution then states: "We do hereby protest the installation of any improvement that must be paid for by property owners by means of special assessments for reasons heretofore set forth and recommend that only such improvements be made that are absolutely necessary for immediate comfort, convenience, and use of property owners who must pay for same, and to disregard all petitions for water, sidewalks, sewers, street paving, etc., secured by or through contractors or material firms and to consider only petitions originating with property owners."

Rap Unsightly Signboards.

The signboard resolution, prepared by Paul Angell of Krenn & Dato, Inc., and read by Percy Wilson, chairman of the division, is as follows:

"Whereas, there exists subdivisions on which are located unpainted and unrepaired and very often obsolete advertising signs, subdivision offices and street signs, and the general public using the highly traveled roads along which these subdivisions lie receive an impression which is detrimental to the entire subdivision interests, and

"Whereas, it is possible to correct such impressions by painting and repairing or doing away with all such advertising signs, subdivision offices, and street signs, be it

"Resolved, that a copy of this resolution and a letter regarding this situation be mailed to each member of the subdividers' division, and a letter be mailed to all others interested as owners or operators of any of the properties on which the above condition exists, and be it

"Resolved, that each member of the subdividers' division assume the responsibility of using his own personal influence and efforts in bringing to the attention of such owners the above situation."

Farm Board Wheat Now Moving Out for Export

Wheat held by the Grain Stabilization corporation recently sold for export to Brazil, Germany, and China, is being loaded out rapidly. It is announced that twenty-nine steamers with full and part cargoes are to be loaded at Atlantic, gulf and Pacific coast ports within the next few weeks. It is estimated that the boats will carry 7,250,000 bu of wheat and possibly more.

It is understood that the farm board recently turned down bids for large quantities of wheat that were considered relatively too low.
